Subject: CHDC Project Intercept History - 1979...

Hello Kai,

I have been doing more thinking about Project Intercept in 1979 and people whom I had in my life and now in hindsight I really regret that they ever came into my life. Many of these people back then in continuing my career really were nothing more than strangers who tried to befriend me at the time and then threw a wrench in everything that I tried to accomplish in my life and in my work.

This is regarding our previous phone conversation of my contracted employment at Project Intercept in 1979 of my first research job right out of college after graduating from Sonoma State University in 1977. I was hired by Kate Jenkins, Program Director. This was later taken over by Joan Guissi and when she left by Jim Nagel. I indicated that I thought these people had some affiliation to ACORN.

You mentioned that the CHDC & Project Intercept founder George Ortiz is still hands on at CHDC albeit retired. I can remember when it was George Ortiz back in the 1970's who took a report to the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors meeting and had the backbone to tell them that if they didn't do something about the Latino gang problem in Sonoma County right then, that in 10 years they wouldn't even want to live there! If I recall it was about 20 years later than that that Sonoma County leaders even recognized that gangs existed in Sonoma County. I believe you mentioned that Chris Paige who has been with CHDC since its onset in the 1970's is still available for history of CHDC in the farming humanities aspect of this non profit program.

Another incident back then and includes another person who was hired by Project Intercept in 1979 or 1980, was a woman who had just served a term in prison for armed robbery. She was from San Francisco and then lived in Rohnert Park. Her name is Gala Dalrymple. She later went on to work at the Sonoma County D.A.'s office. She was involved with attorney Jeffrey Dunham and to a man by the name of Dino Marino. She had some association to my old neighborhood in Santa Rosa, Sonoma County where I grew up that was part of Santa Rosa's Little Italy or Little Sicily off of Davis Street, DeMeo Park and the W 9th Street area and where the old Michele's and Lena's restaurants were and are located. I believe she told me she was of the Genovese crime family or possibly it was the Gambino crime family. Both of these mafia families have included the recruitment of gangs in their dealings in drugs and human trafficking - more of a cartel rather than that of the organized crime family structure of the American Mafia Commission. This was demonstrated when Paul Castellano was gunned down and executed by John Gotti because Paul Castellano of the Gambino crime family did allow drug dealing in the Gambino crime family and John Gotti was dealing drugs. The Bonanno crime family DOES NOT have any affiliation to gangs in their business or in any high level business protocol. Gangs are not recognized by the American Mafia Commission. There seems to have been infiltration into the American mafia by street thugs and underlings. These same people are anti American, revolutionaries and terrorists.

After my departure from Project Intercept in 1980 or 1981, Gala made it a point to keep in touch with me. We actually went on a trip together and flew charter in November of 1983. There was a global mafia war going on in the United States at the time. Gala and I flew charter first with a stopover in London, England and then landing in Frankfurt, Germany. We then took the eurorail train from Germany to Austria, down through Italy to Brindisi and then a transportation boat to Athens, Greece. We wanted to go to Sicily but because of the global mafia war, we went to Athens, Greece instead.

We did visit the Greek Island of Paros and then we chartered our return flight from Germany to the United States. Duration of this trip was approximately 2 weeks. I met a Syrian man in Greece. At dinner one night he pointed out to me his uncle who was a very bad man. His uncle resembled pictures of Hussan Hussein. This Syrian man's name was Yosef Alnoufal. Gala had an accident and suffered a concussion in the motel room while in Athens, Greece about the time it was getting close for us to depart, so she stayed for approximately another one week and half to two weeks before returning home. She had befriended a Greek man by the name of Psyches and his family while in Athens, Greece. After she returned home my correspondence with Yosef Alnoufal was abruptly stopped. I told Gala about this and she said she was writing to him now. I was under the impression that she stole this relationship I had with him and he had been turned against me for some reason.

From what I understand Gala Dalrymple caused so many problems within the families in Sonoma County that she and her roommate Lenice were told to leave California and never come back. They did move in 1987 to Wyoming and to the Montana areas. I have lost touch over the decades but she and Lenice did try to contact me and physically came out to my business H&M Budget Foods located at 15320 River Road in Guerneville, Sonoma County, CA.

Do you see what I mean about these particular people who throw a wrench in everything that you do. Any time you try to do anything or if you discuss your business with other people you know and they discuss your business with them or become subject to their unwanted invasiveness, they ruin everything for you. These people are really sick, inbred, part of a dark cabal, satanic and this is who they are. They are just driven to get their own way all the time. I believe they are also associated to ACORN. All these people who were instrumental in throwing a wrench into my life continually and entering my life, I'm sure did the same in Project Intercept and funding and taking over Project Intercept. Gala Dalrymple is such an ongoing person.

When I was married to Matt Martinez and we bought a commercial building at 15320 River Road in Guerneville, Sonoma County, California sometime in the 1990's, all of a sudden out of the blue, Gala, Lenice and Lenice's father came into the business which we had a county license for: H&M Budget Foods. I was surprised to see them because I knew that she was forced out of California and was never to return to California by the American Mafia Commission. She wanted to talk to me outside by myself. She told me that I had to leave my husband, Matt Martinez, because I was in great bodily harm of some sort and I needed to leave with her right then. Instead, I became angry and told her to leave, that I wasn't going anywhere with her and she needed to go, to leave California and to never come back again! She said she and Lenice were there to visit Lenice's father who owned a home in Petaluma, Sonoma County, CA. I believe he was ill and died shortly after this visit. I didn't want anymore of her unwanted attention or drama. I was not part of her world and as far as I was concerned she never left the mafia. Gala did try to call me after that one more time or for me to return a call to her and apparently my husband at the time, Matt, had answered the phone and asked me if I wanted to talk to her on the phone or to accept the phone call. I remember I told him, no. I told him to tell her not to ever call me or contact me again.

Getting back to 1979, early 1980's... Project Intercept - CHDC (California Human Development Corp.)

During this time Gala told me that her uncle "Walter" was on the mafia commission and he was the brother of her mother, maiden name Aiello. Gala's maiden name was Schwatzel. She was of German and Italian descent and was originally from Twin Falls, Idaho. She told me she had been in the life, meaning the mafia life and was a representative for her uncle in mafia business globally and especially in South America. Drugs I believe was primarily the trade she was involved in.

As it turns out (she is the one who told me all of this later) that there was a man by the name of Meyer Lansky (he had the same spelling and surname that I had) and he had been on the American Mafia Commission. He was the only Jew on the Commission and the rest had all been Italian. She said that certain people were interested in members of this family because they were very very smart people.

When we went on our trip to Europe, especially in Italy, Gala would point out how to recognize mafia everyday activities that were going on which I never knew of before. For an example: a man in a suit and carrying a brief case visiting and going in and out several small family run stores as a means of collecting protection money. Gala was only supposed to give me a glimpse of what that life business was about. She was never to enter my life personally, take it over and separate me from my own family and friends. She told me she had been the first woman ceremonied into the American Mafia syndicate.
This was totally unimpressive to me, if she was an example of this representation of what the mafia life is as a business representative. Gala was totally self absorbed, coveting, vindictive, mean, obnoxious and had no boundaries in ruining your life or ruining anything positive to get whatever she wanted out of her contact with you. This all happened when you weren't getting "blind sided or blind sighted" by her at the same time.

Gala Aiello Schwatzel (or Swatzel) could very well have been groomed as a witch for the Mothers of Darkness Castle, the Amerois in Muno, Belgium or as a witch from a castle in Italy or Sicily somewhere as well as for the Nazi Black Occult of the Wewelsburg Castle. This is a patterned behavior in society by these witches. They are satanic and they are very sick. They ruin everything and you can't get rid of them!

They never stop doing this, ever!

Heidi Meyer

The Delgado drug cartel was the biggest drug cartel in Colombia, bent on world domination. It was originally led by Don Delgado, who died in an coordinated bombing. The leadership then passed on to Fernando Delgado, who was assassinated together with his eldest son in his Chilean mansion. After that, the leadership passed on to Fernando's nephew, Rico Delgado, and after his death, to his younger brother, Hèctor Delgado.

History

The Delgado Empire was founded in the volatile-cartel business of the 1990s in Colombia, lead by the infamous Don Delgado. With the pressure of the Colombian government on the cartels, Don Delgado's compound was bombed by the military, leaving only his wife and two sons, Héctor Delgado and his planned successor Rico Delgado alive.

Leadership soon fell to Don Delgado's brother, Fernando Xalvador Delgado, who moved the cartel to his old vineyard in Chile, possibly because of the drug wars fought by Pablo Belisario Ochoa, and his cartel at the time. In 2004, Fernando, together with his eldest son, Manuel Delgado, were killed by Agent 47, under the orders of the ICA.

This marked a five-year hiatus in the history of the Delgado cartel, when Rico mysteriously infiltrated and joined the Moreno Cartel, the biggest cartel of the southern hemisphere, and one of Providence's main assets, until 2009. By then, Rico betrayed them, assembled his younger brother Héctor, his former uncle's chief chemist Jorge, and his childhood friend Andrea to build up the Delgado cartel once again.

Rising at an extremely fast rate, the Delgado's and the Moreno's remained in a stalemate for about 10 years until Rico ordered the murder of Chico, the younger cousin of the Moreno Cartel's leader Esteban Montoya. The Morenos tried to crush the Delgados in retaliation, which only resulted with Rico Delgado partnering up with the Shadow Client and his militia, in exchange for information on the killer of his uncle, and help with the destruction of the Moreno Cartel.

Already becoming the number-one cartel of Colombia, Rico planned on becoming the biggest cartel in the world. This, however, was once again stopped by Agent 47, who eliminated him, Jorge Franco, and Andrea Martinez in their headquarters of Santa Fortuna, Colombia. After the deaths of the three, Héctor Delgado assumed leadership.

Champions Addressing the Opioid Epidemic through Hospitals

Hospitals are on the front lines of our efforts to address the national opioid crisis. ONDCP has recently engaged with a number of innovators and pioneers who are developing effective hospital-based approaches to the epidemic. These include:

- Dr. Gail D'Onofrio, who developed and evaluated protocols for buprenorphine induction in the emergency department and linkage with primary care at Yale New Haven Hospital. Dr. D'Onofrio is currently leading a National Institute on Drug Abuse-funded clinical trial replicating the protocol in EDs in Baltimore, Cincinnati, New York City, and Seattle. More information is available here.
- Dr. Edward Bernstein of Boston Medical Center, who recently launched the Faster Paths to Treatment program, an opioid-focused urgent care service coordination unit for people who have overdosed or have an opioid use disorder (OUD). This program is funded by the Bureau of Substance Abuse Services.
- Dr. Traci Green of Boston University and Michelle Harter of Anchor Recovery Community Centers, who launched the AnchorED, a project through which recovery coaches from Anchor Recovery Community Centers are available 24 hours per day, 7 days per week to engage overdose survivors in all Rhode Island hospital emergency departments. ONDCP continues to track progress of this project as it expands to include the Anchor MORE (Mobile Outreach) program, which deploys peer recovery coaches from Anchor Recovery Community Centers out into the community.

Innovative Approaches to Recovery at Local Fire Departments

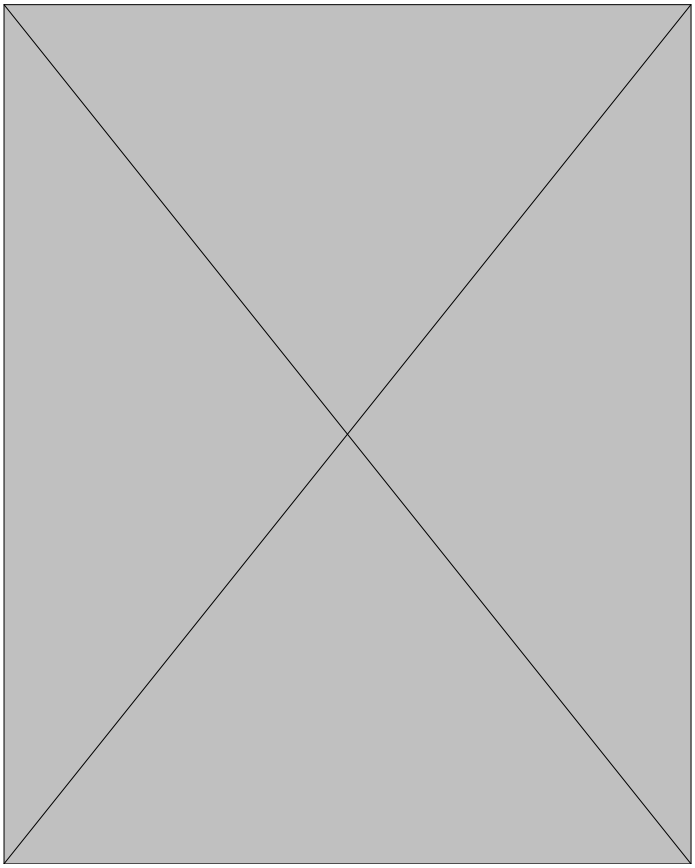
ONDCP Acting Director Richard Baum was recently briefed by the creators of two innovative fire department-led initiatives to address the opioid epidemic. Safe Station, a program developed in May 2016 by the City of Manchester, New Hampshire, welcomes people seeking help for addiction at any of the city's 10 fire stations, where they will be given a brief medical assessment to determine if hospitalization is required and handed off to a recovery coach or case manager for direct linkage to treatment. Within its first year of operation, the program has helped over 1,600 people seeking help for opioid use disorder or another substance use disorder.

Launched in 2016, the Revere, Massachusetts, Substance Use Disorder Initiative (SUDI) fields a team consisting of a fire fighter, a recovery coach, and a harm reduction specialist who conduct door-to-door follow up visits at the homes of overdose survivors and provide them and their with families information and resources including overdose prevention and naloxone training and kits, and offer to assist individuals in accessing treatment. The initiative is housed in a central office and coordinates the city's public health and public safety efforts in response to the opioid crisis.

ONDCP is reaching out to these and other innovative initiatives to learn from their successes so their models and best practices can be quickly replicated in communities across the country as we work to address the ongoing addiction and opioid epidemic.

Have a promising practice to share? Email your model to OIPL@ondcp.eop.gov

Meet Helen Hernandez, the Administrator of the Drug-Free Communities (DFC) Support Program



The Drug-Free Communities Support Program is the only Federal youth substance us prevention program that directly funds communities. By directly funding community coalitions working to prevent drug use, the White House, Congressional leadership, and ONDCP are able to get a real-time check of what is happening on the ground all across the country.

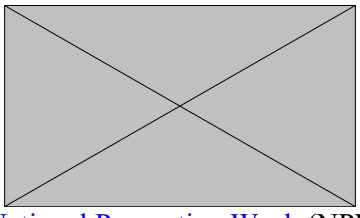
As the Administrator of this national program, Ms. Hernandez's main job is to ensure that DFC-funded community coalitions have the tools and resources they need to be effective in identifying the local youth substance use problems in their communities and developing their local sustainable solutions. With that guiding principle, she oversees the $95 million budget appropriated by Congress, which is currently helping support 698 community coalitions nationwide. Since a key part of her job is making sure the funds are being used effectively and efficiently, Ms. Hernandez oversees the National Evaluation of the DFC Program, including the development of the new data collection system so coalitions will – for the first time ever – get a snapshot of how they are doing, and the day-to-day management of the program.

In 2010, Ms. Hernandez enlisted in the U.S. Public Health Service and was stationed at the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration's Center for Substance Abuse Prevention as a Public Health Advisor for the DFC Program. In this role, she was responsible for the day-to-day oversight of DFC grantees in Connecticut, New Hampshire, Ohio, and Puerto Rico. In 2013, she joined ONDCP as the manager of the entire DFC Program.

"My experience working with the leaders at the local level, who are boots on the ground, has given me a unique perspective on what community coalitions need from ONDCP. As a DFC Project Officer, I had the opportunity to speak and visit with coalitions and understand what their challenges were and together we would brainstorm on the best possible strategies and solutions. At the time, my impact was just with those coalitions I oversaw. I took the lessons I learned and used them to guide how I work, how I advise ONDCP about drug policy, and how we make this program more effective. I know firsthand that community mobilizing is hard work but we have been able to accomplish a lot, and our national evaluation demonstrates that." The February 2016 National Evaluation of the DFC program showed prevalence of alcohol use by middle school youth declined by 26%, prevalence of marijuana use declined by 14%, and prevalence of illicit prescription drug use declined by 11% from the first to the most recent data reports across all DFC coalitions ever funded.

Prior to joining the Federal government, Ms. Hernandez served as a Health Educator with the Miami-Dade Area Health Education Center as a breast cancer awareness and prevention advocate, where she delivered over 300 bilingual trainings to a primarily youth-based audience. Ms. Hernandez earned her Bachelor of Science degree in Health Education from the University of Florida, and received her Master's in Public Health with a concentration in Community Health from Florida International University.

Get Involved in SAMHSA's National Prevention Week, May 14–20, 2017



Join ONDCP in recognizing National Prevention Week (NPW). Hosted by the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA), NPW is an annual observance focused on increasing the public awareness and action to prevent substance use and promote mental health. Each year, communities and organizations across the country come together to raise awareness about the importance of substance use prevention and mental health promotion. This year's theme is "Making Each Day Count."

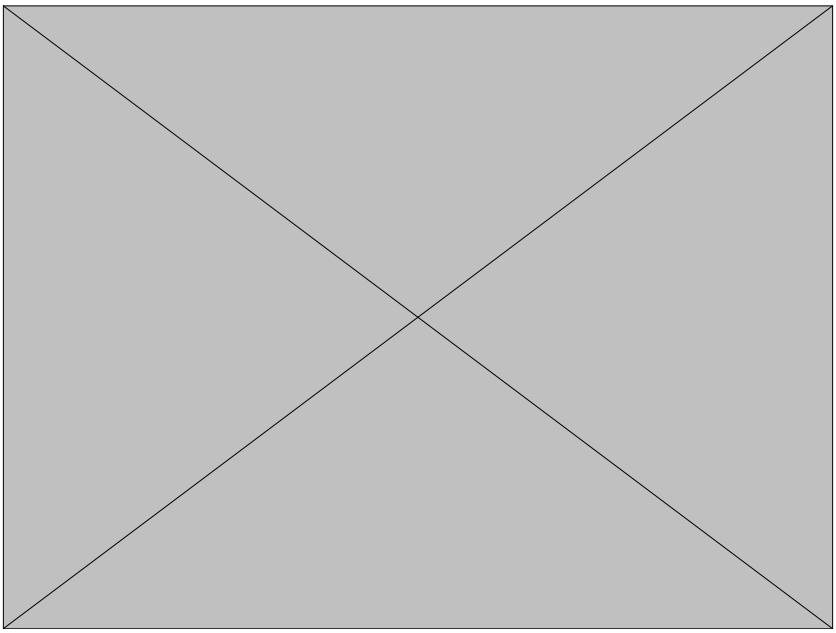
Thinking about or already planning an NPW event? Check out the NPW Planning Toolkit for ideas and free resources. For more information about NPW 2017 and how you can get involved, visit SAMHSA online.

National Cocaine Coordination Group leads interagency team to Colombia

Associate Director Eric Talbot led an interagency team to Colombia in April for meetings with Colombia's new Vice President, Oscar Naranjo, and other senior officials. The team presented the recently released U.S. government estimates of the dramatic rise in Colombia's coca cultivation and cocaine production. Colombian officials noted the ongoing demobilization of the Revolutionary Armed Forces of Colombia presented an opening to provide security and economic opportunities to farmers in regions of significant coca cultivation, and outlined their plans to reduce coca cultivation through a combination of incentives for voluntary eradication and forced eradication. Mr. Talbot described worrisome increases in cocaine use in the United States and the urgent need for progress in reversing recent trends. He reinforced the U.S. commitment to cooperate to reduce coca cultivation, as well as cocaine production and use.

To address rising cocaine supplies before use in the United States rises further, ONDCP stood up the National Cocaine Coordination Group in the fall of 2016 using existing, in-house expertise. The cocaine group has led a multi-disciplinary team of interagency experts that are developing a balanced policy framework across all aspects of the growing cocaine threat. The group is focusing on three primary action areas:

- Identifying at-risk people and communities
- Dismantling major cocaine trafficking organizations
- Reversing the spike in coca cultivation and cocaine production.



While in Colombia, Mr. Talbot also received a tour of a Colombian National Police facility near Bogota that highlighted the strong cooperation between the U.S. and Colombian Governments on eradication missions.

Mr. Talbot has 15 years of experience in counterdrug and border security efforts, including time on the National Security Council staff, at the Department of Homeland Security, and as a civilian with the Navy. He has a long background in Latin America as well, having deployed to Mexico and Colombia supporting U.S. interdiction and law enforcement operations.

Responding to Opioid Use Disorder in Correctional Settings

ONDCP continues to engage with Federal partners to advance the use of medication-assisted treatment (MAT) – medications approved for the treatment of opioid use disorder (buprenorphine, methadone, or naltrexone) – for people involved in the criminal justice system who have this disease, and it's encouraging to see an increasing number of criminal justice systems that are beginning to implement MAT. ONDCP is championing MAT adoption in the criminal justice system in a number of ways, including by:

- Working with the Office of Justice Programs, its Residential Substance Abuse Treatment (RSAT) Training and Technical Assistance Center, and the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration to provide MAT training and technical assistance to state correctional departments receiving grants under RSAT program;
- Supporting the development of MAT learning materials and partnering with the National Institute of Corrections (NIC) to designate Centers of Innovation. ONDCP staff recently had the opportunity to participate in training offered through an Innovation Center in Kentucky to see firsthand the technical assistance being provided to other states and counties. NIC has provided this training to staff from more than 13 states to date, with additional trainings scheduled for June of 2017.

Peru & the United States: Sharing Strategies Between Drug Control Agencies

On April 24, Carmen Masias, Executive President of Peru's National Commission for Development and Life without Drugs (DEVIDA), met with Acting Director Baum and representatives from the Office of Policy, Research and Budget, National Cocaine Coordination Group, and Office of Intelligence. Meetings between ONDCP and its Peruvian counterpart agency occur on a regular basis, and though Acting Director Baum and Ms. Masias have met several times before, it was the first meeting since Mr. Baum was named as ONDCP's Acting Director.

Their primary focus was to discuss the drug control strategies of each country. In the U.S., the National Drug Control Strategy is written by ONDCP, the President's lead drug control policy experts. Ms. Masias and Acting Director Baum were able to share information on issues plaguing each nation, and discuss the impact that increased coca cultivation has on both countries. Peru continues to seek partnership and guidance on matters of drug demand reduction and alternative development, and ONDCP is honored to work with this important foreign partner.

Reminder: ONDCP is currently developing the first National Drug Control Strategy of the Trump Administration. Please submit your feedback to 2017strategy@ondcp.eop.gov

DAYS UNTIL THE 2018 GENERAL ELECTION: 355

Good morning, everyone. I couldn't help it, dear Flashees, when I saw that Jon Huntsman Sr. gave about half of what has been given to that Harry Reid chair at UNLV -- $1 million. Jon Huntsman Sr., eh? The same guy reported to be Reid's source on that false claim about Mitt Romney's taxes. What a coincidence.

What's below: Laxalt's defenders, Vegas council vote, Morning Flash nuggets and a trivia question about a big day in the life of a Nevada pol.

COMING UP

Dean vs. Danny: The new, daily pro wrestling reality show continues. Heller attacks Tark for being with Moore after all the allegations of sexual misconduct and yet he has Velcroed himself to the president despite the sexual misconduct allegations. And Tark is with Moore and doubled down on it Wednesday. No wonder the Republicans are worried about the Nevada seat.

IF THE CAVALRY WERE F TROOP

There has been a lot of adverse coverage – it's one of the best-read things on The Indy site – of Attorney General Adam Laxalt's inexplicable vote against pardoning an obviously innocent man after deep reporting by ProPublica, a judge's finding of innocence and a unanimous high court and the governor voting for it. Laxalt tried to abstain, then meekly voted no, as if his campaign team was in his ear screaming, "Tough on crime, Adam!"

On Wednesday, his campaign released a letter signed by only five GOP legislators, including Laxalt Lapdog Michael Roberson and influential Assemblywoman Lisa Krasner. Their arguments include rehashing the grisly murder, hanging their hats on a letter from the DA's office that is not accurate (Fred Steese did not twice plead guilty to the crime) and declaring: "Do we want a governor who is willing to be attacked for standing on principle and standing up for public safety, or someone who will kowtow to a pro-felon, weak-on-crime agenda? The answer to that question should be obvious."

Really? Nowhere is their mention that Laxalt tried to abstain –- abstain! – on a pardon. This is not an insignificant fact.

Instead, they call the governor and the entire Supreme Court weak on crime. And I'd guarantee none of the signers read the ProPublica piece or the case file. Playing politics with a man's life. This is a character issue.

A lawyer actually familiar with the details of the case, Dayvid Figler, responded on Twitter:

"So MANY things not mentioned. Like if prosecution is so righteous for such a brutal murder why would the DA offer a deal that let him out right away?"

And: "Also why do they keep saying he plead twice? Did no one read the file? He plead once, by Alford, which was a real prisoners dilemma. Wait years in custody for another trial prosecuted by same DA office that already suppressed evidence? Roll those dice or get out is not tough call"

So is Team Laxalt worried about his issue? The answer to that question should be obvious.

On an unrelated note….

THE CITY OF LAS VEGAS MAKES IT EASIER FOR EMPLOYEES TO ABUSE THEIR POSITIONS AND RUN FOR OFFICE

The Las Vegas City Council, on a split vote this week, said city employees do not have to take a leave of absence to run for office. By coincidence, liaisons for city council folk want to run for their bosses seats.

Ricki Barlow lamented that he had to give up PERS and vacation days to run. The humanity!

Newcomer Steve Seroka made the outlandish argument that appointed officials should not be able to run while serving because they would have unfair access to information etc.

Bob Coffin said it opens a can of worms and wondered how staffers might react to other staffers who might be their boss.

A COUPLE OF MORNING FLASH NUGGETS

Nugget No. 1 – Halfway through the month, the Republicans have cut into the Democratic voter registration lead in Clark County. Only 200, so let's see what the total is by the end of the month and if they keep their monthly wins intact.

Nugget No. 2 – ICYMI, Hutch is going to argue the recall cases in court, all the way up to making the constitutional argument before the Supremes that you can't do what the Democrats did, which is get people to remove signatures. (And apparently they were mean and nasty, too! As opposed to the recalls themselves!) Oh? So it's a guy looking for publicity and being a shameless partisan who has no expertise in the subject vs. one of the top election lawyers in the country (Marc Elias)? OK. Bottom line: Might not matter. This whole thing comes down to how the Carson Seven feel about this. Period.

Subject: RE: PERSONAL AND CONFIDENTIAL FOR REVIEW BY MAYOR GOODMAN RE: TERRORISM THREAT

The Honorable Carloyn Goodman:

Thank you for taking the time to respond to my correspondence, I know you must be extremely busy managing the Las Vegas. My correspondence was initiated due to the following:

1) The email sent to Commander Ted Moody was due to 2 incidents I witnessed, and due to my experience and background in the area, Las Vegas will be attacked throughout 2016, that is multiple times. I am stating this based the overall plan of ISIS/Al Qaeda (the Sunnis). I originally warned officials in what is now DHS and the revamped DOJ in 2001. Due to the situation in Belgium, France, and the rest of Western Europe, the officials there have now reached the same conclusion (as have respected US experts such as ex CIA agent Bob Baer, former Bin Laden desk chief Michael, Scheuer, Generals Michael Flynn and James Mattis)
https://mail.google.com/mail/u/0/#label/5TH+RAIL/15401613ca94fba5.

2) Terrorists have already reconned the Strip and the Fremont experience, and law enforcement should act on that absolute. I have described what the attack would look like below.

3) The two incidents consisted of an Arab male 40-45 years doing reconnaissance on the Strip, he specifically was concentrating on the crowd in front of the Bellagio fountains. Certain behavior from the individual and his party clearly indicated he was on a scouting mission. To be direct, there were numerous incidents of this type of behavior by Middle Easterners during this period, it was extraordinarily heavy.

The second incident was far more alarming. During a 114 degree day, an Arab male in his early 20's in the company of a his wife in a hijab was timing the traffic and lights on the Strip while communicating with someone via text. The behavior of the male and his wife was highly unusual for an Arab male, especially outside of the Middle East. Due to certain other issues concerning the males behavior and the position of certain equipment, it became clear the individual had been through irregular military training/bomb training.

Based on the my having grown up around such individuals, they have made the decision to execute their plans.
All of the individuals mentioned in my prior email connected to Nada Prouty, La Shish restaurant, and the incidents in Michigan, I know or have met. Again, it is a mistake to underestimate the size of their network and their desire to carry out their missions.

WHAT THE ATTACK WILL LOOK LIKE (NO ONE HAS SEEN THIS INFORMATION AS OF YET)

Las Vegas represents a priority terrorist target for ISIS and Al Qaeda due to the every possible Western country represented by tourists, the celebrity factor, easy access, and most of all the design of the 2 main tourist sites being a terrorists dream. Some obvious, some not so obvious.

FREMONT EXPERIENCE

As you can know the Fremont is actually a several blocks long tunnel with openings at either end, but no escape routes in between. Terrorists are well aware of the site, and are well aware that the civilians at the site are comprised 95%+ of tourists. The site is a shooting gallery. There will be no escape for the tourists and they would be running directly firing squad while trying to escape at either opening.

DEATH TOLL ESTIMATES:

MINIMUM: 250-300 dead X3 injured
MEDIUM: 500-700dead X 5 injured

LAS VEGAS BLVD

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=9IEnm-SIDj0&nohtml5=False

Due to the physical design of the Strip, the attack on the site will be even more devastating than Fremont.

The Strip has sections that:

-Do not allow pedestrians to cross the street-giving them no escape route from an attack, and have barriers to civilians fleeing back into the casinos in many sections.

-There are sections of the Strip that corral tourists in an extremely densely packed areas (from the Linq to Harrah's with no escape routes to the North, South, East, or West-this design is not consistent, but exists throughout the Strip. If any tourists survived these areas it would be a miracle of God.

-Escalators on the Strip represent the same threat from terrorists as the sections that corral tourists, there are just more tourists in these areas. The tourists won't be able to go forward or backward. An even worse factor is that the escalators lead to elevated walkways that cross the Strip with only one option to escape the terrorists attackers-jump off into the traffic below from a height of over nearly 2 stories. Each of the walkways and each of escalators would be filled with bodies surpassing the Bataclan in Paris 13 November 2015.

-The motorized traffic on the Strip represents another huge danger to tourists. The traffic is backed up to the point it takes 30 minutes to an hour to go a mile during peak seasons (Spring/Summer). With special events it is even worse.

The traffic light system allows for terrorists to disable the motorized vehicles at the North and South ends of the Strip and attack the buses, autos, and tourist vehicles that cannot move North or South, nor can they go East or West due to the casinos. The San Bernadino terrorists had a similar plan for the freeway system in California (as sent in the previous email http://www.latimes.com/local/lanow/la-me-ln-san-bernardino-marquez-20151217-story.html). They may simply drive vehicles to the designated traffic lights, or use their vehicles as truck bombs. They may attack tourists in vehicles to achieve the halt of moving traffic, I would be ready for any scenario and be prepared to have kill units ready to address the attackers all the way down to tow trucks. Speed is the key to disrupting the plot and negating the physical damage at either target location.

- The casinos are no different than the Taj Mahal and Oberoi hotels Mumbai that were attacked in 2008, with the exception there are far more targets. Terrorists have decided to attack the casino-hotels for the same reason they attacked the hotels in Mumbai https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=eBKTekkYy-E&nohtml5=False:

-Unlimited victims

-Mumbai is the entertainment capital of India, Las Vegas touts itself as the entertainment capital of the world

-The casinos are large and with thousands of tourists on the main floors gambling, dining, checking in, and going to shows-any attack on a Las Vegas casino would dwarf the number of victims killed the Mumbai attacks. The attacks will be simultaneous and involve several hotels. Again, it would take police days to find and remove all of the terrorists.

HOTEL DEATH TOLL ESTIMATES:

-MINIMUM 500 deaths X5 wounded

-MEDIUM 1000 deaths X3 wounded
ISIS and Al Qaeda will make good on their threats, as they always do, and the results are devastating in terms of loss of life and losses to the economy.

The terrorists will use assault weapons and bombs (with ball bearings, nails, rat poison etc). They may attack police stations and hospitals to slow the response of law enforcement. And of course they will go after McCarran, I would not depend on the TSA, again it is not a security entity http://www.huffingtonpost.com/2013/12/23/airport-security_n_4494308.html and as I warned the various pilot and steward unions in 2015, terrorists will go after them on buses, and the security free areas of the airport.

COUNTERMEASURES
-Their view of security MUST be PRE-ACT don't react. Enacting extra/proper security after the attack serves as a double negative in terms of human losses and economic losses.

-There are security measures that can be taken without alarming the public or interfering with tourism.

-Intelligence and an EFFECTIVE "see something, say something" apparatus that works. Currently it does not locally or nationally. The smallest piece of information can prevent a disaster as with Times Square http://www.nydailynews.com/news/crime/times-square-vendors-lance-horton-duane-jackson-alerted-cops-times-square-car-bomb-article-1.445824, and if James Woods had been correctly questioned and his information ran to ground from 1 August 2001 https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=l0lzZvCNkJw. Terrorist will buy weapons from gangbangers/criminals and this provides for an opportunity for them to be exposed.

-A real world active shooter counter plan based on worse case scenario for the Strip and Fremont. All officers must have access to rifles (not that officers have to necessarily carry them, but they should be close by) http://www.chicagotribune.com/news/ct-campus-police-rifles-20160409-story.html. There must be plans to clear hotels infiltrated by the terrorists, speed is the important factor.

-The standing policy must be the Strip and Fremont 1st in the event of an attack and in preventing an attack-other parts of the city are on a "get to when possible" status.

-Las Vegas needs more police-50% more police officers, the time is now to get that funding from the federal government, but if tourists have to pay a little more, I would not hesitate to add that tax.

-The Strip has to divided into security sections with a commander in charge for the sole purpose of putting down terrorists. This should be every 4.5 blocks maximum. There are numerous ways to achieve this without alarming tourists-they would have no idea of the increased security. The same works for Fremont adjusted to the size of the site. This allows for law enforcement to be in charge of the situation even after an attack has begun by limiting the mobility and space that the attackers can operate in. That is if attackers are limited to the area where their attack began, it will create disruption to their plan and more importantly confusion. They will be confined to a small operating area, leading to less casualties and their quick neutralization.

-More undercover agents for intelligence and physical security.

-Snipers and surveillance units staged covertly throughout the sites mentioned.

With the Sunnis (ISIS and Al Qaeda) engaged in their "Tet Offensive" it is not if but when Vegas is attacked, that will be either/and in the Spring, Summer, or Fall of 2016.

WHAT TO LOOK FOR

Despite what most intelligence, law enforcement, and the public thinks, ISIS and Al Qaeda have complete and vast networks within the US to support their fighters. The terrorists see themselves as and are part of a large army based in the Muslim world, and supported by nations and prominent individuals such as the Saudi Royal Family as the links below indicate. The Canadian estimate from CSIS is more accurate, but still underestimates the true scope of the threat.

http://www.miamiherald.com/news/state/article1973642.html

http://www.floridabulldog.org/2013/04/fbi-records-say-sarasota-saudis-who-fled-had-many-connections-to-individuals-tied-to-911/

http://www.miamiherald.com/news/local/community/miami-dade/article4395183.html

-To this point, the EU and US authorities responsible for security from the political, intelligence, and security/law enforcement entities have failed to see the big picture, and worse the grand picture, and this is lethal. This has to be corrected. Law enforcement on the local level are fighting an army, and ISIS and Al Qaeda are Islamic Special Forces. It was always their plan to use the battlefield experienced gained by fighting Delta Force, Navy SEALS, Army Rangers, etc. and then turn those battle hardened fighters lose on American civilians. They plan to win or lose the war North America, specifically the cities of America and secondary towns. This network provides for additional intelligence gathering.

-The attackers and their handlers would have visited Las Vegas several times http://www.nbcnews.com/storyline/brussels-attacks/suspect-admits-being-brussels-airport-attacker-known-man-hat-prosecutors-n553461

-They will be educated, despite the myth of the opposite. Usually engineers or involved in the heavy sciences.

-They will have local contact(s) for logistic support, these individuals will be business owners, Mosque leadership, etc. They will have access to Western Union/Moneygram as part of their business. Ownership of small stores/grocery stores allows for access to the money transfer systems and materials such as acetone and peroxide in bulk.

-They will own restaurants as in the case of La Shish https://www.fbi.gov/news/stories/2007/november/prouty_111307, a convenient meeting place that does not arouse suspicion. The restaurant and stores also allow for endless money laundering and financial support of the terror network.

-As with the Sarasota case, there are very high level visitors to Las Vegas involved in plotting attacks in Las Vegas i.e. a Godfather. There is an example of this I can discuss with the utmost confidentiality. There are hundreds of people that know of real world terrorist plots directed at Nevada, and are not going to say 1 word. When I stated that everyone who knew Nada Prouty and the owner of La Shish were involved with Hezbollah, that is literal. Although, Hezbollah are Shia's and ISIS and Al Qaeda are Sunnis, they do work together in the US as they do abroad, i.e. the Palestinian Sunni military wing Izzedine Al Qassam working with Hezbollah's military wings, which go by several names. Remember their sole objective is to attack Americans and Westerners and the instructions that the actually attackers have been given is, "Go to where the Whites are." As has been the case from the Bali bombings in 2002, through Paris, and Brussels.

There is more information, however I would move to take such issues as Black Lives Matter and school shooters off the plate of law enforcement. This can be easily done with the information in my possession and new tactics. Las Vegas has the opportunity of leading the way in this area, and at the same time expanding its budget by hosting the conference I warned was a necessity in 2015. As you can now see, my warnings, particularly the warning to get prepared for the ISIS/AL Qaeda onslaught was unfortunately accurate. Law enforcement is far behind the terrorists and this should be corrected immediately (with the proper equipment, personnel, and new legislation on the local and state level to prevent attacks and maximize law enforcement effectiveness).

Thank you and good luck.

Sincerely,
Jerome Almon

Mr. Almon, thank you for sharing your concerns about terrorism and its potential impact to the Las Vegas area. I have recently expressed my own concerns directly with Secretary Johnson of the Department of Homeland Security. As a city, we invest in many resources to ensure the safety of the community and the visitors we serve. As you know, we cannot prevent every possible act of violence or terrorism. We work very hard to ensure communication, cooperation and coordination with our local government agencies, the private sector and our state and federal partners to be prepared to achieve our 5 mission areas: prevent, protect, mitigate, respond, recover from terror attack.

I am forwarding your concerns to our Joint Terrorism Task Force and the Southern Nevada Counter Terrorism Center for further investigation. If you have knowledge of specific planned targets, modes of attack, or dates and times of planned attack, please file a SAR (Suspicious Activity Report) as soon as possible with our Counter Terrorism Center. This report may be sent anonymously if so desired."

Subject: PERSONAL AND CONFIDENTIAL FOR REVIEW BY MAYOR GOODMAN RE: TERRORISM THREAT

The Honorable Mayor Carolyn Goodman:

I am contacting you concerning the information on terrorism below. Due to 2 incidents in Las Vegas and my familiarity with terrorism, I sent the email below to a Las Vegas commander, and have since contacted other commanders, corporate, and a Las Vegas politician with my concerns. Unfortunately, the response was as inadequate as the response the FBI agents, civilians, and well known individuals experienced when warning top DC officials about 9/11. This is why I and others are so reluctant to contact authorities concerning the issue, and specifically why I hesitated to contact the Las Vegas commander with my original warning (due to what I witnessed in Las Vegas). If it were not for the fact so many EU, Australian, Chinese, and Indian friends/kids that I know visit Las Vegas I would just ignore the situation and let it happen and then say I told you so to the media. (I am also covering myself by having proof that I did warn every authority responsible for public safety in Las Vegas, the US, and abroad.) I assure the situation is far worse than you know, and I would not underestimate it or the ruthlessness of the enemy. They have already picked out their targets and made their decision to carry out their missions no matter what. They will have to be physically stopped by and aggressive and competent campaign led by competent and aggressive law enforcement/intelligence officers.

Due to the seriousness of the situation, my ties to the EU, Australia, and other countries, I have warned Ministers that I have had previous contact with and others this week concerning issuing a travel warning to their citizens. I have not mentioned the city of concern, however as of next week I may have to. I do not want to get involved in the situation at all, I like 3 other top terrorist experts are fed up with the incompetence and politicizing of terrorism that has led to the disastrous attacks from 9/11, Paris, San Bernardino, and now Brussels. (The experts are former Clinton & Bush terrorism expert Richard Clark, former CIA agent/CNN consultant Bob Baer, and former Bin Laden desk Chief Michael Scheuer.) We have all reached this point due our being completely correct in our forecasts and strategies for addressing terrorist threats, and the individuals and entities that were listened to being dead wrong each and every time. An audit of my record on forecasting terrorist trends and events to be irrefutably accurate, and an audit of the "experts" to be irrefutably inaccurate.

The individuals that are sought after to address terrorism in the US by the government and media are not actually experts-are you aware of that? If you are counting on US or local counter terrorism officials to save Las Vegas-I would stock up on body bags, you're going to need them.

Those responsible for anti-terrorism measures in Las Vegas and the US as a whole have no idea what they are up against, nor do they have a clue as to how to negate the threat-hence why ISIS/Al Qaeda continue to beat them to the punch.

EXAMPLES:

-The only people that did not know that Ms. Prouty a terrorist mole were the Directors of the FBI and CIA (literally) that fought over her and gave her the highest awards the agencies has https://www.justice.gov/archive/opa/pr/2007/November/07_nsd_910.html http://www.cbsnews.com/news/the-case-against-nada-prouty-26-03-2010/. There are a lot more Nada Prouty's in the US committing the same act. Ms. Prouty proves a Middle Easterner cannot be vetted, there are many just like her in the US that have US passports, driver's licenses, and they are in no way who the government thinks they are right down to the names on those documents.

-This terrorist pioneer lived 2 miles down the road from me http://articles.chicagotribune.com/1985-06-19/news/8502090070_1_lebanon-david-berry-nabih-berri

I grew up here and know or have met all of the people connected to this issue and I assure you the situation is far worse than is suspected by authorities. I have met and talked to many of the individuals responsible for stopping these terrorists, and trust me-the terrorists are far ahead of the opposition.

http://www.mlive.com/news/detroit/index.ssf/2014/08/report_more_residents_in_dearb.html

https://www.google.com/webhp?sourceid=chrome-instant&ion=1&espv=2&ie=UTF-8#q=plane+terrorism+dearborn+

LAS VEGAS CONNECTION

http://www.wxyz.com/news/local-news/investigations/happys-pizza-headquarters-raided-by-irs-criminal-division-dea (Las Vegas has a franchise and a lot more connections to Detroit/Dearborn than you likely are aware of. It is a case of this https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=JcZHSGyos6g)

I have talked with the founders of this business several times and this case was strictly about terrorist funding as in this case http://www.mlive.com/lansing-news/index.ssf/2011/12/report_several_southeast_michi.html.

In closing, my original warning should have been ran to ground, the fact that it wasn't is proof of just how off and far behind Las Vegas is in addressing Paris and Brussels style attacks (this week every Minister from every foreign country I contacted responded with a phone call or/and email seeking further information because they now "get it".) To be direct, authorities in Las Vegas and the US have their heads in the sands regarding the issue of terrorism and must change their strategy and tactics while they still have a chance to do so. With Las Vegas having the worst inherent terrorist vulnerabilities of any major city, Las Vegas should be much more precise and aggressive in avoiding such an attack (which is possible). An attack in the manner that I have forecast would dwarf the Paris body count by a minimum of X5, however it will be worse. The intelligence, physical security, and counter measures of Las Vegas are an invitation for an attack, and the terrorist know all of the cities vulnerabilities as well as I do.

No casino pit boss, dealer, etc. could have the record of the anti-terrorism leadership and still be employed in Las Vegas, it is the equivalent to them "losing" track of a million dollars every day for a year and the casino owners and Gaming Control Board accepting any explanation he came up with as legitimate. This would never happen. The see something say something just does not work as Brussels, Paris, and San Bernardino prove with the number of people that knew and didn't talk for various reasons. The #1 reason is that people simply have no confidence in authorities taking proper action. Examine my experience with the issue, each time I am putting my life and business life in danger by even contacting authorities in Las Vegas, and not once has anyone so much as responded or asked me how and why I reached the conclusions I have reached. This is a mirror of the warning by James Woods cited below regarding 9/11-it all could have and should have been ended right then and there. The mindset of law enforcement/political leadership on the municipal level must change, at the end of the day the battle and ramifications are like all politics-local.

As you know the odds always catch up, and luck runs out. Vegas' luck is about to run out in the worst of ways. If you would like the scenario I war gamed, I will forward it upon your request.

Thank you and good luck-

Sincerely,
Jerome Almon

Sheriff Moody:

Thank you for you response and time regarding the issues below:

1)THE TERRORISM ISSUE:

As you are certainly aware of, Al Qaeda has Las Vegas as one of its top 5 main targets, specifically the Strip. I am certain that the area has been scouted and targets selected based on my experience in the area and my observations of individuals and groups while in Las Vegas. They will hit what is most familiar with them, and Las Vegas is very familiar to them. (For example the mastermind behind 911 graduated from the University of North Carolina http://edition.cnn.com/2002/US/South/12/19/al.qaeda.aggie/ .

ACTIONS THAT WILL BE TAKEN BY TERRORIST:

A) http://newyork.cbslocal.com/2014/03/19/al-qaeda-magazine-calls-for-car-bombings-in-u-s-new-york

B) http://www.cnn.com/2013/09/18/world/asia/mumbai-terror-attacks/

RECOMMENDED COUNTER MEASURES:

A) Special response teams will not get to the site in time, and must be in place PRIOR to any incident in the immediate area.
B) CONTAIN AND KILL-officers must be prepared to neutralize the terrorist at the point of attack, i.e. the attacker cannot be allowed out of the building, off the block, or off the side of the street where they attacked (Las Vegas Blvd is a perfect kill zone for a terrorist due to its geography, such as the inability to cross the Strip in certain areas combined with the natural traffic volume.) Point blank, these are the same individuals and groups that Delta Force, Navy SEALS, Army Rangers, Airforce Commandos, and Marine RECON/special forces faced on the battlefields of Iraq and Afghanistan-they are not to be under estimated. (Essentially they are Islamic special forces.) They are going to attack sooner than later.
C) Las Vegas should have its own anti-terrorism unit on the level of the NYPD's anti-terrorism unit, NYC learned its lesson the hard way 911-YOU CANNOT DEPEND ON THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT TO PROTECT YOUR CITY. As you will see in the information from the Canadian CIA (CSIS) and the response to that information from both that unit and myself, the federal authorities are grossly out of touch with reality regarding terrorism.

I assure you this is not close to the worst.
I am well versed in this area as you will see due to my studies/duties as a university guest lecturer, and personal experiences however most of my experience is first hand. I left college and joined the US Army, several individuals that I attended college with left college and joined our enemy and did fight against the US in numerous war zones around the world. These individuals are supported by groups in America, and know the country as well as you and I do.

Secretary Napolitano-

I am writing you concerning a pervasive and unacceptable sanctioned policy within the Department of Homeland Security of the sexual harassment of female traveler's entering the United States. I have been informed by numerous female travelers coming to visite me in the United States from Norway, Germany, and especially Canada that they are routinely harassed by male DHS inspectors. I find the allegations completely credible due to the carbon copy stories from the females, and the profile of the females- all attractive teen or near teen girls traveling alone. The harassment is so overt that it is impossible that supervisors are not aware of it, do not witness it, and in fact sanction it.

I have a substantial amount of both academic and field study experience in this area, and have personally witnessed the practice by DHSemployees myself. This is should be addressed in the open without hesitation. It is insulting to the female travelers, and also opens up US females to the retaliatory actions by the security personnel of other countries-which I assure has happened. Certainly with all the alleged dangers facing Americans and the gaping holes in border security at the various ports of entry, DHS does not have the luxury expending valuable energy and tax payers money on sexually harassing female travelers.

I thank you for your time and consideration and will await your reply.

Sincerely,

Jerome Almon

website_comments: I have had previous contacts with your office issues (specifically Bonnie Tischler). I feel it is necessary to reintroduce this information (I will send a copy of thisinformation to US Senator Carl Levin.) I have made compliants against certain procedures and individuals at the Detroit/Windsor border crossing. I also corresponded with the Canadian Minister for Immigration (Elinor Caplan) concerning the fact that even the supervisors at the Canadian border do not understand much of the information they need to concerning legitimate vs. false documentation. (I unfortunately am able to prove this point.) Meaning if say a person was on a wanted list -the Canadians often ask the person to interpret the information.
Finally the Detroit/Windsor tunnel. It is a disaster waiting to happen. Since the US checks cars AFTER they have entered the tunnel (as does Canada) -doesn't that defeat the objective of stopping a terrorist act in the tunnel? The check should happen before the tunnel is entered, and after-or the tunnel should be closed.

I originally warned a agent at a federal law enforcement entity of the threat on 9/11 and although he agreed I was correct, he took no action, stating he didn't exactly know what to do regarding the information, and that he was quite frankly stunned at the danger. Only when an individual drove through the tunnel with what appeared to be a bomb on his front seat did the politicians take the matter up, as you will see with NYC. The tunnel is in a far worse position than it was on 9/11 due to Detroit's economic collapse, the influx of more Middle Easterners into Canada, and this http://www.reuters.com/article/us-detroit-tunnel-bankruptcy-idUSBRE96O0RT20130725.

Tighter security at border hits snag

Legal issues may block U.S., Canada checks before crossing

WASHINGTON -- Checking travelers between the United States and Canada after they've crossed the border -- which some liken to checking airline passengers after they land -- is being scrutinized by officials concerned that bridges and tunnels could be vulnerable to attack.

Lawmakers are pressuring the U.S. Customs Service and Canadian officials to come up with a decision this week on whether the countries can swap inspection locations.

An alternative to paying a toll, crossing the bridge or tunnel, and then being scrutinized by Customs officials once inside the other country's territory is to do inspections before crossing.

Although the reverse inspection system is the only solution being lobbied to enhance infrastructure safety, the two nations haven't agreed on how to settle legal obstacles. An old idea revived by the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks, a revised system would involve numerous agencies in both countries in the decision.

"This reverse clearance proposal has a number of sovereignty and structure issues attached to it," said Michel Proulx, spokesman for the Canada Customs and Revenue Agency in Ottawa.

"There are a lot of players involved in all of this. It's difficult to get a sound, concrete answer. No one department or agency would be able to say yes or no."

There's little to stop someone who wanted to damage the Ambassador

Bridge, Detroit-Windsor Tunnel, or even Detroit Metropolitan Airport, if the crime is done before the perpetrator even gets to an inspection point, critics say.

Besides the human safety concern, destroying any one of the border-crossing points would do serious harm to the auto industry, one of the United States' economic engines, and many other businesses that rely on just-in-time delivery of material. Michigan had $70 billion in trade with Canada in 2000.

"Every time I drive through that tunnel, I expect something to happen," said Jerome Almon, a Detroiter who drives to and from Toronto at least twice a month.

"Osama bin Laden says the economy is what they want to attack, and you cannot find a more decimating effect than that bridge or tunnel on our economy. You will kill Detroit, it's over, goodbye. But think of the effect on the rest of America."

Firearms an issue

Aside from jurisdiction, the question of whether U.S. Customs agents should carry firearms in Canada is of particular concern to Canadians. Canada is known for being much less tolerant of guns than the United States.

"Our Customs officers are not armed and at this point in time we still feel there is no reason for them to be," Proulx said.

"We have a study going on right now to determine whether the tools they have are adequate to do their jobs safely and with full security. The U.S. (agents) are (armed) and definitely that would be one of the snags in the issue."

The preclearance concept does have precedent. U.S. Customs agents inspect U.S.-bound passengers at six Canadian airports so they don't have to be routed through Customs once they arrive like travelers on flights from every other country, said former Michigan Gov. James Blanchard.

He spearheaded the "open skies" agreement when he was U.S. ambassador to Canada.

The real stumbling block to doing this at bridges and tunnels will be working out how much authority each side is given to enforce the other country's laws, he said.

"You could always prevent (a suspicious passenger) from getting on the plane," Blanchard said. "The question is who arrests them, can they say 'I choose not to fly' then go home, or do we hold them?"

Sen. Carl Levin, D-Detroit, said he thinks all of the issues can be worked out.

"The only impediment here is bureaucratic impediment," he said. "Even though there's supposed to be an urgency after Sept. 11, there seems to be some unnecessary foot-dragging."

Levin and Sen. Debbie Stabenow, D-Lansing, sent a letter to Customs Commissioner Robert Bonner on Jan. 4, insisting on a progress report by Friday.

"It is obvious that inspecting vehicles for dangerous contents such as bombs or explosives after they enter our tunnels or cross our bridges is inadequate," they wrote.

Customs spokesman Jim Michie said he wasn't sure when a decision would be made on reverse inspections, but that it was being closely studied.

Tighter local security

Local authorities say they've taken the steps they can to bolster security.

Travelers who use the Detroit-Windsor Tunnel are no longer allowed through unless operators are certain they can make to the other side without backups, said Gordon Jarvis, president of the Detroit & Canada Tunnel Corp.

"If there is an incident and you need to get out, there is space for you to do so, and there are fewer cars in the tunnel at any one time," Jarvis said. "It also makes it much easier for us to identify when there are incidents in the tunnel."

Jarvis said reverse inspections are a viable option at the tunnel, despite the smaller queue area, compared to other crossing points like the Ambassador Bridge.

The owners of the Ambassador Bridge have installed new lighting, fencing and surveillance cameras, as well as armed security 24 hours a day, said Dan Stamper, president of the Detroit International Bridge Co. Stamper said the bridge company is paying for the extra security.

"We're not sure whose responsibility it is for the cost of security, but we are not in the position to say it's not going to be done," he said.

The bridge authority has completed plans showing that logistically, preclearance can be implemented on an interim basis within 90 days, Stamper said. In doing so, there would be the added bonus of huge efficiencies in traffic flow.

"The current six lanes that cross the border, two at the tunnel and four at the bridge, become traffic lanes and not parking lots," Stamper said. "It increases the capacity of both the tunnel and the bridge, a lot more than anything else we can do today."

Blue Water Bridge study

Bruce Campbell, the engineer manager of the Blue Water Bridge, said the proposal is being examined as part of a long-term security review of the span connecting Port Huron with Sarnia, Ontario.

With the Ambassador Bridge being the busiest U.S.-Canada entry point, carrying 12 million vehicles a year, the economic implications for the region are enormous.

"One 18-wheeler goes across that bridge every eight seconds," said Carmine Palombo, director of transportation planning at the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments.

The implications for the bridge and tunnel operators are significant as well.

"They're all looking at an out-of-pocket expense they hadn't anticipated," said Neil Gray, director of government affairs at the International Bridge, Tunnel and Turnpike Association, which represents toll agencies.

"Nobody wants to do a toll increase to reflect this, in fact I'm not sure anyone has proposed one, but it's an issue we are all having to think about."

Protecting airports is a concern as well, though most of the attention has been on protecting aircraft against air piracy, Capt. Duane E. Woerth, president of the Air Line Pilots Association, told senators late last year.

Noting that airports in Rome and Vienna have been hit, Woerth said he's worried terrorists could attack ticket counters, check-in facilities and lines of passengers waiting outside.

Airlines, bridges and tunnels are experiencing lower traffic flow because of leisure travelers concerned about terrorist risks.

Almon, the Detroiter who travels to Toronto on business, said he's a former combat engineer with the Army and he's concerned about how easily a carload of explosives put together with store-bought material could take out the bridge or tunnel.

"At the mouth of the Detroit tunnel sits General Motors headquarters, a terrorist would get two for one with that," Almon said.

The issue with the Ambassador Bridge is equally troubled, the owner has successfully blocked a new bridge being built. The issue too closely resembles the Dubai Ports issue https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Manuel_Moroun. Ottawa wrote me 90 days after my warning to CYA and because again what I warned them about occurred.

The largest portion of the trade comes through the tunnel and bridge mentioned https://www.commerce.gov/news/blog/2014/01/secretary-pritzker-highlights-strong-economic-partnership-between-usa-and-canada

Dr. Zagar-

Good to hear from you. I am sorry I just got to my email messages, I am working on several other huge projects that all come back to the migrant issue. I will have to hook up Skype, I don't know how it works to be honest.

The situation in the States is pretty dire. We are essentially at civil war with the country collapsing socially. All of the work that you and Dr. Feinstein did and your forecasts turned out to be 100% accurate. Simply put, America bet on the wrong people with the wrong plans and now we are getting our comeuppance.

I am against the re-settling of immigrants in the US or Europe, it will most certainly lead to more conflict in both areas and the Middle East. The only hope is establishing a safe zone in Syria and Iraq, which is as close to impossible as it gets considering the collapse of the basic structures and the radicalization of the factions. Electing George Bush was the worse event that has happened to the world since WWII. I will get on Skype and send you another email asap. I am moving to Berlin to work on a large social media project in the next 30-60 days. In the meantime I am sending these articles for your review concern my thoughts on the migrant issue. Would you be able to attend a conference on the issue of the migrants and school shooter issues in Europe or the US with all expenses and a fee paid to you?

The other issue I am extremely concerned about is a threat that would end Detroit, cost America 2 million jobs in a week, and plunge the stock market to below 2008 and 911 levels. The Iran deal was done in part due to Iran has 40,000 agents in or at America's borders prepared to attack if Iran's nuclear facilities were attacked. That is the good news, the bad news is the Sunnis have 3X that many agents in the US and are preparing for their "Islamic Tet offensive." With Russia, out of necessity intervening in the Syrian/Iraq war and the US govt. giving behind the scenes approval for the Russian-Iranian-Alawite axis which will inevitably bring in Israel and the US the Sunnis will go after the US and Canadians on their own soil in a much more aggressive and massive way. My assessment is that the Chinese will be drawn into the war due the unrest with the Xinjiang Province and the Uighars. The Islamic State (IS) has spread throughout Central Asia and will take Afghanistan and defeat the Taliban in the end unless there is a "mass war event." It is my contention that Putin has decided to that. He cannot lose the Syrian-Iraq War, he cannot allow the IS to continue to grow in the Central Asian Republics, and Afghanistan, and he is not giving up Crimea, and does not have the military resources nor money to fight a prolonged war. I believe Putin is planning to use a tactical/battle field nuclear weapon (NATO appears to be thinking that way on the Ukraine which is insane). Most of the intelligence guys that I respect believe that is the only way to stop the IS/Sunnis or to completely withdraw from the Middle East. What is your opinion?
Thanks-
Jerome

(My numbers on the size of the networks mentioned are accurate I assure you. 2 other respected security/intelligence officers that have a proven track record of accuracy, agree with me. The messages I sent to US authorities were more detailed and were sent in the Spring of 2014, and the Spring and Summer of 2015.)

Sir or Madam: I am forwarding the following information sent to first responders, due to its application to your industry. To be direct, I have warned your union several times since 9/11 of these very threats, and the actions of the leadership has not matched the threat. Unfortunately, this is the same conduct of law enforcement and political leadership regarding what is now a catastrophic situation. That is, the industry will suffer huge losses in both personnel and revenue due to the lack of taking prudent steps to pre-act rather than react to obvious threats. The only hope in negating or minimizing the threat is for the travel, hotel, and tourism industries along with the pilot and flight attendant unions (and their allies) to join forces and seek to have necessary security and industry support measures put in place without political consideration. The needed measures must be completely based on the real world security and economic threat that exists, and is getting worse by the minute. The losses France and Belgium are suffering are just the beginning, and minor in compared to an Egypt Air or Russian Sharm El Sheikh incident in North America or Europe. I assure you, the threat is far worse than is known even to most of the law enforcement community.

Sincerely,

Jerome Almon

Hi Katja,

I got your contact details from Marie at Freemuse in Denmark. My name is Scott Corben and I am a producer with Al Jazeera Television in London.

I am researching a piece on soldier in the United States and I am really keen to speak to a guy called Jerome Almon. I believe he is based in Detroit. Maries tells me that you may have some way of contacting him. If you have an up to date email or phone number I'd really appreciate it.

Look forward to hearing from you best regards,

Scott

-I am a university lecturer/expert on domestic violence, international politics, terrorism, and urban crime. I worked under global experts Dr.'s Mitja Zagar (Slovenia and co-author of their Constitution/Syrian refugee & security expert/Top EU negotiator), Otto Feinstein head of the Urban Agenda and author of Ethno-Development, Richard Mansbach-CIA consultant, and worked on the UN project at the University of Toronto the Delphi Project out of Belgium. Recommendation on a security issue led to DHS changing its border policy and NYC spending $600 million to correct a catastrophic security flaw. I have been the target of an Al Jazeera documentary due to my correct predictions as well as featured on the front page of the most visited Jihadist website on Earth for a decade.

-1 year tour in the first Iraq War, am a paratrooper, combat engineer (explosives expert, featured on A&E for saving my unit's mission during combat, and awarded directly from the Pentagon for saving my task force's mission), was drafted as a translator during the war and POW camp designer, taught my brigade basic Arabic language, numerals, and history.

I should not have had to wait and endure all of this, for this long, this is maddening!

Anyways, for Tonight

Joe Biden, you have to pick your running mate, as much as I want to pick Bernie, he is more of a policy guy, good for your cabinet, not good to draw a crowd and keep folk excited.

So here are your options and winning picks

Elizabeth Warren, it would be good for you to pick a woman, this will secure your women voters have a voice.

Kamala Harris, would be a play on my interracial relationship with TOM CRUISE which I have not decide if I will accept his invitation or not, he is too big a target to risk!

Pick from the others to build your cabinet, the Latino voice is a good policy builder and with any President, I find it best to use those who are on the platform with you to fulfill your agenda!

I am having major issues with the Mayor of Los Angeles targeting me, with police or without, please ~~be~~ mindful, I am behind those radios also. I find it very hard to trust any law enforcement official when a Governor exercises the right to arrest (or send police to detain) when you cannot have your way!

I close saying this, did the Government save Joe Biden son Beau when he died (was murdered) of course not, no one said a word about it!

Did anyone say anything when Congressman Danny K Davis grandson was shot (over shoes Pippen gave him, for Davis silence) or when Davis son overdosed (off drugs provided by Pippen)? The stories untold in the media.

Did anyone say a word when Hilary Clinton mother died suddenly, or when Hilary got a sudden blood clot?

My point exactly, my hope, faith and trust is in GOD and GOD alone...

My section 8 voucher expires on July 14, 2019, I will port into Santa Monica and attempt for one month to find housing, this is my final attempt to secure an affordably unit.

I refuse to procrastinate and prolong, with more delays... if we cannot close a deal I leave the country!

I have acted like a normal person at the following agencies St. Joseph Center in Venice and OPCC in Santa Monica, the staff are in this email, they can watch the debate with us tonight also!

I am not explain anything else, you call and explain who I am, they ask them to explain why I am having such a hard time receiving services that we approve!

I have known Tom Cruise since 198? Debbie hand picked him for me himself, he came looking for me in Chicago during the filming of Risky Business. His birthday is July 3 and we are on the beach in Santa Monica.

The NBA and Nation of Islam are not invited, you guys do not know manners, you don't show respect and this is not the venue to vent your political concerns, I do not want to marry Mustapha, I do not want to be a Muslim, finally I am tired of talking about that BS... I am not converting, you are not real Muslims and the real Muslims in LA laugh at you, the NOI is seen as a religion for FELONS just like the Candidates are reporting. 80% of the NOI are inmate with Felony records. Clean your own house before you come and dirty up mines.

Corey Booker is reading Mustapha, Obama, Dawn and Lisaraye trying to respond to me.. if I speak in a foreign language tonight, let it be French!

Back to work and I am not driving to Mexico, I will take the bus, LAPD has no reason to touch me, if they do, I want to know who will explain why, when I rank Federal!

Letter to my Government

Well, as the saying goes, I won't be holding my breath. This is how I see this "issue". I assume there are laws against drag racing in city neighborhoods. So people go to the racetracks.
There are laws against disturbing the peace in neighborhoods, so no one puts on loud rock concerts in cul-de-sacs. People go to the proper venue for loud rock concerts.
Fireworks disturb the peace in neighborhoods, pollute the air, and frighten animals as well as residents - so those who can't live without them should go to those designated places where fireworks can be enjoyed under the proper supervision. It just makes sense to me so I don't quite understand why it doesn't make sense to those who pass the laws. Why is disturbing the peace permitted on the 4th of July? And it's the legal as well as illegal fireworks that disturb the peace.
We're I to stay in town, I would get absolutely NO sleep and that means I would not be able to function the next day. I'm no spring chicken. But this isn't just about me. It's about all those people who agree with me who won't take the time to voice their opinion. Every pet owner I've ever talked to has almost the same problem.
Once again - not holding my breath.

I wish I could provide you with the addresses, but that would entail me patrolling my neighborhood every night and I cannot do that. I hear them from inside my house. If there were a ban on all fireworks in the neighborhoods, that would take care of the problem, but obviously, you have no intention of considering this plan of action. I am dealing with this problem as best I can. I purchased a "thunder coat" for my dog and I have drugs to give him if necessary, as a last resort. As I mentioned in my previous email, I am removing myself from the cacophony on July 4th, but I still have to deal with the errant firecrackers prior to that. And there is still the accompanying worry of illegal fireworks starting fires as has happened in the past as well as the clean up in my yard from all those fireworks that come flying over my fences. I suppose those who live in more affluent neighborhoods don't have to deal with this situation.

There are no benefits to be derived from fireworks other than that of entertainment. They have many undesirable effects including disruption of community peace and quiet, terrifying domestic animals, pollution of the environment and a waste of money. But change is difficult and America seems to only be happy celebrating her independence with loud, disruptive, polluting means.

At least where I'm going there will be no fireworks, which proves that not all politicians are afraid of change for the betterment of society.

Subject: Fireworks!!!

Dear Mayor Goodman,
Once again the nation's Independence holiday is nearing and already in my neighborhood people are shooting off fireworks. It's not bad enough that I have to leave town every year on the 4th of July to escape the fireworks, but now I have to endure them throughout the month prior to the 4th.
In a city that discourages any water usage that isn't absolutely necessary, dry conditions are quite the norm and in addition to the annoyance and disturbance of the fireworks, I have to worry about my house burning down while I am away. If fireworks were banned in the cities' neighborhoods, this problem would cease to exist.
Why can't you take that step, Mayor Goodman?
Year after year animals are frightened to death from the noise of the fireworks. Year after year people in many neighborhoods throughout the city disturb the peace with illegal as well as legal fireworks. The threat of fire is always imminent. Other states and cities have taken the initiative and banned fireworks in city neighborhoods, especially those drought stricken ones.
Why can we not follow suit here in our drought stricken city?

For those who cannot live without a fireworks display, they have the option of going to designated venues, which are supervised for the safety of all. Such is not the case in our neighborhoods.
I wonder if I will live long enough to see a mayor take the bull by its horns and bring this yearly chaos to a halt. Isn't the safety and protection of its citizens the primary focus of a city's governing officials?
I BEG you - please ban fireworks in all Las Vegas neighborhoods. PLEASE!
Every night I hear fireworks means another sleepless night for me as I remain awake to comfort my trembling little dog.
Respectfully,
Barbara Gurley
A resident of Las Vegas for 40 years.

Today, tribes' unwavering resolve to assume control over a greater number of programs traditionally provided by the federal government may in fact reflect the zeitgeist of the Trump administration. Subject: Time Off to Vote, Fake vs Real News, Pharmacists Gag Rule and More

Time Off For Democracy Act: Broad participation in elections is essential to a healthy democracy, obviously. The Time Off for Democracy Act guarantees employees a minimum amount of paid leave to vote on Election Day as well as unpaid leave to serve as an election officer, poll watcher, or campaigner on Election Day.

Fake news versus real news: A democracy cannot function when truth is irrelevant to political debate, when facts are manufactured at will, when voter persuasion is no more elevated than a schoolyard shouting match. But we've sunk that low. How did this happen and what's the solution? Read the latest IdeaLog, our blog intended to raise eyebrows and engage minds.

Voicing Our Values—Five Basic Rules of Persuasion: This is the second segment of our podcast series, which you can download and listen to at your convenience. It is 26 minutes long and explains five straightforward ways to structure arguments in order to successfully persuade our fellow citizens. To listen to or download the podcast, click here.

New report on Wage Theft: Walmart is still the worst wage theft offender, but a new study by Good Jobs First and the Jobs With Justice Education Fund shows that FedEx is second-worst, while banks—led by Bank of America, Wells Fargo, and JP Morgan Chase—steal workers' wages at an alarming rate.

There Might Be a Cheaper Drug, but Pharmacists Can't Tell You That: Pew's Stateline has a new story about pharmacy "gag rules," where a contract with a health insurance company prevents pharmacists from telling their customers about cheaper ways to buy prescription drugs. (But Stateline doesn't seem to understand that it's the insurance company, not the PBM, that's in control.) See also PLI's model bill, the No Gag Rule on Pharmacists Act.

2018 PLI Conference: Our State Strategy Forum will be held in Washington, D.C. on July 13-15. There are limited travel and hotel scholarships available for progressive state elected officials only. If you are interested, please contact mweiss@publicleadershipinstitute.org.

Subject: Thank you

Dr Dinello,

It's rarely healthy to be upset. I don't know why I chose to answer your call because I was out for a run in Manhattan I'm always carrying my phone. I should have thought about it.

I do appreciate the chance for the job. It may make you feel strange when I report to you the realities of my life. I wanted you to know a situation exists where I am harassed and threatened, fired, and sleep deprived by law enforcement and they refuse to let me confront the situation or explain.

I gave videos of myself being harassed in US Federal Court where they then sat me down and told me I was imagining it and threatened to put me on a psych hold. The video showing US court security saying hurry up and go harass that fucking asshole were indicative of threats using the name of the President of the United States Barack Obama and telling me to lull myself.

The Department of Homeland Security at the airport starts calling me a terrorist and telling me murder people and move to Mexico then continue to repeat it so I turned on my iPhone. The police were watching me on the surveillance cameras and wanted me to seem angry aggressive pissed off.

I have been beaten by police and told I am crazy and imagining being a doctor. All around cities I am harassed and watched on security and police video. It expands their purview. All kinds of people harass me and use their kids to harass me.

I have no privacy in my home and there is a loud ringing in my ear like the US Navy Yard shooter reported.

When New York Office of Professional Medical Conduct called me, Stuart Gang, I told them all of this. Everything.

Then Bill Fidell called me and there was a woman behind him saying "I'll suck your dick in a condom" and police have women everywhere repeating the same expressions which is basically a form of psychological conditioning similar to how we learn our names. Sorry if you are a little confused by the reality of torture in the United States.

I have been made homeless in several states, sleep deprived and police harass me using all my neighbors and try to psych commit me if I ask for help. My leg was broken by LAPD and I was driven lost with cuffs so tight I was bleeding for an hour. Then they forcefully injected me telling me I was imagining being a doctor. They tried to keep me in prison for life at MLK hospital and kept me cuffed after a judge ordered my release.

I have been threatened to confess while homeless to things I have never done.

Yesterday my Airbnb got cancelled and I was given another room with gay people as an alternative then as my rejection arrived they were doing drugs. The police are outside harassing me. Several people have come to me with hard drugs and the police have been involved.

I have won 3 conciliations from the HUD but I have proven it many more times. I have been going through this since Lenox Hill hired me then basically fired me on my first day for getting and tee yew for a Harvard position that never existed.

They forced me to work q2 staying until 7 pm post call then up at 3 am to see 50 patients before 7 am for no educational credit but PAs only worked 40 hours and NY state refused to help me and punish them.

Loud ringing sleep depriving me and people telling me to kill my self and others. I almost died in the ICU in 2009 with nurses telling me I deserve to die.

I have lust everything repeatedly and the fight I got charged in was3 rich men who were jealous I tried to run for President while homeless to stand up to sleep deprivation and torture.

I am drugged and sleep deprived harassed so forcefully I cannot defecate even with stool softener and ex lax. They tell me it is to block my sexual function and bodily noises so they don't have to listen.

I believe I had cutaneous T cell lymphoma because of forced drugging and almost died. I am in pain.

This is only a fraction of my true story and I am being sexually harassed by gay landlord and surrounded by drug use job rejection and told to kill myself by neighbors in the backyard.

If I ask for help they sleep deprived me and my landlord says nurses fromNYU plan to forcefully object me. My classmate got in the way if my run by stretching her leash across an entire sidewalk and several other women have done it repeatedly.

I am harassed on place rides and forced out of church and the grocery store.

That is the truth.

Cornelius O'Leary Jr MD

Friend --

At the end of this week, we'll be halfway through the 2017 Legislative Session! We're also coming up on April 14th, the deadline for new bills. And good thing, too - these politicians are churning out legislation like their lives depend on it! We testified or sent in statements on sixteen different pieces of legislation this week. That's a new high score!

Before I tell you what we were busy with this week, though, you should know what's coming up. To share your opinion on any of these bills with the legislators and committees reviewing them, go here and type in the relevant bill number. It'll send your message directly to the sponsors and co-sponsors. As some bills have more than ten sponsors, this is a great time-saver.

AB356/AB376 are very similar, both requiring the State to disclose any exculpatory evidence they may hold against a defendant. Due process requires full transparency; a jury cannot make a fair decision without a complete picture of the evidence before them, and any failure to disclose exculpatory evidence undermines the quality of their work and our justice system. The battle between defense and prosecution isn't a game in which to score points - these are people's lives, and truth matters. I strongly support these bills.

AB346 attempts to regulate small-scale child care (four or less children where money is exchanged) by mandating background checks and authorizing government inspections. Every civilization throughout human history has engaged in this kind of mutual, distributed childcare - your friend watching the neighborhood toddlers for a few extra dollars a month is not something the State of Nevada needs to regulate. We are also concerned about the potential privacy implications of Section 8, which would allow employees of the Division of Public and Behavioral Health to "enter and inspect any building or premises of a child care facility … at any time." Many of these these small care facilities are often located inside people's homes. This requirement is a violation of both the right to privacy and the Fourth Amendment.

AB303 bans private prisons in Nevada. While private prisons may initially sound like a good idea to many libertarians, the prisoners are not the customer - the State is. And the State chooses to cut corners at the cost of their prisoners' rights, liberties, and well-being every time. I think this is one of the most significant bills to come out of the Legislature this session, and I strongly support it. Private prisons are clearinghouses for state-sanctioned abuses of their own citizens - the worst kind of public-private partnership.

SB396, mentioned also below, was rescheduled for this week. This bill would prevent professional licensing organizations from taking disciplinary actions against their members for using marijuana- or hemp-derived products - for example, for marijuana massages. Thanks again, Senator Segerblom!

AB422 would transfer the state's medical marijuana program from the Division of Public and Behavioral Health of the Department of Health and Human Services to the Department of Taxation. It also (1) allows a medical marijuana dispensary to recognize a nonresident authorization for the medical use of marijuana; (2) eliminates the requirement that the nonresident authorization have an expiration date and be unexpired; and (3) allows written documentation from a physician to qualify as such authorization in certain circumstances. It's a large and complex bill, but looks promising!

SB402 bans the use of "corrective room restriction" (solitary confinement) for the purpose of disciplining or punishing a child in state facilities. I don't know who would lock a child in an empty room to "correct" or "discipline" them (the state, apparently?), but children are people with civil liberties, too - I'll support any reduction in the use of such an abusive act.

AB383 requires police officers to be trained in the constitutional and lawful use of force. While I don't normally like bills that increase spending on the police department, bills that spend money training cops how not to ignore the law while stomping on your face (and maybe stomp less) are welcome. Police shouldn't be frightening to the average citizen - but when excessive force is normal, fear is rational. This is another excellent reform from Assembly Ohrenschall. I'd recommend you support it using the form above.

Last week, we testified on or otherwise supported…

AB237, which abolishes capital punishment in Nevada. We cannot endorse this measure strongly enough, and I will be there to testify in its favor on Wednesday morning, when it's heard. The state should never have the power to end a person's life.

SB358, which would dramatically reduce civil asset forfeiture in Nevada if passed. Section 6.4 of this bill states that its goal is that "the public policy of this State concerning forfeiture of property is to… ensure that only criminal forfeiture is allowed in this state." This is a step in the right direction - hopefully toward the eventual complete elimination in practice of civil forfeiture in Nevada.

SB415 makes feminine hygiene products tax-exempt, the way other medically necessary consumer products are. It's a simple bill, but a good one. And I got to say "taxation is theft" while testifying in support!

AB326 and AB291 would require the Division of Parole and Probation and the Division of Public Safety to fully substantiate and provide sources for information related to the defendant's offense in presentence reports, which are used by judges to decide the weight of a defendant's sentence after conviction. Given the weight that these reports carry in determining the course of a defendant's life, justice requires that they be unimpeachably accurate. Hearsay or unsourced allegations would not be sufficient in a court of law and should not be sufficient in a report which determines a person's fate.

SB398, if passed, would protect blockchain technology from regulation or interference by the State of Nevada. Ensuring free and open access to blockchain technology will stimulate economic growth and cement northern Nevada's role as a burgeoning center for high-tech innovation. Government can never keep pace with technological change, and when it tries, inevitably slows the rate of innovation. The past twenty years of online innovation have demonstrated how free markets, unhampered by government control, can fundamentally alter and radically improve the way we live in ways we never imagined. The blockchain is an extremely promising new technology, and setting boundaries to protect it while it's still in its infancy is essential.

AB345 would prevent green energy generation for fewer than 540 customers from being defined as a "utility," removing it from the purview of the Public Utilities Commission. This would protect individuals, small businesses, and communities from bureaucratic control and overreach.

SB399 is a simple, common-sense measure giving tribal IDs equivalent status to driver's licenses for purposes of personal identification. Tribal IDs are issued by the federal government and contain at least as much identifying information as a driver's license. There is no practical reason they shouldn't be accepted.

SB218 creates a digital option for the mandatory posting of public notices. Under current law, public notices must be published in a paper newspaper. This bill allows them to be published exclusively online as an alternative. It also creates a special outlet for the purpose hosted by the Nevada Broadcasters' Association (and this is probably a handout to them) - but I consulted with Aaron Ford, and he confirmed that - as the bill text reads - other digital news outlets than theirs will also be allowed to post public notices.

A bundle of bills liberalizing the laws and regulations around nurses, physicians' assistants, and other medical professionals: AB115, AB116, AB265, and AB284. As there is a shortage of doctors nationwide, including in Nevada, expanding the regulations on what nurses are allowed to do is a prudent choice for patient and doctor welfare. Allowing nurses and physician assistants to perform additional duties provides more access to health care for the people of Nevada - and it lets doctors focus on the most critical issues, where they're really needed.

There's also a related bill, SB354, which extends broader reciprocity to licensed medical professionals in Nevada, excluding accountants, physicians, osteopathic physicians, or certain real estate and mortgage professionals. May draw licensed professionals from other states to Nevada. Nurses and several other professionals already receive reciprocity, but this bill strikes narrow language and replaces it with broader language.

And lastly, I went to the hearing to support SB396, which would have prevented professional licensing organizations for taking disciplinary actions against their members for using marijuana- or hemp-derived products - for example, for marijuana massages. However, the bill was pulled from the hearing at the last moment with no explanation. Hmm!

OPPOSED

SB344 would prevent marijuana edibles companies from selling candy or using fruit or mascots in their marketing; it would also require all packaging of edibles to be opaque. I think these provisions are over-broad and would impose unreasonable requirements on edibles sellers who simply want to display and market their products. Marijuana consumption has never killed anyone - if a child consumed a parent's edibles, the worst result would be a parent angry that their $60 brownies were gone.

AB294 would impose the transient lodging tax currently levied on hotel rooms on Airbnb rentals, as well. Airbnb would pay the fee directly, but it would get passed to the customer. Increasing the cost of Airbnb rentals is a gift to the established hotel industry. We will always object to additional taxes and increased barriers to entry, which protect established interests over individuals and innovation.

NEUTRAL
SB374 would protect professionals from disciplinary action by their professional organizations, but would also block employers from being able to fire employees who spoke publicly in support of marijuana use. I do support the first part of this bill, but the second part was more complex. While we support freedom of speech from the government, we also support an employer's right to hire and fire as needed if an individual is violating a company's mission.

Unfortunately, I'm going out of town for a funeral on Tuesday and Wednesday, so I'll be submitting written statements for bills those days - but I'll be back and raring to go on Thursday. The Leg doesn't stand a chance against us.

That's it for this week!

Dear Robert & Alice,

Labor Day isn't just about getting a day off from work or having a cookout.

It's about remembering the contributions that workers and their unions have made to our country, our state, and our way of life -- and committing to equal, fair pay for equal work and to protecting benefits and safe conditions for all working people.

The labor movement has made life better for Americans throughout our history -- and here in Nevada service employees, builders, and other workers are still driving our economy to this day.

As governor, I'll be committed to defending the progress we've made and standing up for working people, because they've earned it.

So today, join me in thanking working men and women in Nevada and across the country.

Thanks,

Steve

Hello Bob,

I hope you enjoyed the long weekend with your families and friends.

I spent the day meeting with voters and going door to door in Las Vegas talking about the issues on people's minds heading into the November election. Yes, it's Labor Day, but don't worry, it was more fun than work!

Welcoming supporters at our new field office in Henderson!

Whether I'm knocking on doors or talking to folks at meet and greets, I'm grateful for the thoughtful, productive, and honest conversations that people are willing to have with me. What I hear over and over is that Nevadans want solutions, not just talk. And the best solutions to the problems we face come from right here in this community -- not from Washington, and not from any pundits on TV.

On this Labor Day, I'm thinking about the unions in our state and beyond who have done so much in the fight for working families -- on fair pay, paid family leave, and the ability to retire with dignity. I am grateful to our friends in labor who have fought for these protections for working families.

As a mother of two and an education advocate who has watched thousands of young people move through our school system and into the workforce, I understand the important role that working Americans play in our economy. It's crucial that we continue to educate and empower working men and women at every step.

Thank you,

Susie Lee

Mayor,

This what I received from LCB. The Excel spreadsheet provides information about Nevada's reimbursement rates in comparison to neighboring states. The reason there is so much information is because it appears the comparison is done on a procedure by procedure basis and not by an average or general nature. A cursory glance reveals Nevada to be on the low end of reimbursement rates (although there are exceptions). I am happy to discuss this at your convenience.

Thank you,

Hi Marsheilah,

Attached is information DHCFP's rates unit provided in response to your request. Please note that is not a complete list of all rates, but information readily available that we were able to compile and meet your timeframe.

As an additional data point (that is at a much higher level), I wanted to share this analysis from the Kaiser Family Foundation: https://www.kff.org/medicaid/state-indicator/medicaid-to-medicare-fee-index/?currentTimeframe=0&sortModel=%7B%22colId%22:%22All%20Services%22,%22sort%22:%22desc%22%7D. This analysis compares each state's Medicaid physician fees relative to Medicare fees in each state.

Please let me know if we can do anything else to assist with this request or if you need any additional information. We'd be happy to jump on a phone call to discuss, if helpful.

Thanks and I hope you have a nice weekend!

We are working on a request for information regarding Nevadaâ™s Medicaid rates and how they compare to rates in adjoining states. If I recall correctly, your rate study takes a look at neighboring states. Is this information you could provide to us? Subject: Meet Deputy Director Jim Carroll

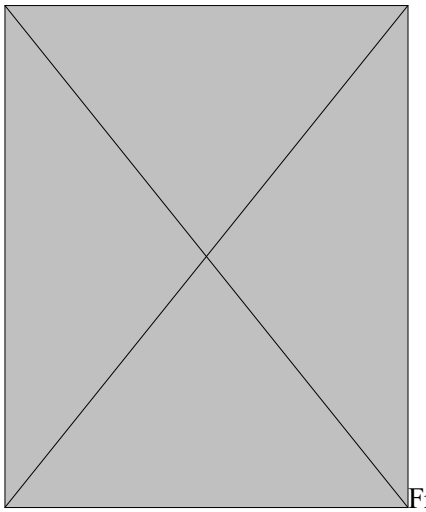
Deputy Director Carroll was nominated by President Trump to serve as the Director of the Office of National Drug Control Policy on April 23, 2018.



Friends and Colleagues,

Your commitment and investment in addressing substance use is making a difference in people's lives and it inspires me every day. I have met many of you who are on the front lines and I look forward to meeting many more of you in the days ahead. In the meantime, I want you to know why I feel so committed to and passionate about our shared mission.

I began my career as a prosecutor in Virginia where I still live today with my wife and children. I have spent most of my career working in public service, including holding multiple positions in the George W. Bush and Trump Administrations. Before joining ONDCP and being nominated to become its next Director, I served as an Assistant to the President and Deputy Chief of Staff in the White House where I worked with the team in the West Wing and policy experts across the Administration to help coordinate the President's efforts to address the opioid crisis.

We are facing urgent threats in substance use, which claims the lives of 174 of our fellow Americans every day. Since joining ONDCP in February, I have been meeting with families, government officials, public health experts, law enforcement officers, treatment providers, recovering Americans, and many others who are working to address substance use. I've seen up close that this crisis does not discriminate. My driving force each and every day is the people who have been affected by addiction and the families that have been torn apart. We have an enormous challenge before us, but I remain optimistic because I have also seen how many people on the ground and in the Administration are committed to turning the tide on this epidemic.

Addressing the opioid crisis is one of President Trump's top priorities. In March, the President announced his Initiative to Stop Opioid Abuse and Reduce Drug Supply and Demand, which is aimed at educating the public about the dangers of opioid misuse, ending the over-prescription of opioid medications, supporting treatment and recovery in the community, and stopping the flow of drugs across our borders and into our communities. Everyone at ONDCP will stay focused on doing everything we can to make sure overdoses go down, access to treatment goes up, and drug traffickers are brought to justice.

Last week, ONDCP launched a public education campaign to help bridge the knowledge gap on opioids, particularly among young people. With this campaign, we are sharing compelling stories of real people who struggled with opioid addiction, got the help they needed, and achieved recovery. We have also launched a website at www.opioids.thetruth.com that provides information about how to avoid misusing opioids – and how to get help for those who need it.

I am grateful for your efforts in helping to reduce the devastating effects of addiction. Without you, none of this would be possible. Working together, we will make a difference and reduce drug use so our children and grandchildren can grow up in a healthier, safer Nation.

Again, thank you for all that you do. I am eager to work with you to achieve our shared goals of saving lives, strengthening our communities, and safeguarding our country.

Sincerely,

Jim Carroll
Deputy Director
Office of National Drug Control Policy

EXPERT ANALYSIS

Trump's Enviro Law Impact May Not Be What Many Anticipate

Many posit a material decline in environmental enforcement and a retrenchment or reversal of environmental regulatory initiatives in the new Trump administration. We expect three concrete areas where activism and activity will be on the rise during this time, targeting a variety of environmental, public health and liability issues of considerable potential consequences, say Lester Sotsky and Andy Wang of Arnold & Porter Kaye Scholer LLP.

Waive Goodbye: How Trump Might Attack The Iran Deal

On the campaign trail, candidate Donald Trump attacked the Joint Comprehensive Plan of Action agreement regarding Iran's nuclear program. Reconsidering CFPB V. PHH

If the D.C. Circuit had declined to act in Consumer Financial Protection Bureau v. PHH, President Donald Trump would have had a clear path to firing CFPB Director Richard Cordray. Anti-Money Laundering Expectations Under Trump

We do not anticipate the new administration will ease anti-money laundering enforcement. In fact, it is more likely that enforcement of the Bank Secrecy Act is an area of supervision that will increase in the coming years, say attorneys with Arnold & Porter Kaye Scholer LLP.

The Moments That Mattered Most For Legal Ethics In 2018

Anyone who thinks that legal ethics is a sleepy area of the law didn't live through 2018. The year saw major decisions about conflict waivers and defunct firm clawbacks, among other meaty topics, and enough head-shaking news springing from the special counsel probe into the presidential election to make one dizzy. Here, Law360 highlights some of the biggest ethics and professional conduct stories of 2018. Read full article »

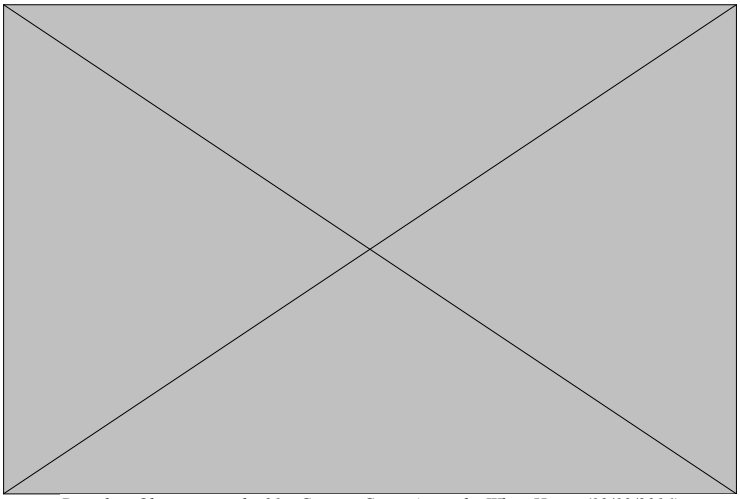
ONDCP Newsletter – December 2016

President Obama Signs the 21st Century Cures Act

Last week, President Obama signed the 21st Century Cures Act, a bill that invests the $1 billion requested by the President to expand access to treatment and prevention for those impacted by the prescription drug and heroin epidemic.

David and Kate Grubb of Charleston, West Virgnia introduced the President and Vice President at the signing ceremony. The Grubb family lost their daughter Jessie this past spring after a long battle with substance use.

For nearly a year, President Obama has been calling for real resources to address the opioid crisis and ensure that hundreds of thousands of Americans can get the treatment they need. The bipartisan passage of the bill exemplifies the progress we can make when both parties work together to improve the lives of people across the country.



President Obama signs the 21st Century Cures Act at the White House (12/13/2016)

"Like Joe Biden and so many other Americans, I've lost people I love deeply to cancer. I've heard often from those whose loved ones are suffering from Alzheimer's, addiction, and other debilitating diseases," said President Obama on the bipartisan passage of the bill, "Their heartbreak is real, and so we have a responsibility to respond with real solutions. This bill will make a big difference."

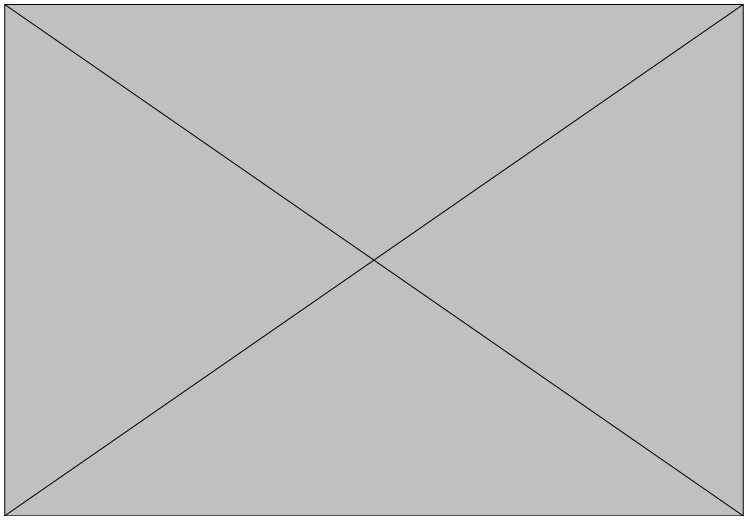
White House Hosts Final "Making Health Care Better Series" on Substance Use Disorder

On November 30, the White House hosted the final "Making Health Care Better Series" on Substance Use Disorder, bringing together leaders from diverse fields to discuss advancements in recovery, prevention, research, and access to treatment, as well as the road ahead.

During the event, the White House released a report highlighting the significant progress that has been made over the past eight years in the substance use disorder field. The Obama Administration focused on a balanced public health and public safety approach to drug policy and expanded resources and protections for people with substance use disorders.



The second panel during MHCBS: "Solutions for Improving Care & Recovery Support" (11/30/2016)

The full report is available here, as well as a summary here.

In case you missed the event, watch it here and continue to share your thoughts using #MHCBS and #SubstanceUse on social media.

The Surgeon General's Report on Alcohol, Drugs, and Health: Prevention

The recently released Surgeon General's Report on Alcohol Drugs and Health marks an important milestone. It is the first-ever Surgeon General's report on this topic and marks a turning point in our Nation's understanding of substance misuse and our response.

The data cited in the report speak volumes: Over 47,055 people died from a drug overdose in 2014, more than in any previous year on record while over the 2006-10 period, analysis shows an annual average of 88,000 alcohol attributable deaths occurred in the United States

The chapter on prevention in the new Surgeon General's report highlights extensive scientific research that identifies the factors encouraging or facilitating substance use risk factors as well as factors that help guard against. All of us can play a role in preventing substance misuse before it starts and intervening before it leads to tragedy.

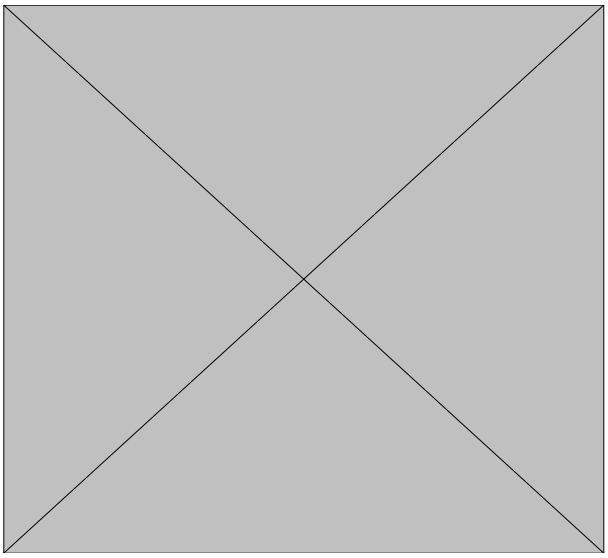
Director Botticelli Participates in Forum on Substance Misuse in the LGBTQ Community

On December 6, Director Botticelli led a panel discussion on the challenges LGBTQ people with substance use disorders face and the importance of universal screening. Each of the panelists discussed their personal recovery stories and first-hand experience working with LGBTQ people to overcome substance use issues.



Director Botticelli at the Human Rights Campaign and Whitman-Walker Health event on Substance Misuse in the LGBTQ community (12/6/2016)

The event, "Substance Misuse in the LGBTQ Community" was hosted by the Human Rights Campaign and Whitman-Walker Health during National LGBTQ Enrollment Week. In case you missed it, a livestream of the event is available here.

December is National Impaired Driving Prevention Month

Every December, the White House observes National Impaired Driving Prevention Month to highlight steps we can take to improve safety on our streets and raise awareness of the preventable dangers of driving drunk, drugged, or distracted.

In the last year, preventable alcohol-impaired driving crashes accounted for nearly one-third of all traffic fatalities. Motor vehicle accidents are the leading cause of death among youths and young adults aged 16–25 years in the United States.

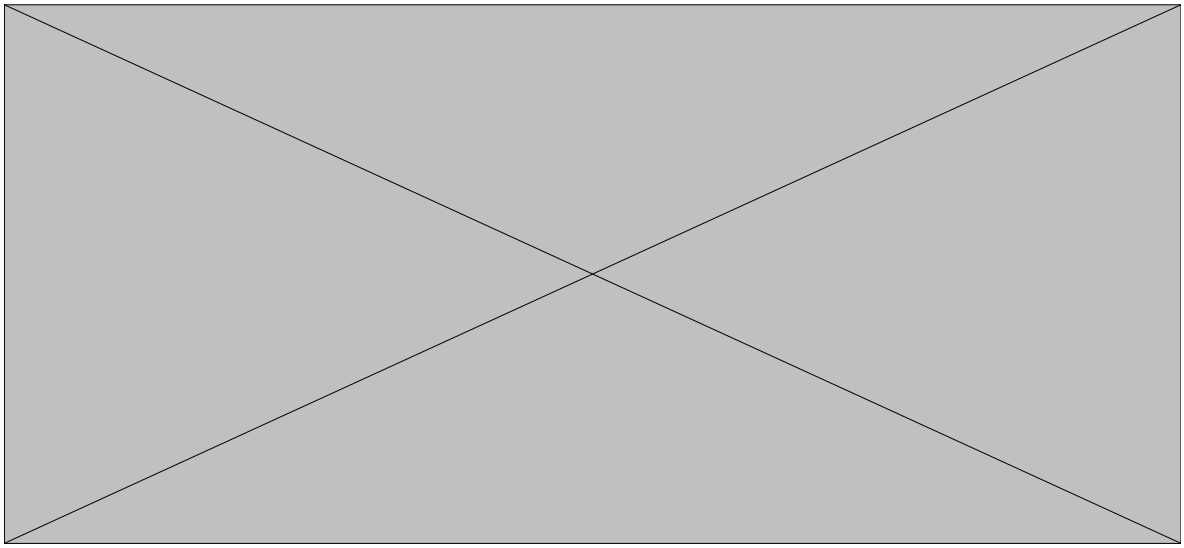
Subject: Senator Harris Opposes Nomination of William Barr to be Attorney General

A message from Senator Kamala D. Harris



Senator Harris Opposes Nomination of William Barr to be Attorney General

Friend,

This week, at a hearing of the Senate Judiciary Committee, I pressed the nominee for Attorney General, William Barr - and I need to tell you, I've got some serious concerns.

The Attorney General is entrusted with ensuring the fair and impartial administration of justice for all Americans. With the rule of law under daily attack from the President of the United States himself, that sacred trust is more important than ever.

After two days of confirmation hearings in the Senate Judiciary Committee, I do not believe that William Barr is the right person to hold this vital position at this critical time.

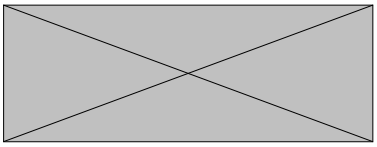
With the government shut down over the President's demand for a border wall and asylum-seeking families detained at the border, Mr. Barr continues to support an ineffective and draconian approach to border security. With a criminal justice system that disproportionately harms communities of color, Mr. Barr continues to express support for the same failed policies he encouraged in the 1990s when he effectively advocated for mass incarceration. And with Robert Mueller's investigation into Russian interference in the 2016 election at a critical moment, Mr. Barr refused to commit to recusing himself—even if career ethics officials at the Department of Justice recommended he do so.

I appreciate the commitments Mr. Barr made, including a willingness to reconsider DOJ's attacks on Americans' healthcare coverage, to provide a list of consent decrees that have been withdrawn by DOJ and any consent decree he may withdraw, to respect state laws legalizing marijuana, and to vigorously enforce voting rights. I fully intend to hold him to these commitments should he become the Attorney General.

While I respect Mr. Barr's past public service, I do not believe he will defend independent investigations from attacks, embrace a smart on crime approach to public safety, and ensure equal protection under the law for every single American.

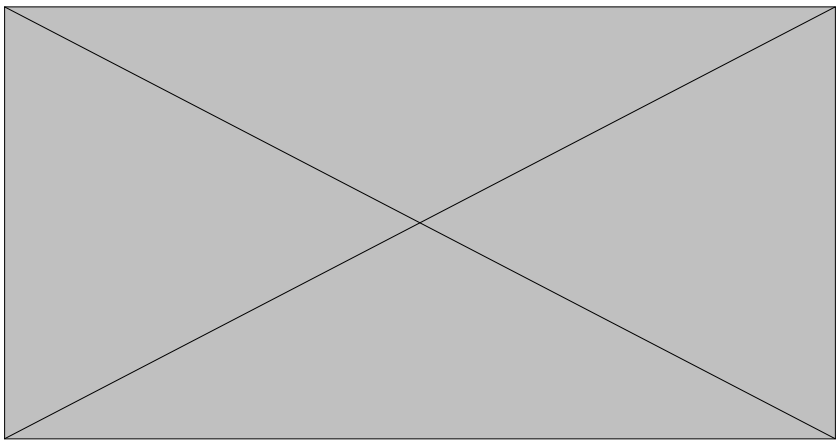
Take a closer look and watch why we cannot confirm him.

Sincerely,
Kamala



Kamala D. Harris
United States Senator

First Round of Questioning:

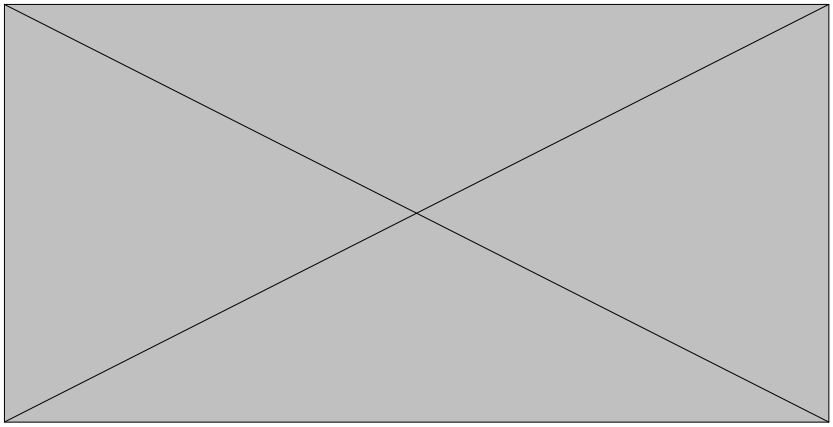


Watch Senator Harris question AG Nominee Barr.

I pressed AG nominee Barr on his suggestion that we need "barriers" across the border to deal with drug trafficking. The truth is most drugs trafficked into the U.S. come through ports of entry, and a wall isn't what we need to solve this problem.

-Senator Kamala D. Harris
Senator Harris began her questioning by inquiring about whether he would follow the recommendation of career Department of Justice ethics officials on recusal from the Special Counsel's investigation—a practice former Attorney General Sessions abided by during his tenure. In response to Barr's insistence that he would not recuse himself if he personally disagreed with ethics officials' recommendation, Senator Harris sought clarification on why precisely he might disregard that guidance. In response to Senator Harris' further questioning about border security and drug trafficking, Barr acknowledged that despite President Trump's demand of a wall, most drugs trafficked into the United States from Mexico come through a port of entry. Senator Harris followed up by asking about Barr's experience visiting ports of entry along the U.S.-Mexico border.

Second Round of Questioning:



Watch Senator Harris question AG Nominee Barr.

AG nominee Barr said he would go against the recommendation of career ethics officials and refuse to recuse himself from the Special Counsel's investigation if he 'disagreed with them.' That's absolutely unacceptable.

-Senator Kamala D. Harris

In a second round of questioning, Senator Harris secured a commitment from Barr to reconsider the Department of Justice's current position in support of litigation that, if ultimately successful, would strip health care coverage from millions of Americans and eliminate protections for people with pre-existing conditions. Under questioning from Senator Harris, Barr further committed to providing the committee with a list of all consent decrees between the Department of Justice and local governments that were withdrawn under Attorney General Sessions and committed to keeping the committee updated on any consent decrees he would withdraw from if confirmed. Senator Harris also asked Barr about recent actions President Trump may have taken in violation of the Presidential Records Act.

It is a start. Thanks. One answer may be in doubt and that is the question of home grow. The ballot questtion seems clear on that to me but I am told that there is more enabling language somewhere which puts a 25 mile limit on proximity to a dispensary which would prohibit it. Seems to me the plain language of the Question should control so I am confused.

Karen: Please look into that one thing for now, please?

Subject: Request for assistance legalized marijuana passage briefing

Good afternoon Ms. Duddlesten,
Councilman Coffin wanted a briefing on the passage of Ballot Question 2 that was just passed by the Nevada voters.
Absent any Bills introduced at the next Nevada Legislative Session, Councilman Coffin would still like a briefing as soon as possible.

As of January 1, 2017, it would be legal for anyone 21 and older to possess an ounce of marijuana or an eighth of an ounce of marijuana concentrate.
Correct? That is our understanding. The CAO should provide details.

An adult may grow up to six plants for personal use inside their home? YES, that is our understanding, however there is also a cap of 12 plants per household.
Correct? Will this be added for Code Enforcement to enforce? This is yet to be determined.

Who's in charge of legalized marijuana regulations-the Department of Taxation or Department of Health? The Department of Taxation. They have not yet staffed the new department but Joline Smith, 775-684-2029 may have more information.

Would city licensing fees be increased on recreational as opposed to medical dispensaries? This is yet to be determined and would have to be addressed both in enabling legislation or local ordinance.

What is the mechanism for medical to convert to recreational sales? This will need to be determined on temporary state regulations and local ordinances.

Has the state of Nevada decided how to divide the reported 80-recreational licenses that would be made available? Not to our knowledge.

Is it true that for the first 18 months, only existing medical marijuana establishments could apply to open recreational dispensaries? Yes, the Act states that only those medical marijuana establishments that hold a State Registrations Certificate may apply for a recreational license. (does not stipulate that they are licensed in their respective jurisdiction)

Define existing (licensed, built or in process). – No information available at this time as the Act only mentions State Registration Certificates.

Is city staff prepared with licensing regulations, staffing, and enforcement? We have been working with Senator Farley on the issues that may be addressed in additional legislation and have a staff working group preparing issues that will require input and direction from the CAO, CMO and City Council.

Since this will move fast on January 1, 2017, whatever briefing you can put together would be greatly appreciated. The State has 12 months from Jan 1, 2017 to start accepting applications. The Department of Taxation issued a press release that they would be working on temporary regulations. We have made contact at both the legislative level and the Department to request to be involved in discussions.

Thank you in advance.

Subject: Fremont St problem

Good day to you Mayor Goodman, wish you well,

I have lived in downtown Las Vegas for 7 years. My letter pertains to a person at the Fremont Experience who I, security, police and many others feel he must be removed and some how charged criminally for his so call freedom of speech sign. Pic included.

Security informed me that plenty of people especially parents, have complained about this schmuck, stating they are suggesting to everyone to contact you and city council and there is supposed to be a date set in the near future to address this and other problems.

This person is not part of the lottery spot system. 98% of the performers are decent people making tourist laugh and happy along with those that are respectfully entertaining children bringing joy to the kids and the parents downtown experience. During the day he is straight; by night I have seen him so stoned he could hardly sit against a wall while he thinks its a big joke getting people riled up, exchanging F yous' with them. Many times I have seen near physical confrontations by guys, fathers, mothers who would like to pound him into the concrete but can't knowing they could be arrested.

This is not a freedom of speech issue. This is an obnoxious, intimidating, threatening, premeditated knowingly intent to instigate confrontation, violence, and especially corrupting the health and welfare of children, neglect and abuse of children which this easily can be interpreted as causing harm to children as a misdemeanor, viz. multiple 100s of times daily pertaining to children.

As summer quickly approaches with the 1,000s of tourists downtown daily this can only lead to someone seriously beating up this knuckle-head only to find themselves arrested, again affecting the children.

Speaking recently to him, he claims its a joke meant to be funny. His name is Paul saying he is from Santa Monica, no one pays him to do this and said he doesn't work. I am certain you can find a way to remove and ban him from Fremont St. Judging by the stoner trash that hangs out with him at night; who knows he might even be using this as a cover for meeting people and selling drugs. Excuse the length of my notice and thank you for your service. Pic included.

P.S. When and where is the next meeting with city counsel addressing these problems.

God bless,

Ken Mallen

Subject: [Marketing Mail] OFFICIAL RELEASE: Statement of Administration Policy on House Amendment to the Senate Amendment to H.R. 34 – 21st Century Cures Act

STATEMENT OF ADMINISTRATION POLICY

(Rules Committee Print)

The Administration strongly supports passage of the bipartisan House Amendment to the Senate Amendment to H.R. 34, the 21st Century Cures Act, which dedicates more than $6 billion to implement key priorities such as the President's proposal to combat the heroin and prescription opioid epidemic; the Vice President's Cancer Moonshot; and the President's signature biomedical research initiatives, the Precision Medicine and Brain Research through Advancing Innovative Neurotechnologies (BRAIN) Initiatives. It also takes important steps to improve mental health, including provisions that build on the work of the President's Mental Health and Substance Use Disorder Parity Task Force, and includes policies to further modernize the drug approval process.

The legislation includes $1 billion over two years, including $500 million in Fiscal Year 2017, to combat the prescription opioid and heroin epidemic, consistent with the President's budget request. More Americans now die every year from drug overdoses than they do in motor vehicle crashes, and the majority involve opioids. The opioid epidemic is devastating families and communities and straining the capacity of law enforcement and the healthcare system. The resources included in the bill will allow states to expand access to treatment to help individuals seeking help to find it and to start the road to recovery, with preference given to states with an incidence or prevalence of opioid use disorders that is substantially higher relative to other states.

The Administration is committed to taking immediate action to lay the groundwork to ensure that the funds in the bill would be disbursed quickly and effectively so we can begin to address these important public health challenges.

The bill also includes $1.8 billion, including $1 billion over the next three years, to support the Vice President's Cancer Moonshot. The Moonshot aims to accelerate research efforts and make new therapies available to more patients, while also improving our ability to prevent cancer and detect it at an early stage. The resources in this legislation will support investment in promising new therapies like cancer immunotherapy, new prevention tools, cancer vaccine development, novel early detection tools, and pediatric cancer interventions. As the Vice President and scientific experts have said, we are at an inflection point in cancer research and this investment could help seize this opportunity.

The legislation also dedicates support for other key research initiatives. In 2013, the President launched the BRAIN Initiative with the goal of helping researchers find new ways to treat, cure, and prevent brain disorders, such as Alzheimer's disease, epilepsy, and traumatic brain injury. In 2015, he launched the Precision Medicine Initiative to pioneer a new model of patient-powered research that promises to accelerate biomedical discoveries and provide clinicians with new tools, knowledge, and therapies to select which treatments will work best for which 2 patients. The bill creates dedicated funding of $1.5 billion for the BRAIN initiative and $1.4 billion for the Precision Medicine Initiative to continue these signature Presidential Initiatives, which have broad bipartisan support, over the next decade.

The legislation also includes bipartisan mental health reforms. These include a renewed emphasis on evidence-based strategies for treating serious mental illness, improved coordination between primary care and behavioral health services, reauthorization of important programs focused on suicide prevention and other prevention services, and mental health and substance use disorder parity provisions that build on the work of the President's Mental Health and Substance Use Disorder Parity Task Force.

In addition, the bill takes multiple steps to further the progress made in this Administration in improving the drug development process. It enhances the ongoing efforts to better incorporate patients' voices into the Food and Drug Administration's (FDA) decision-making processes; supports FDA's efforts to modernize clinical trial design; and improves FDA's ability to hire and retain scientific experts. The legislation includes strong protections for individuals' health data, as well as provisions preventing unnecessary restrictions on the sharing of health information technology data with patients and providers.

There are also provisions in the bill that raise concerns, but that have been modified from previous versions to help address concerns, such as provisions that allow for the marketing of drugs to payors for off-label uses. In addition, a number of effective dates will be challenging to meet, especially without additional administrative funding. The requirement to sell additional inventory from the Strategic Petroleum Reserve, when added to the sale requirements of the Bipartisan Budget Act and the FAST Act, continues a bad precedent of selling off longer term energy security assets to satisfy near term budget scoring needs.

That said, this legislation offers advances in health that far outweigh these concerns. As such, the Administration strongly supports passage of the House Amendment to the Senate Amendment to H.R. 34, the 21st Century Cures Act.

Dear Mayor Carolyn Goodman,

We represent a group of medical professionals, psychologists and philosophers who, with original and innovative methods, have dedicated for more than 30 years to offer a successful answer to the addiction, existential anguish, pain, violence, suicide, in short, to all the destructive impulses that affect more and more the current Humanity.

Today heroin, opiate addiction and lack of solutions have brought us to this point of an unprecedented war on drugs.

We have obtained surprising results in American patients, with this unique method, which have dared to take the challenge and came to Buenos Aires to carry out their treatment.

Taking into account the success obtained in the fight against those maladies, we want now to develop a humanitarian action to a large scale and for this we need the fundamental help of the Notables like you, who lead Humanity in their different areas.

You are heard by all Humanity. For that reason, we will thank you deeply if you dedicate 30 minutes of your valuable time to us to expose the way in which we are trying to benefit Humanity with these ideas that have already made a difference to a number of people, and we are sure that with your noble help they can make a great difference to all Humanity.

We have attached below the followings links that support our success in treatment for substance abuse.

Thank you so much for listening and for opening your hearts to an altruistic action.

Thank you, Mayor Goodman, for your concern and attention to this matter. In all the people I've spoken to, there is most definitely an appetite for banning fireworks. And like you, storms are just as distressing for my little dog, as well as me. Between the fireworks in my neighborhood last night and the storm passing through, I got very little sleep. But one thing is certain, we cannot ban the storms, but we can implement a ban on the fireworks.
I wish you a peaceful fourth, but I believe that's an oxymoron.

All that I have discovered is that to date there has not been an appetite for banning fireworks (though most forms of them have been banned and are illegal). At this moment the fierce electrical storm in the area is even worse and of course not controllable at all…ban or laws! It is sending my pets into total panic mode seeking miniscule hiding places, digging into corners and trying to squeeze into the tiny spaces wherever they can find them.

> Your description of your own neighborhood over the years just confirms my own belief that the only solution is to implement a ban on fireworks in city neighborhoods. It has been done in many other cities as I have discovered via the Internet. I can only assume that you or our city and state representatives would know how to go about putting a ban in place. I only know how to teach and play the cello.

There was a string of bans in the '90s when Seattle, Bellevue, Everett and Redmond were among many to nix the tradition. In 2005, cities such as Des Moines and Renton approved their own bans. Bellingham put a ban into place in 2014. One-by-one over the past couple decades, Puget Sound area communities have voted to rid their towns of the explosives.*

> I can see no other solution, Mayor Goodman. I realize nothing can be done this 4th of July, but surely by July 4th, 2017 isn't it possible we could do what some of the Washington communities are doing? Isn't the fact that we are a drought stricken state enough reason to implement a ban? Although I believe the simple fact they disturb the peace and frighten to death our pets is sufficient reason to consider the ban.

Thank you again for your email.

Barbara Gurley

They have come either from our neighborhood, adjacent neighborhoods and even set off by traveling vehicles. All except the fewest ARE illegal and try though we have to get them stopped, one at a time or groups of them, new people replace previous occupants, and kids forever joyride through the streets nearby or in hearing range. Solutions? Just what you have done, for there is little else unless you have the specific address of the persons that can be cited and penalized.

I finally called the non emergency police number around 9:00 pm to report the fireworks. The dispatcher informed me that they had already received a call about the area I mentioned and a patrol car had been sent out. She also told me that they hate this time of the year for this very reason. She even thanked me for my efforts to try and get this nonsense stopped. I had to give my little dog drugs last night and because of his trembling and barking, I got very little sleep. Today I have to teach private music lessons. I don't have the luxury of sleeping all day like those who were shooting off the fireworks do, no doubt.
> We have over a week before the actual 4th celebration. I'm already exhausted. This will continue throughout the week because I am quite sure Las Vegas doesn't have the necessary police officers to patrol these neighborhoods for idiots who can't curb their enthusiasm for using these illegal fireworks in our city neighborhoods. A ban should be implemented on ALL fireworks in neighborhoods. But because you say you cannot do that, your police force will be answering calls all week from residents who, like me, just want to live in peace. We are the ones who work and pay taxes.
> I wish I could redirect these fireworks to your neighborhood so you could experience what others have to endure. Maybe after a few sleepless nights you might find the motivation to ban fireworks in all city neighborhoods!

Good Morning, Dr. Barton and Ms. Wooden:

Not sure who else to direct this to… Mayor Goodman just received a call from a sister (Shatoya Clement) of a 16 year old who attends Canyon Springs high School— Lanise Allen. Miss Clement said her sister is "threatening to kill herself" due to bullying incidents at the school that are not being addressed "because there is no dean or principal at the school." While this seems unlikely to us, the family definitely has the sense that nothing is being done to help this girl (though we are told the police did come when a brownie given to her was laced with drugs) and that "gangs of up to 30 students" have been permitted to board her bus to harass her.

Our primary concern in reporting to you is that the student is threatening to kill herself, so if appropriate officials could please intervene? The sister, Miss Clement, may be reached at [redacted] Thank you.

The Outlook For The Pharmaceutical Industry Under Trump

Change is coming to the health care and pharmaceutical industries under Trump's administration, presenting both benefits and challenges. Conventional wisdom says that Trump's administration will permit greater flexibility in drug pricing, but Trump has expressed support for competition in the marketplace, which could lower the price of some drugs, say attorneys from Debevoise & Plimpton LLP.

New York Revises Cybersecurity Proposal: A Closer Look

Although the revised version of New York's proposed cybersecurity regulations addresses several areas of concern or confusion for financial services firms, certain questions of scope and liability remain. In addition, the revised proposal's requirements remain extensive, say attorneys with Arnold & Porter Kaye Scholer LLP.

A Fast Track For New Gaming Devices In Nevada

The Nevada Gaming Commission recently adopted an amendment that promises to streamline and expedite the gaming device approval process. The change benefits regulators, casinos, manufacturers and patrons alike, say Mark Clayton and Erica Okerberg of Greenberg Traurig LLP.

Saving Lawyers 1 Breath At A Time: Mindfulness In The Law

As critical as lawyers are to society, they are reported to be the most frequently depressed occupational group in the United States. In response to the inherently stressful nature of the practice of law, more and more lawyers are turning to an ancient contemplative practice called “mindfulness,” says Jennifer Gibbs of Zelle LLP.

Metal Shark to build more cats for NYC Ferry

September 26, 2017 — Louisiana-based shipbuilder Metal Shark is to again build multiple high-speed aluminum catamaran passenger vessels for NYC Ferry. Metal Shark reports that, in early August, it received orders from Hornblower, which operates the service for New York City, for four 97 ft x 28 ft, 350-passenger USCG Subchapter K vessels. These are a new and larger platform than the fleet of 150-passenger vessels NYC Ferry currently operates. An additional 85 ft, 150-passenger USCG Subchapter T vessel has also been ordered.

Specialty Court Focuses On Female Offenders Impacted By Trauma

The Las Vegas Municipal Court Women in Need of Change (WIN) Court program will celebrate the graduation of an amazing woman who has successfully completed the program at 2 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 9, in Las Vegas Municipal Court Department 1 at the Regional Justice Center, located at 200 Lewis Ave, Courtroom 5A.

The 34th WIN Court graduate, Ashley Whittington, 32, has a criminal history that includes arrests and citations spanning 14 years. During the last 18 months she has overcome trauma and obstacles, embraced recovery, accomplished the rigorous program requirements and worked hard to build a new life. Ashley earned her GED diploma, is working full time, attending college and assisting in the caretaking of a family member. Additionally, she is connected to the recovery community where she is a leader who mentors and guides others just beginning their journeys. She has emerged as strong, confident and admired woman.

Graduation is the celebration of the journey of women who imagined the life they want and have worked very hard to achieve, if not surpass, their initial goals. The strength and determination of these women are an inspiration to women in recovery and to the women who are following in their footsteps through the WIN Court program.

WIN Court is a trauma-responsive specialty court program in the Las Vegas Municipal Court that targets female offenders with a history of criminal behavior, misdemeanor and/or substance abuse-related charges by targeting the root of the issue – trauma. Through WIN Court, the women learn the tools to change their way of thinking to make positive choices and create their future. All participants have 180 days of jail time suspended for 18 months, which is cleared upon successful completion of the program.

The women who participate must comply with rigorous sentencing requirements throughout the program, requiring the participants to complete drug treatment and intensive counseling programs, earn a GED or pursue education/training, and secure employment. The defendants must stay out of trouble and abstain from drugs and alcohol during the program. The Court celebrated its first graduate in August 2008.

WIN Court currently is funded by an Edward Byrne Memorial Justice Assistance Grant, a Substance Abuse and Mental Health Service Administration grant, and a grant from the Nevada Administrative Office of the Courts.

US High Speed Rail Association Washington, DC

Dear Carolyn G.,

Senator Sanders Releases Climate Action Plan With High Speed Rail!

"The climate crisis is not only the single greatest challenge facing our country; it is also our single greatest opportunity to build a more just and equitable future, but we must act immediately.

Climate change is a global emergency. The Amazon rainforest is burning, Greenland's ice shelf is melting, and the Arctic is on fire. People across the country and the world are already experiencing the deadly consequences of our climate crisis, as extreme weather events like heat waves, wildfires, droughts, floods, and hurricanes upend entire communities, ecosystems, economies, and ways of life, as well as endanger millions of lives. Communities of color, working class people, and the global poor have borne and will bear this burden disproportionately.

The scientific community is telling us in no uncertain terms that we have less than 11 years left to transform our energy system away from fossil fuels to energy efficiency and sustainable energy, if we are going to leave this planet healthy and habitable for ourselves, our children, grandchildren, and future generations. As rising temperatures and extreme weather create health emergencies, drive land loss and displacement, destroy jobs, and threaten livelihoods, we must guarantee health care, housing, and a good-paying job to every American, especially to those who have been historically excluded from economic prosperity."

"The scope of the challenge ahead of us shares similarities with the crisis faced by President Franklin Delano Roosevelt in the 1940s. Battling a world war on two fronts-both in the East and the West-the United States came together, and within three short years restructured the entire economy in order to win the war and defeat fascism. As president, Bernie Sanders will boldly embrace the moral imperative of addressing the climate crisis and act immediately to mobilize millions of people across the country in support of the Green New Deal. From the Oval Office to the streets, Bernie will generate the political will necessary for a wholesale transformation of our society, with support for frontline and vulnerable communities and massive investments in sustainable energy, energy efficiency, and a transformation of our transportation system.

We need a president who has the courage, the vision, and the record to face down the greed of fossil fuel executives and the billionaire class who stand in the way of climate action. We need a president who welcomes their hatred. Bernie will lead our country to enact the Green New Deal and bring the world together to defeat the existential threat of climate change."

SPECIFIC RAIL FOCUS IN SENATOR SANDERS' CLIMATE PLAN:

- Build regional high-speed rail. Many other developed nations have advanced high speed rail systems. A $607 billion investment in a regional high-speed rail system would complete the vision of the Obama administration to develop high-speed intercity rail in the United States. This new system will give travelers a meaningful affordable alternative to plane or car travel between major cities. The reason high-speed rail has not worked in the United States is because we have not built the political mobilization needed to demand the funding needed to complete this vision. Together, we will create the movement needed to develop high-speed rail.

- Build public transit that is affordable, accessible, fast, and resilient. With a $300 billion investment, we will increase public transit ridership by 65 percent by 2030. We will ensure that reliable, affordable public transit is accessible for seniors, people with disabilities, and rural communities. In addition to expanding transit service to communities, we will promote transit-oriented development to link this service to popular destinations and vital community services. For too long, government policy has encouraged long car commutes, congestion, and dangerous emissions. The Green New Deal will reverse these trends and create more livable, connected, and vibrant communities.

TRANSPORTATION FOCUS OF PLAN:

"We can and must transform our transportation sector away from fossil fuels to create a sustainable future for all and good-paying, union jobs right here in America. Transportation currently accounts for 29 percent of domestic emissions. We will create domestic energy alternatives to power our cars and trucks and move our transportation sector beyond oil by running our cars and trucks on renewable sources. We will build affordable, reliable, quick, and efficient public transportation, and high-speed passenger and cargo rail. And we will create millions of good-paying, unionized jobs building the automobile fleet of the future.

We will invest in nationwide electric vehicle charging infrastructure, to increase access to these resources for all, just as we built an interstate highway system in the 1950s and 1960s. We will move beyond oil toward an electric car. Concerns of cost and whether there will be access to a charging station have prevented many people from being able to choose this low-carbon option. We are going to change that. When Bernie is president, he is going to fully transform our energy sector away from fossil fuels, ensuring no one is priced out of this transition.

Invest in decarbonizing the shipping and aviation industries as soon as possible. The science is clear that the entire global economy must decarbonize by 2050 at latest if we hope to stave off the worst impacts of climate change. We must be extremely careful to ensure that as we do this, we make sure that domestic manufacturing and clean economy industries thrive. The federal government must identify and commercialize technologies to ensure the globe is able to fully decarbonize by 2050 at latest to meet the goals in the IPCC report. We will fund a $500 billion effort to research technologies to fully decarbonize industry, and a $150 billion effort to fully decarbonize aviation and maritime shipping and transportation."

OTHER HIGHLIGHTS FROM THE PLAN:

- 100% renewable energy for transportation and electricity by 2030, and complete decarbonization by 2050
- An affordable housing plan (7.4 million units)
- Prosecution of fossil fuel companies
- $16 trillion investment in the green economy
- 20 million new jobs created
- Programs to ensure a just transition for affected workers
- An end all fossil fuel subsidies
- A declaration of a national climate emergency

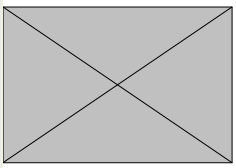
LISTEN LIVE TO FORBES INTERVIEW WITH VIRGIN CEO PATRICK GODDARD

The future of train travel is here, and as Goddard says, it's not your grandma's train service. A modern network of high-speed trains could transform how people travel and do business as it connects cities and passengers with amazing experiences.

Corridor by Corridor, America's 21st Century is Taking Shape!

High Speed Rail Gets Us the Future We Want



The day can't come quickly enough when I can pedal an electric bike share to downtown San Francisco in 10 minutes, step seamlessly onto a high-speed train and get to my meetings in downtown Los Angeles a few hours later, and do it 100 percent emissions free. It would completely transform the experience of traveling between California's two major metropolitan areas, presenting a once-in-a-generation opportunity to address California's sustainable development, housing and climate goals. High-speed rail gets a lot of flak for its high price tag, which the latest business plan pegs at $77 billion.

But let's face it, transportation projects are expensive, and we're already spending billions on freeway projects every year that continue to pollute our air and harm our most vulnerable communities, driving us in the opposite direction of carbon neutrality.

There was quite a bit of noise made about the stretch of Interstate 405 in Los Angeles that cost $1.6 billion, designed to achieve a savings of just a few minutes for drivers - and it could not even achieve that modest goal. We are going to continue to grow. California welcomes newcomers. We are now and will continue to be a desirable place for businesses and to live. California's Department of Finance predicts we'll be at 50 million people by mid-century. If we accommodate this growth by expanding runways and freeways, the price tag is estimated at $170 billion over 20 years to create infrastructure that directly undermines our ability to achieve our climate goals.

Experiences in other countries suggests that high-speed rail can be an effective, low-carbon alternative to air and vehicle travel, and that once built, people use it. In Spain, once a high-speed train was completed between Madrid and Seville, planners witnessed a notable shift between air travel and rail travel, as travelers opted for a more seamless and convenient trip from the center of one city to the center of the next.

Subject: Re: Fireworks!!!

I wish I could provide you with the addresses, but that would entail me patrolling my neighborhood every night and I cannot do that. I hear them from inside my house. If there were a ban on all fireworks in the neighborhoods, that would take care of the problem, but obviously, you have no intention of considering this plan of action. I am dealing with this problem as best I can. I purchased a "thunder coat" for my dog and I have drugs to give him if necessary, as a last resort. As I mentioned in my previous email, I am removing myself from the cacophony on July 4th, but I still have to deal with the errant firecrackers prior to that. And there is still the accompanying worry of illegal fireworks starting fires as has happened in the past as well as the clean up in my yard from all those fireworks that come flying over my fences. I suppose those who live in more affluent neighborhoods don't have to deal with this situation.

There are no benefits to be derived from fireworks other than that of entertainment. They have many undesirable effects including disruption of community peace and quiet, terrifying domestic animals, pollution of the environment and a waste of money. But change is difficult and America seems to only be happy celebrating her independence with loud, disruptive, polluting means.

At least where I'm going there will be no fireworks, which proves that not all politicians are afraid of change for the betterment of society.

> In a city that discourages any water usage that isn't absolutely necessary, dry conditions are quite the norm and in addition to the annoyance and disturbance of the fireworks, I have to worry about my house burning down while I am away. If fireworks were banned in the cities' neighborhoods, this problem would cease to exist.
> Why can't you take that step, Mayor Goodman?
> Year after year animals are frightened to death from the noise of the fireworks. Year after year people in many neighborhoods throughout the city disturb the peace with illegal as well as legal fireworks. The threat of fire is always imminent. Other states and cities have taken the initiative and banned fireworks in city neighborhoods, especially those drought stricken ones.
> Why can we not follow suit here in our drought stricken city?
> For those who cannot live without a fireworks display, they have the option of going to designated venues, which are supervised for the safety of all. Such is not the case in our neighborhoods.

I wonder if I will live long enough to see a mayor take the bull by its horns and bring this yearly chaos to a halt. Isn't the safety and protection of its citizens the primary focus of a city's governing officials?
I BEG you - please ban fireworks in all Las Vegas neighborhoods. PLEASE!
Every night I hear fireworks means another sleepless night for me as I remain awake to comfort my trembling little dog.
Respectfully,
Barbara Gurley

This dispatch prepared for .

DAYS UNTIL THE 2016 GENERAL ELECTION: 8

Good morning, everyone. Happy Nevada Day, all! Only a week and a day left. On Sunday, Donald Trump was here, showing his campaign still thinks the state is in play. (Highly doubtful.) Of course, the RJ account, which had two journos on it, reported the call to go vote and the buses waiting to take people, but somehow missed it turned out to be two vans that took about 20 people, as reported by Megan Messerly and Riley Snyder. That's impressive, both for Trump and for journalism.

What's below: Early numbers, Prince Harry weighs in, Uber move, Morning Flash nuggets and repeating a trivia question about a building.

Jeff Sessions is in Vegas today. Game. Changed.

THE EARLY VOTE AFTER NINE DAYS

The closeness to 2012 continues with five days left. Trump is dead here unless a miracle occurs in the final five days and on Election Day. Not ready to close the book yet on Joe Heck, though, because of what happened in 2012 with Dean Heller as POTUS won the state by almost 7 points.

The analogy isn't exact in either case. Trump is no Mitt Romney and Hillary Clinton surely is no Barack Obama. But there's no evidence that Trump, like Romney, is winning indies – in fact the contrary exists. As for Heck, he should do better in Clark than Heller did, but those Washoe early numbers have to be worrying him.

I also have seen some granular data, which shows Hispanic turnout is up and African-American turnout is slightly down. The Democratic machine knows this and is moving ground pieces around. That machine, which obviously has formidable Washoe and nonprofit parts this cycle (For Our Future, Mi Familia Vota, League of Conservation Voters) in addition to the usual pillars of the Culinary and the coordinated campaign, is working well, even though the percentages are down a tick from 2012.

I still think the raw vote total will get to 60,000 at least, which is doom for Trump and trouble for Heck. We will know more today: Day 10 was a bad day for Dems in 2012 – they lost statewide and won in Clark by only 1,600 votes.

Details here.

PRINCE HARRY WEIGHS IN ON COMEY, GOP BLOWBACK ENSUES

So Prince Harry, on his last Hill to die for (yes, I will repeat criminal puns), went over the top on James Comey. Reid's lack of shame and self-editing is not news. But the GOP reaction was something else, via Politico:

Them's fightin' words: In reaction, Sen. Tom Cotton tweeted: "Harry Reid is a disgrace to American politics, among worst men ever in Senate. He can't go soon enough, & many Democrats privately agree." And then this from Rep. Trey Gowdy on Fox News: "I did not know Mormons used drugs and anyone who is capable of sending that press release has to be under the influence of something."

Damn.

UBER MAKES UNPRECEDENTED CAMPAIGN MOVE

Uber does not contribute to candidate campaigns and does not weigh in….until now.

After the state Democratic Party sent out a mail piece on behalf of attorney Ozzie Fumo, challenging Assemblyman Derek Armstrong, the company has decided to respond. I am told this is the first time this (getting involved for a candidate) has happened anywhere.

Uber is sending an in-app message as well as emailing riders and drivers here after the piece said Armstrong voted against background checks. (Mailers coming, too.) This is false – the argument was over FBI background checks. It's also quite brazen by the state Dems because so many Democrats voted for Uber.

Here's what the email says:

Dear [insert driver name],

As Election Day approaches, Nevadans will have to make some tough decisions. But in Assembly District 21, the right choice is crystal clear.

Assemblyman Derek Armstrong is the type of leader Nevada needs. Thanks to Assemblyman Armstrong's leadership, ridesharing legislation passed that resulted in:

• Over 10,000 flexible work opportunities created for Nevadans, meaning more money in your pockets on your own time •

• • Increased transportation options for thousands, providing more access to a safe, affordable, and reliable ride, especially at night and in underserved communities •

• • A permanent home in Nevada for ridesharing companies like Uber, keeping our state on the forefront of emerging technologies and urban transportation

Uber applauds Assemblyman Armstrong for standing up for you and all Nevadans at a time when our community needed it most. But now he needs your help.

His opponent thinks that our driver partners are criminals that pose a threat to public safety. Assemblyman Armstrong knows that Uber partners actually help make our streets safer. He supports you, which is why we are proud to support him. Let's keep hard-working, honest, and innovative legislators in office by Ubering to the polls and casting your vote to re-elect Assemblyman Derek Armstrong.

Armstrong is in what both sides consider a tossup race, even though the early numbers look ominous for him. So every little bit could help.

A COUPLE OF MORNING FLASH NUGGETS

Nugget No. 1 – Question 3 folks have a new ad about "Nevada Energy."

Nugget No. 2 – Wayne Allyn Root is an Adelson News columnist, conspiracy theorist and strange fantasizer, now getting national attention. Proud of your guy, RJ?

A MESSAGE ON QUESTION 3: Question 3 would deregulate Nevada's electric utility system, removing all limits on what providers could charge. Customers would have to buy their power on the open market and energy prices could go sky high. In California, deregulation caused rates to spike 800%, leading to rolling blackouts and the Enron crisis. Vote No on Question 3. That's probably a good idea! FLASH FACTS OF THE DAY

Worried that the copy of the Nevada Constitution would not get there in time, Nevada Territory Governor James Nye sent the document to Washington, DC by telegram. It was started and had to be relayed through several cities before it was recompiled at its intended destination. After its transmission, Governor Nye sent another telegram to Washington, DC which was received at 2:20AM on October 30, 1864, advising that the Nevada Constitution was wired to the President and requesting President Lincoln issue a Proclamation of Statehood for Nevada “immediately”. On Oct. 31, 1864, with Presidential Proclamation 119, President Abraham Lincoln declared the new State of Nevada is now a full member state of the Union. Nevada became the 36th US state, though a little smaller than it would be a few years later.

TRIVIA QUESTION OF THE DAY

No one got this. Try again: A new $51.5 million, 70,000 square foot Las Vegas location of a building was opened on this day in history after it sat empty for two years. What was it?

Friday’s winner: No one

MOVIE TRIVIA QUESTION OF THE WEEK

The answer: Gene Hackman in “The Conversation,” “Unforgiven,” “The French Connection” and “No Way Out.”

Showing tribute of any kind to a drug addict is the most ridiculous thing your administration has come up with yet. The man was a good artist which he was paid highly for.
This is not someone I want my grandchildren to look up to. He killed himself! With Drugs!! This is how you wish to inspire the youth of our town. Your tribute is encouraging young people to follow in the footsteps of a drug addict!!
How sad you have decided to drag our town down a road of star idol worship instead of doing for and celebrating our military heroes. Shame on you. I am embarrassed for us all. Karleen Craig

Las Vegas offered $1 million for new gaming machines at the of the close of the open market bid Ms. Marlena N. Davis ideas were chosen at the close of the bid which were the Wheel of fortune gaming machine and the All-in-one gaming machine which when manufactured the first were delivered to Silver City across from Circus Circus Casino Hotel. Never was Marlena paid but Shot repititiously and sexually molested out of all human relationships. As a stroke victim she regained her ability to work and was told by Las Vegas employees that the City or State contacted them and terminated her for she was disable at the time she worked multiple jobs and found McDonald's was skimming off of not only her, but all employees 15 to 20%. It was stated in Chicago at the Tribune Building everyone knows Mcdonalds put a hit on you years later for being good. When she proved her allegation McDonald's contacted her with apologies to her and her Manager. The 3 jobs she was working was 1.pt time job at McDonald's, 2.pt time job, 3rd was a Sales job at an entertainment company. All jobs gave Marlena a termination notice for no reason other than a contact from the government enforcing a need for a Medical examination to retrieve a work release. Her performance was accepted by employees without the governments interference. Marlena has proven this is a governmental genocide to control minorities to replace with beauracrats relatives to enslave to create, and produce concepts that have proven to benefit and earn millions instead of minimum wages for organize crime figures. Marlena disabled many times, in many ways refused can't do. She challenged a forced Physical examination demanded by Social Security who decides what doctor to visit who could render a work release. Marlena who was shot in the head several times proved actually Dr. Lampkin, Neurologist was a Fraud and had him arrested on her visit as he didn't even know how to test for reflexes, identified a hole in her brain and didn't know what to do, he said; Order more MRI's at a cost $800.then stuck her with a safety pin. Marlena called the Police and questioned his credentials enforced that he provide a license to practice Medicine; when he couldn't they handcuffed him for practicing Medicine there for 13 years without a Medical License. The next day he became Headline News and again everyone hated Marlena for doing the right thing. It was said they could not get their drugs illegally anymore. The same thing happened at USC in Los Angeles, California Marlena was stripped of life support in the Emergency room where they covered PUC/Southern Gas Truck was visible when she was shot in the head again authorities aided/abetted shooter stating she was Invertigo-omitting she was shot--admitted her and tried to kill her upstairs on a Medical Ward asked what she was allergic to then order it when she was hemorrhaging profusedly from her vagina a Medical Doctor ordered a Gynological Specialist to examine instead Dr.Gevorkian ordered what was in the Medical Records proven to cause Anaphylactic shock previously stipulating it may cause her death.

When Dr. Gevorkian wrote the order of death.....Marlena called 911 and told LA Police the Doctor was ordering an allergin that would kill her instead of the order for a Gynecologist Specialist.

Even when Marlena told the Police her mother died in 5 minutes of an allergin injection of penicillin LAPD refused to come into the Hospital and arrest.

Dr. Gevorkian for attempted murder. Los Angeles Police stated they will turn the situation over to USC Security and Marlena's life was in jeopardy they would be transferring her out in 30 minutes to a Secured hospital--Rosemead. When they kidnapped Marlena they stopped all Medical Treatment at a cost of $85,000.00. The hole in her head never received Medical Treatment. Marlena was released 30 days later demanding an administrative review and proof of a Medical license. Marlena was told Dr. Gevorkian was transferred to Glendale Adventist. When 14 jurisdictions would not arrest Dr. Gevorkian Marlena contacted the White House in Washington , DC. 2 years later, whom turned the investigation over to Health and Human services Medical Board whom proved Dr. Gevorkian never had a License to practice Medicine or Psychiatry and informed Marlena that she got had by an orderly who could go to jail for 2 years for using a prescription pad to write any prescription. He proved to have been Cocaine Dealer near LAX Airport later and whatever is talking out of Marlena may be that without her knowledge by way and through as DMV did get busted as, (2016 $13 million Heroine bust from Marlena's 911 call on Fairfax/Wishire) with an appointment in Irvine, California a dispute with Marlena enroute to her appointment with Health and Safety her call to 911 repititiously that day netted a drug bust the perpetrator stipulated, "when Marlena arrive "you get the deed and we get the Cocaine as cops set there."

Marlena's investigation concluded with the arrest of Dr. Saldivar at Glendale Adventist Hospital who confessed to killing 104 persons this way by injecting them to kill. Dr. Saldivar stated he wanted to help them to die to take them out of their misery." Marlena never checked to see if he was licensed or not, however, no one showed concern for their actions but Marlena who knew what happened to her at USC was illegal and should be prosecuted.

Marlena had a note of the question: What is the difference between killing with a gun verses a needle in the Palm Spring, California City Clerks Office when Marlena won a case in Laguna Hills against the Police an Officer Garcia. tried her by omitting facts to institutionalize her for telling the Officer to get the astigma out of his eyes when he interrogates her. She was unlawfully taken to Desert Regional Hospital admitted then asked what she was allergic to whenever she said that would kill me he increased the dosage 5 times. A man with a white coat stepped up and intervene: he stated, "Are you sure you want to inject her with that medication knowing she is allergic:" he replied, "I'm sure," increasing dosage again. The man said, "let me see your hands--he look at his hands extending them....the man in the White Doctors coat reached in back of him fetching handcuffs--Cuffed him and escorted him off of the property on 6-21-2001 the Doctors date-of-death was 6-23-2001, the Doctor was found a mile up the road Dismembered with head decapitated. Officer Garcia confessed to an unlawfull certification stating, "she walked in front of cars but omitted they were halted on a red and she waited for the green to walk is when he snatched her. Officer Garcia confessed was fired immediately. These are the events that are prohibiting her from a CCW and right to bear arms.

After winning a Multi-million Dollar Lawsuit in the County of Los Angeles Superior Court ruled by Honorable Judge Morriss Jones. Marlena was approached in Rancho Coccumongga, California by Police Officer stating on a certificate that "Marlena Nita Davis look suspucious," and held her illegally for 30 days. The Police took her to Colton Hospital in Colton, California another attempt to murder by the Police whom asked again what was she allergic to then injected when the nurse refused for fear she may die...they told her inject her or go. Marlena went into anaphylactic shock and was revived put on a neubilizer, aveolar, and admir she had began bleeding internally and when they discharged her another doctor was going through all the charts, stating he was looking for some money re-admitted her and sold her organs for $ 65, 000. When Marlena got out she filed a police report because there began a stalking of sells of a heart and liver for that cost which neither is for sale. A police report was filed in Palm Springs, California as same actions occurred at DMV. Colton Hospital like all others held Marlena illegally to protect Officer James Merrideth, of Blue Island, Illinois and Officer Calvert of Laguna Beach, California both confessed of Forcible rape but neither is Prosecuted as Marlena is confused by 24 hour attrition, threats, sexual battery, ongoing molestation causing her to lead a wrongful life and obstructing every case from going forward. Never could Marlena be paid for her work or her losses. Her Social Security has been stolen for decades from her purses, from the desk in Cathedral City,

California Thousands
at a time up till the Police confessed in front of his partner in July 2017 where he got shot. Marlena provided a copy of the statement to come and pick up the $4,000.00 benefit check they owed at the desk in Cathedral City, California when she arrived to pick the check up it was gone the said they routed it to the bank which stated they received $400.
Each time she was a rape involved theft or hospitalization if Marlena talked. They had recently taken $3600.00 never could she have a right to privacy or her money without soneone or something touching her with screams of a Bradly in the background. Marlena has received volts to her body since suing the Chicago Police for forcible rape. 1996 to present they scream we are wherewith total strangers screaming every minute refusing to represent who they are at every till.

Freemasons crafted expiedently works were implemented so fast in their neighborhoods in others Marlena is just a Negro with an idea and take her Money, Id, Cell Phone (your voice should not be heard) as stripped in public, kacking. A group stated, "Evict her, Walk her, Institutionalize her, then shoot her." Since the Honorable Martin Luther King, Jr. Stood up and taught us to fight peacefully with wisdom not weapons and died for our equality. Marlena prove a child could not swing on a swing without violence from satin in Leprosy Good and God would be hit every minute by the devil. FACT: Reverend Martin Luther King and Ms. Marlena Nita Davis DID Change an Evil World for the Betterment of All Mankind.

Marlena has been shot up to 11x most recent with a 12 quage shotgun at the Disneyland gate in Anaheim, California after calling the Police and FBI on the 10 most wanted whom confirmed his name was Yaser Abdul Data Saiid when asked on a public OCTA Bus, whose driver chicken out and refused to call the sheriffs to apprehend when he said, "Yes that my name. Authorities did not who up when called to the Bus in November 2016, 2 months after being released from the Hospital held on a note: The Ten Most Wanted wants to kill her transferred by his female friend doctor later stipulated.

The FBI, Long Beach, California Police, Orange County Transportation and Sheriffs negligence are indebted to her as the cause of her being shot, harassed, and tortured. People thought it was her family hurting and stealing from her, Marlena proved it was old world gangs she called Police on as a teen to adult hood like Dewitt and his gang who raped Marlena as a child impregnating her as a child totally estranged. Could it be them holding her today never did Marlena abort the child which too could be killing her without blood for not telling of the event. Greylord, Gambit-Brody, Bulger and his hoods; Ex: Police, Drug Dealers and Wanted Felons Aided/Abetted by Authorities.

In Palm Springs, California when Marlena was working on the idea of putting Fragrances other then Powder Fresh in Deodorants a stalker got caught following her and stealing her ideas for profits when she could never get paid on videotape went to jail with $14 million and published in the News.

Officer Melanson/Officer Garcia of Palm Springs Police whom stole Identification as a Southern Gas Company employee used stolen Identification to work in Marlena's credentials caught burying a Child in Cathedral City, California possibly in retaliation from initiated Court Cases they trample with their children following prostituting. Marlena called in an area where she smelled Blood-- when the Police got finish counting dead babies it was 300 of them. The Palm Springs Police and The Mayor had a Televised special Memorial Service for the bodies found. Fact: Since renting in Palm Springs, California where they stated people with Aides torted her to enter anything screaming she raped a kid they stated with her they are not being sh...ted at."

Marlena have been burnt on fingertips every minute since filing a Lawsuit at District Court Federal on Officer James Merrideth whom threatened to kill.... from 9 volts to 600,000 to extract a statement of "I will Kill you if you don't stop.They took Marlena Nita Davis Taylor Drivers License and rights to drive in America with No Traffic Violations for decades as others used her USC rights.

Marlena Nita Davis can't get paid because of Modern day Slavery from 1960's to Present, Who prosecute the Abolishment Laws? Uhaul of Costa Mesa, California stated, "We held Marlena for 25 years to get; we want her load not her." Uhaul proved Drug/Sex Trafficking with Leonora Padilla, Extortion, Embezzlement, from a $15 million bust when she called in a suspicious truck on Grand & Halsted 1991 to present. Chicago Police proved to have ex-communicated and expulled her from her property found open for the Police to Store Drugs in her name--property she paid monthly rent for years she never visited was found open all that time without her knowledge. Chicago Police were proven to be the renters of the U-haul truck and be grudged her return then told to go leave Chicago.

Marlena being the Child who swung on the swings in Marquette Park on Kedzie in Chicago, Illinois the very first day her father let her ride a bus alone. Her dream was to play and swing on a swing; believes this is the reason 25 years of kidnap by U-haul to get was Silenced.

Marlena's Father who lived & shopped on Marquette Rd that worked everyday always said No, you can not play in the park--when you grow up I will tell you about IT. Marlena went shopping at a little thrift Store across from the Marquette park and bought a little doll--noone was in the Park so she she fulfilled her dream and swung on the swings for only 15 minutes. When her father came home from work at 7:00 p.m. Her Father retrieved her from bed and said, "My child you swung on those swings didn't you!" Marlena replied, "Yes Daddy, I did and had a wonderful time!

Mr. William W. Davis stated, "Come see what I couldn't talk about--as he led Marlena to the Television: Police in Riot gear, Cars on Fire, People getting hit with Billy Clubs, a horrible nightmare created by a child's dream to play is believed to be the reason she could never get paid for her work as a genius as a child after the riots talked to her daddy about building a shopping mall which was the first on 63rd and Halsted. Marlena had drawn a Pot-of-Gold and envisioned people going to the store to play numbers instead of the bookies running from door to door. Daddy always said, "My child that's a good idea! The State Lotto became a way of life like her idea to give people dignity at the registers decades later with her idea give Credit Cards to replace paper Food Stamps (EBT) she would hurt at their embarrassment at the counters for. being poor.

Marlena Nita Davis the only daughter of Mr. William W. Davis at that time reared by her father whose Mother died at her age of four was taught to never, alone...

Master the conditions & circumstances of every day life, but, amongst All Master All things and Did Change a World--alone as a midget--person seen as insignificant, a minority ignorant of hate but taught to labor as a child; if no job is availabe to you--CREATE your own.

Master, Mr. William W. Davis brother of the 1st Negro American U.S. Army General: Benjamin O. Davis, Uncle of the 2nd Negro U.S.Army General: Benjamin O. Davis, Jr.

Marlena Nita Davis found out what her father Never taught his children was to hate or the difference between White and Black they were Equally a Color out of a Crayola box--to judge people by the content of their character not their color. Through Education Marlena proved that in this world, We as a People are One divided by Good verse s Evil and what happened that night in Marquette Park after Marlena swung on a swing for only 15 minute with no one visible in the entire park--Satin and Leprosy attacked Colored people for simply being Good..to give Respect to all was what they could not do for some reason. The people whom labeled themselves the Klu, Klux, Klan exhibited hate, mayhem & murder for actually nothing...theu sought any reason to kill. Marlena proved just a good girls mere existence was to much for them to obey God and the Law and blamed her for the riot.

Marlena proved she could Obey God and the Law and get nothing for creating a World of happiness for all willing to receive Love not Hate and March on Amongst all men raped repeatedly by the Police which most recent in July 2017 an Officer approached the stripped infamous Marlena Nita Davis looking for stolen credentials was aproached by Officers telling her to move on in front of the Paris Hotel planter. Something had been injected in her left foot to tort control her to perform and do without her knowledge. The Police Officer decided to brag of how he layed on top of her for 15 minutes and raped her in the park then took $2,000.00 off of her when she passed out teasing in front of hundreds of people passing bye on the Las Vegas Strip. July 2017 the Officer was shot within 15 minutes of his departure of Marlena before he could leave the strip no one know whether it was his partner who killed him.... someone said it was her enemy an Officer she had filed an Internal Affair Report on the year before for exhibiting hate stating he wanted her dead in public; Rumor says he killed rhe Officer immediately and said, "he didn't know that."

All of Marlena's U. S. Constitutional rights were taken to everything since kidnapped at McCarren Airport by an Officer Lauderdale she could not exit the State of Nevada to eat his Dick he would pay," for refusing she was tresspassed, hit, hospitalized for 3 months and stripped of every USC right to fly and Medical treatment, black/blue areas they for some reason refused to X'ray were photographed still visible 3 months after Officer Lauderdale injured her attwmptwd to jail her with No Charge...a Judge would rule in his favor with 100 witnesses that Marlena did nothing illegal. Two days later this Officer Lauderdale was aired on Live News for ramming his car into another Police Car. These are Las Vegas finest who hired them we don't know but if Marlena say there is a problem 99% of the time she is correct. She was later told by Allied Barton/Universal she will Eat Dick and no longer use a cell phone, WiFi, Ebay etc, you'd get nothing until you do what we say.....

on a Flamingo bus as they attempted to rape a female Bus reported to Las Vegas Metro Police Department.

The forced extractions began at LAPD Parker Center as 85 + officers exited January 26, 2001 when Officer Americ broke 4 ribs and attempted to unlawfully jail. The Supervisor Officer Scott ordered her release as she was looking for a stolen briefcase with two cases whom offered 2 Settlements

1.$20,000,000. from the Cigarette Company 2.$500,000. from Southern Gas Company/Sempra Energy Officer Americ injured Marlena in front of Shiites cladded in shitte wear.

10-24-2017 under video footage at Desert Springs Hospital on Flamingo an ER nurse escorts a caucasion male with a grey hat to her room and points at Marlena stating that's how your $20 million look never did Marlena receive it. J

Marlena hopes the officers did not exit with her settlements, Nor Bin Laden and his group whom Stated, "We never treated our women like that as the exited LAPD Parker Center All Court cases have been Obstructed, Extracted, Manipulated, Broadcasted-'as this report is prepared it is read in nearby houses whom are said to be police and federal. A man name Ahmad stated Marlena was fronted to give over 100,000 Shiites food in Amerca."

In October 2017 as Marlena discussed with security to put a change sprout on the Transaction Machine to render Bills for Change allowed No relationships told to Tow Dicks by Allied Universal.

Marlena N. Davis is Devastated and Petrified Tortured and in Bondage-even as I write a person is screaming every minute they are going to touch me when they want to as I receive voltage and surges to my body to prohibit this contact. Please stop the 18 USC Obstruction of Justice and help Prosecute these crimes. Contact: 1[redacted] Please investigate for Criminal Prosecution, recoupment of losses, wrongful life and Restitution. Hello Mayor Goodman,

We hope that this finds you well! Though Janea and I usually see you at Veteran's Village with Arnold while we perform at his events, this communication is of a different nature.

I spoke with Laura in your office yesterday regarding the following. My good friends have groundbreaking technology to help alleviate shootings and terrorist threats with a comprehensive background search never before available. They will be holding a demonstration on Monday June 20th at 11am at 6570 Spenser Street, Suite C-1 off Sunset by the airport.

This technology could have easily helped to eliminate the recent event in Orlando, and we'd love it if you or someone from your office could attend this event, as we all want to keep Las Vegas as a safe place to both visit and reside.

Below is a brief summary of the technology:

> Meganet Corporation invents, develops and markets data security, intelligence/counter-intelligence and military operational devices. The Company's customers include governments, including the military of and the intelligence agencies of the United States and North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO), as well as private enterprise. The Company's products are divided into around 12 categories: Encryption, Weapon Systems, Armored Vehicles levels B6 & B7 with optional radio frequency (RF) jamming, Bomb Jamming, Communication Interception, Secure Communications, Intelligence/ counter-intelligence products, Global Defense integrator, unmanned aerial vehicles (UAVs), ballistic projectiles and anti-aircraft guns and optics, over the horizon radar systems and classified military products. It is engaged in producing armored vehicles for military very important person (VIP) use across the world with optional bomb jamming.

#Meganet (OTC: MGNT) VME Locator could have prevented the Orlando Terror Attack, could prevent future attacks

VME Locator is a ground breaking technology that can find information on individuals and organizations via:

> Social Media - Facebook, Twitter, Linkedin, Instagram, Vine, Flickr, VK, Tumblr, G+, Pinterest and many more

> DARK WEB search of thousands of sites including private and closed servers and custom defined

> Chat applications including private rooms

> Proprietary & Private applications

> Public databases & private databases

VME Locator can find a person or entity EVEN if they do not have any social media presence! It can find any references to their names worldwide by many other users and sources and build a complete map of:

Their social circles

Physical locations visited and when

Contact information

Activity

Pledges of alliances

Terror groups and affiliations

Threats and hostile posts

Specific keywords from terror to drugs to any custom search

Monitor the web in real time

The authorities knew and suspected that Orlando Terrorist Omar Mateen was dangerous, but could not collect enough info to be able to stop him prior to his horrific terror attack. Had the authorities used VME Locator, there is a great chance that all of the incriminating evidence would have surfaced and provided the authorities with the needed information to take action ahead of time. Likewise for hundreds of potential suspects currently being watched without any actionable information in hand by the authorities.

General

VME Locator solution is a cutting edge, cloud-based social networks and web monitoring platform which lets you search, analyze, and monitor real-time social media content by location, keywords, and users, from anywhere in the world, with single clicks.

VME Locator helps intelligence agencies to attain unmatched situational awareness through real-time social media content in order to turn intelligence into action.

VME Locator enables advanced searches in social networks to gain profound analytical information about targets, such as posts, followers, activity time, influence and more. It queries and extracts all relevant social circles from a defined target and provides the user with deep intelligence insights within a short time.

The system allows the user to monitor real-time information and search for historical data in order to extract the relevant insights efficiently.

VME Locator stores the queried data for further analysis. The analysis features of the system were specifically designed to meet the demands of the intelligence community.

The system was developed as a client-server topology and enables multiple users to connect concurrently and to share their critical information. The system can be implemented as a software license using a remote server, or through a local server that resides in the client premises.

Key Features

- Advanced query
    - The system operations are set by an advanced, yet simple to define, query
    - The query can define the target type – profile / group / free search
    - Query can be defined by a specific time frame
- Posts search
    - Search can be implemented on multiple social networks and websites
    - The system enables geolocated search as well, within a defined area of interest
    - Multiple languages can be searched
- Profile search
    - Searching for target profiles over the web
    - Deep search can extract target details and try identifying similar profiles
- Analysis
    - Analysis is an advanced capability in which the system queries the targeted information whether it is a profile, a group, or any keyword defined search
    - The system analyzes and extracts various output results, such as:

      General target information, geolocated results, activity timelines, context analysis, targets social engagements, group distributions, visual representation of the target circles, etc.
- Continuous monitoring
    - The system enables the user to define any criteria for real time monitoring
    - Incoming results will be automatically analyzed and presented to the user for decision making
    - Real time alerts are supported

Examiner

General

Examiner is an innovative web solution developed for the purpose of remote exposure of target technical details such as an IP, network parameters, locations and additional personal information using non-intrusive methods.

The solution is used when target parameters should be extracted for the purpose of identifying, monitoring and also engaging with it. The target can be any person using a device which is able to surf the web, whether it's a PC, laptop or a mobile phone of any type.

The solution looks past the hardened network perimeter and client system, and examines exploitability within the context of the web browser. It will connect to the target web interface and use it as a beachhead for launching directed command modules and further attacks against the system from within the browser context.

The solution can handle vast amounts of targets in real time, enabling the user to easily view all the information under his domains, and to receive the relevant alerts as they happen. All relevant target data is stored in the system for further investigation.

The system comes with our vast operational experience and innovative intelligence methodology. It assists the user to engage with targets using advanced social engineering and automatic methods while staying covert from exposure.

Key Features

- Links management
    - Enables selection of any relevant link from across the web in order to be used in the system
    - The links can be sent by any platform – from mail , SMS , WhatsApp and any form of link delivery
- URL management
    - The system can handle connections of various visitors concurrently
    - Visitors can be identified as targets for:
- Target source details
    - Identification of various target source details such as IP, device type, applications versions etc.
- Target device fingerprinting
    - Unique approach which creates an online user identity
    - This identity can be used for various identification or forensic methodologies. Target local network scan
- Extraction of local IP
- Discovering connected stations
- IP geolocation
    - Provides the general location of the target IP
- Social engineering capabilities

- Pop-up menus
- Virtual sites

- Accurate geolocation
  - Enables GPS accuracy level

Mayor Goodman,
Thank you for your acknowledgement. Please read my summary of "Adios America" below.
Also, because some people are more influenced by feelings than facts, I thought you might be interested in my summary of this NYT book review, "Against Empathy: The Case for Rational Compassion" by Paul Bloom:
"Empathy, he argues, is a poor moral guide.... favouring the one over the many... empathy is untampered by reason, emanating from the murky bayou of the gut. He prefers a kind of rational compassion - a mixture of caring and detached cost-benefit analysis. ... To those who say empathy is essential to morality, he would reply that morality has many sources. Many 'wrongs' - like littering or cheating on your taxes - have no distinct victims to empathise with. Nor does it appear that the most empathetic people behave the most ethically. There have been hundreds of studies... the results are 'meh'. ... empathy is generally a bad tool to use for allocating resources. ... is part of the reason why governments and individuals care more about a little girl stuck in a well than about events that will affect millions. Consider parenting... almost all parents have a terrible time tolerating the discomfort of their children. Yet it's often essential (going to the dentist, doing homework, spending a night away from home). ...rationality in political domains often does seem to be in short supply."

"Adios, America!" by Ann Coulter. Excerpts below:

1. For forty years, the people have tried to tell politicians they want less immigration, but the politicians won't listen. Every single elite group in America is aligned against the public - the media, ethnic activists, big campaign donors, Wall Street, multimillionaire farmers, and liberal "churches." They all want mass immigration from the Third World to continue. Both political parties connive to grant illegal aliens citizenship and bring in millions more legally, and the media hide the evidence. ... How immigration is changing our country is a lot more important than most of the "news" we hear about endlessly. The media will pound away at Chris Christie's 'Bridge gate', apocryphal fraternity rapes, the Augusta National Golf Club's membership policies, 'white privilege... But getting the truth about immigration is nearly impossible. The media tell us: ... Immigrants are doing the jobs Americans just won't do: Americans are perfectly happy to do all manner of jobs - they just won't do them for $7.00 an hour. Unions used to care about that, but now they just want political power.... Amnesty will be Fantastic for the Economy: Unless we're talking about the Mexican economy, this is patently ridiculous. Adding another 30 million poor, unskilled, non-taxpaying, welfare-receiving people to America is good only for government workers and employers who refuse to mechanize their operations or pay Americans one dollar more. ... The problems stemming from unchecked immigration are all over the news. You'll just never be told they are problems of immigration - children living in poverty, childhood obesity, teen pregnancy, out-of-wedlock births, abysmal high school dropout rates, income inequality, 'homegrown' terrorists, massive Medicare frauds, internet crime, identity theft, prison overcrowding, the vast number of uninsured used to justify Obamacare, sex trafficking, the epidemic of child rape, the destruction of our national parks, drunk driving casualties, drug-resistant tuberculosis, measles and other viral outbreaks, bankrupt government pension, low reading and math scores and shorter 'Americans'. ... why is it a crisis that illegal aliens are 'living in the shadows'?... It's supposed to be uncomfortable to break the law. ... How did all those illegal aliens get into the shadows in the first place? They weren't kidnapped and dragged across the border... But 'living in the shadows' is evidently better than living in Guadalajara, otherwise, there's an easy solution. Democrats aren't big on amnestying other lawbreakers. they don't hysterically demand amnesty for accounting cheats or polluters - not even for "the children" of accounting cheats and polluters. Enron executives were hard workers. They loved their families and wanted the best for them, just I'm sure MS-13 gang members love their families.... When the bathtub is overflowing, the very first thing you do is: TURN OFF THE WATER. ... obviously, any amnesty functions as a magnet for more illegal aliens. Nothing shows the bad faith of amnesty advocates with more blinding clarity than their steadfast refusal to seal the border. Ordinary people see this and know they're being lied to. ... China built a thirteen-thousand mile wall several centuries before Christ, and it's still working. ... For whom is a 'world without borders' an ideal? People who don't much care for America, I gather. ... Congress has repeatedly voted to build a border fence. But somehow, the fence never gets built - and Congress does nothing. ... amnesty supporters tried a surprise argument: To stop illegals pouring across the border, congress had to pass amnesty. They were hoping to stun us into silence with the stupidity of their argument. ... The 1986 Simpson-Mazzoli Act was supposed to end illegal immigration forever: Give us amnesty one time, then: Never again. As with all laws that combine the bitter with the sweet, such as tax hikes and spending cuts, we got one and not the other. The amnesty came, but the border security never did. Illegal immigration sextupled. There have been a half dozen more amnesties since then... . "The moral thing to do" is usually defined as "following the law." ... To paraphrase what President Bush used to say about terrorists: The anti-amnesty side has to be perfect every time; the pro-amnesty side only has to win once. Then the country is finished. 2. ... shouldn't politicians be more concerned with what citizens think of them than what foreigners do? ... Wouldn't any sane immigration policy be based on the principle that we want to bring in only immigrants who will benefit the people already here? ... Try calling another country's embassy and asking to immigrate there. Consulate: What do you want? You: Well, I can't read or write, I have no skills, and I've got nine kids. Oh and by the way. If I can't make it in your country, would you mind cutting my family a check once a month? ... Our "family reunification" policies mean that being related to a recent immigrant from Pakistan trumps being a surgeon from Denmark. Our government does such a terrific job at choosing who gets to immigrate to America that 52 percent of legal immigrant households with children are on government assistance. In all, nearly 60 percent of immigrants - legal and illegal - are on government assistance, compared with 39 percent of native households. Why would any country voluntarily bring in people who have to be supported by the taxpayer? ... The immigrants get a taxpayer subsidy to work for the rich, and the rich get a break on the maid. This cozy deal is funded by the long-suffering middle class. The anti-American crowd used to dash off to fight with Communist insurgencies in Third World jungles. But the fun of being self-righteous was sometimes cut short when they ended up in prison.... Rather than hating America from abroad, today's radicals can hate it right here at home by bringing the Third World to America! ... Being openly hostile to America has become a part of ethnic pride. US Rep Luis Gutierrez calls on his own country (technically the USA) to "stop the deportation of our people . ... Gutierrez told Newsweek that he has "only one loyalty, and that's to the immigrant community."

Whose taxes will be raised to make up the shortfall? Not the people who don't pay any taxes at all. Employers don't care. They want the cheap labor NOW.... We're seeing exactly what Vladimir Lenin is supposed to have said about capitalists: 'They will sell us the rope with which to hang them.' ... Whey shouldn't employers be on the hook when their cheap labor becomes a public charge or commits a crime? ... An immigration law premised on the idea that America owes the rest of the world would be bad enough. But Third World immigration + massive welfare state + political correctness = The end of America. 4. America is not the natural state of the world. The natural state of the world is Darfur. The British Empire spread Anglo-Saxon culture around the globe - Protestant morals, individualism, and the rule of law. Most British colonies rejected those values. Only the ones populated by actual British people -
America, Canada, Australia, and New Zealand - managed to hold on to them and, as a result, prospered. The empire's most successful experiment was the United States. Anyone who hesitates for a moment to recognize that some groups have it over other groups in producing free and prosperous nations has been brainwashed beyond reclamation.

5. America has already taken in more than one quarter of Mexico's entire population. ... Is that diverse enough yet? Why is it better that the ethnic population of our country be changed? ... Immigration of the past half century has been a homicide made to look like a suicide. ...a natural process? ... It's more like Americans are trying to stop an Army Corp of Engineers project that will flood the valley where they live in order to build a hydroelectric plant that will help one powerful corporation.
6. ... Until 1970, American immigrants did better than the natives - as any sane immigration policy would require. They made more money, bought more houses, and were more educated. By contrast, the post-1970 immigrants are far more likely to be unemployed and live in poverty that the native Americans. More that a third of the post-Kennedy act immigrants don't even have a high school diploma. ... In some bizarre notion of turn-about-is-fair-play, it is assumed that backward societies have the right to relocate to the countries of their former colonizers. I thought they hated those guys (the colonizers)? ... In just a few decades, Minnesota has gone from being approximately, 99 percent German, Dutch, Finnish, Danish, and Polish to 20 percent African immigrant, including at least one hundred thousand Somalis. And that's not counting the Somalis who have recently left the country to fight with al Queda and ISIS. One hundred thousand is just an estimate. We don't know precisely how many Somalis the federal government has brought in as "refugees" because the government won't tell us. ... Kate Towle, the parent leader of a high school group called "Students Together as Allies for Racial Trust" explained that diversity skills "have to be developed like math, history." Maybe it would be better for students to be learning math and history, rather than the important skill of getting along with Somalis. It doesn't seem to be working anyway. There are still violent ethnic brawls that send students to the hospital. What did we do to Somalis? ... absolutely nothing. But now these immigrants, who arrived yesterday, will get affirmative action over white Americans. ... Luckily, every Somali in Minnesota who has a job works for an ethnic grievance outfit - for example, the Somali Justice Advocacy Center, the Somali Resources Aid Associates, the African Development Center, and the Confederation of Somali Community in Minnesota. (And those are just some of the jobs being created by immigrants!). ... half of Somalis in Minnesota unemployed and 80 percent living at or below the poverty level... Recent mass murders committed by legal immigrants: The seven people murdered by Chechen immigrants Dzhokhar and Tamerlan Tsarnaev, who planted a bomb at the Boston Marathon, the four people fatally shot in a Carson City IHOP by... the Mexican-born Eduardo Sencion, the thirteen soldiers killed at Fort Hood by Major Nidal Malik Hasan, son of Palestinian immigrants, the thirteen people murdered by Vietnamese immigrant Jiverly Wong, at an American Civic Association in Binghamton, New York, the thirty-two people murdered at Virginia Tech by Seung-Hui Cho, a South Korean immigrant.... no one notices the immigrant crime wave because the media hide the evidence.
8. When did Americans get together and decide we want 30 percent of all immigrants to be from a single country and that country should be Mexico? If we're going to take almost all our immigrants from a single country, why not Denmark? There appears to have been only on Danish prisoner in New York State in decades - and, again, that was a Muslim. ...nearly 90 percent (of criminal aliens imprisoned in the states in 2009) were from one of eight countries: Mexico, Colombia, the Dominican Republic, Cuba, Jamaica, El Salvador, Honduras, and Guatemala. ... What other country on earth would be so stupid? We have studies showing Hispanics are underrepresented in Hollywood, at top colleges, in the federal government, and in the national media... You know where else Hispanics are underrepresented? In the US military. You'd never know it... but Hispanics are half as likely to enlist in the military as either whites or blacks. ... Hispanic males in the US are more than three times as likely to spend time in prison in their lifetimes than white males. ... The vast majority of all drugs in America - heroin, cocaine, marijuana, and increasingly, methamphetamine - are brought in from Mexico. Most of the heroin sold in the US is grown south of the border, and Mexican cartels transport nearly all of it. ... More than 40,000 Americans were killed from all illegal drug use in 2010, surpassing car accidents and shootings as a cause of death. ... Today, China is once again battling drug smuggling because like America, it also has a poor, corrupt nation with a massive humanitarian crisis on its border; Not Mexico, but North Korea. Guess what China did? It built a fence! Despite stern warnings from the New York Times, China put a thirteen-foot barbed wire fence on its border, patrolled by armed guards. And you know what, it's working! ... Is an American citizen more likely to be murdered by a Muslim terrorist or by a Mexican? According to CNN, 29 Americans have been killed in Islamic terrorist attacks in the US since 9/11. I don't know why they excluded 9/11, so by my count, it's 3,029. In fact, let's round it up to 4,000 to cover the last several decades. According to the GAO's extremely conservative figures, Mexicans alone - forget other immigrants - have murdered a minimum of 23,000 Americans in the last few decades. ... If this were happening in Israel, forget a fence - Netanyahu would be bombing Mexico. ... President Eisenhower put a general in charge of the INS, who proceeded to round up and deport illegals in an operation dubbed "Operation Wetback." HBO's Bill Maher would be saying of our southern neighbors: "Americans have 349 Nobel Prizes;

Latin Americans have 16. That seems like kind of a big advantage for Team America." ... Far more Americans are murdered by Mexicans, per capita, than Israelis are murdered by Palestinians. 11. The three young girls kidnapped and held as sex slaves for more than a decade in a boarded-up house in Cleveland had been held by Ariel Castro. ... But then it turned out Castro wasn't the only Hispanic raping young girls - on his block. ... While investigating the Castro case, detectives happened upon Acevedo... he had raped and killed two of his neighbors...

Chandra Levy's killer turned out not to be Democratic Congressman Gary Condit, but Ingmar Guandique - an illegal alien from El Salvador, given temporary amnesty by President Bush. (Does that guy have any brothers? I'd love to see another one like him in the White House!). The one Central Park rapist that even liberals admit was guilty was Hispanic Matias Reyes. After the other attackers had finished with the victim, Reyes came across the joggers beaten and bloody body, and raped her himself.

12. ... environmentalists used to care about gridlock, overcrowding, loss of parkland, and exhaustion of natural resources. Not anymore. Today's environmentalists turn a blind eye as 25 million people tramp through delicate ecosystems, set fire to national parks, kill livestock, dump tons of soiled diapers and Pepsi bottles in the desert, and deface ancient Native American sites. Political correctness demands that no one notice immigrants' toll on the environment. ... Of the 77 human-caused fires on federal or tribal land in Arizona between 2006 and 2010 investigated by the GAO, a cause could be determined in 60 cases. Fully half of those were caused by illegal aliens. ...One of the reasons the GAO was able to review only 77 fires was that the BLM and the Forest Service couldn't spare any agents for investigations. They were too busy protecting 'firefighters and their equipment from illegal aliens.' Apparently, when illegals see border patrol agents, they try to distract them by throwing lighted matches in the brush to start fires. Not only do illegal immigrants intentionally set wildfires, but they violently attack firefighters trying to extinguish the blazes. Firies are allowed to rage, because fire crews are forced to wait for law enforcement protection. ... The Forest Service had once gamely suggested trying to identify 'the group most likely to start fires,' but once the evidence was in, they buried it. To blame illegal aliens would be playing the 'blame the perpetrator' game. ... Because of new border restrictions after 9/11 - I guess it was possible to tighten the borders! - our dear friends in Mexico moved their drug cartel operations directly into America's parks. ... 'These guys shoot people'... Armed illegal aliens were in control of our national parks, so government officials leapt to action by shutting down the parks. A majority of Organ Pipe Cactus National Monument was closed to US citizens for more than a decade because it was too dangerous.

... For a glimpse into America's future, consider how Mexicans treat their own environment. In Mexico's most famous national park, a ten-thousand-year-old evergreen forest designated by presidential decree as a biosphere reserve, illegal loggers chop down about seventy mature tress a day... While environmentalists from around the world send millions of dollars to Mexico preserve the forest... For decades, Mexican refuse ended up on San Diego's world-famous beaches by way of the Tijuana River. ... One solution would have been for Mexicans to stop throwing their garbage in the river. ... Instead, US taxpayers funded a sewage treatment plant on the border at a cost of $239.4 million. Mexico chipped in $17 million. ... Where are the environmentalists? For 50 years, they've been carrying on about overpopulation; promoting family planning, birth control... The Sierra Club began sounding the alarm over the country's expanding population in 1965 - the very year Teddy Kennedy's immigration act passed - and in 1978, adopted a resolution expressly asking Congress to 'conduct a thorough examination of US immigration laws.' For a while, the Club taked about almost nothing else. "It is obvious" the Club said two years later, "that the numbers of immigrants the US accepts affects our population size and growth rate," even more than 'the number of children per family.

Over the next three decades, America took in tens of millions of legal immigrants and illegal aliens alike. But suddenly, about ten years ago, the Sierra Cub realized to its embarrassment that importing multiple millions of polluting, fire-setting, littering immigrants is actually fantastic for the environment! The advantages of overpopulation dawned on the Sierra Club right after it received a $100 million donation from hedge fund billionaire David Gelbaum with the express stipulation that - as he told the LA Times - 'if they ever came out anti-immigration, they would never get a dollar from me.' It would be as if someone offered the Catholic Church $100 million to be pro-abortion. But the Sierra Club said: Sure! Did you bring the check? Obviously, there's no reason to listen to them on anything.

... Not only did the Sierra Club never again say another word against immigration, but, in 2004, it went the extra mile, denouncing three actuals environmentalists running for the Club's board, by claiming they were racists who opposed mass immigration. The three 'white supremacists' were Dick Lamm, the three-time Democratic governor of Colorado; Frank Morris, former head of the Black Congressional Caucus Foundation; and Cornell professor David Pimentel, who created the first ecology course at the university... America's premiere hate group, the Southern Poverty Law Center, jumped into the fray, with multimillionaire con man and SPLC head Morris Dees running for the Sierra Club board simply to smear the three real environmentalist candidates... But, evidently, what poor Southerners need most is a massive influx of foreign poor people competing for their jobs. ... In 2012, Sierra Club executive director Michael Brune announced that the Club officially supported mass immigration - amnesty, no borders, more legal immigration, the whole nine yards.

13. Normally, (Carlos) slim is the kind of businessman the (NY) Times - along with every other sentient human being - would find repugnant. Frequently listed as the richest man in the world, Slim acquired his fortune through a corrupt inside deal giving him a monopoly on telecommunications services in Mexico. But in order to make money from his monopoly, Slim needs lots of Mexicans living in the US, sending money to their relatives back in Oaxaca. Otherwise, Mexicans couldn't pay him - and they wouldn't have much need for phone service, either, other than to call in ransom demands. Back in 2004, before the Times became Slim's pimp - a Times article stated: "Clearly... the nation's southern border is under siege." But that was before Carlos Slim saved the Times from bankruptcy. Ten years later, with a border crisis even worse that in 2004, and Latin America pouring across the border, the Times indignantly demanded the Obama "go big" on immigration and give "millions of immigrants permission to stay". ...

Republicans are terrified of saying anything about immigration for fear of being called 'racist.' ... The fact that most immigrants are Hispanic provides excellent cover for the elite's monumental self-interest. Here's a tip for the GOP: Don't talk about the illegal aliens. Talk about Carlos Slim, Talk about rich Americans finding a solution to 'the servant problem.' Talk about one-hit wonder Mark Zuckerberg underpaying his computer programmers while 32 percent of American graduates in STEM fields can't get job and the rest haven't seen their salaries rise for more than a decade. Talk about how Bill Clinton couldn't find someone to be his attorney general because of the prevalence of illegal alien employees in households of the '1 percent'. Determined to appoint a woman attorney general, Clinton kept producing women with illegal alien nannies (Zoe Baird, Kimba Wood). ... The elites just can't grasp that most Americans raise their own kids, make their own beds, cook their own food, and drive their own cars. ... America will be Brazil, with a well-pampered, itty-bitty upper class, amid an ocean of poor people. ... It's a sweet deal the elites have: They get to have cheap nannies and lawn boys in the whitest towns in America - and feel morally superior at the same time!

14. The vast majority of all legal immigrants - two thirds- get in on "family reunification" policies each year. In other words, America has no say about the single largest category of immigrants... Entire villages from Pakistan are dumped on the country, based not on their expertise in nuclear engineering, but because everyone in the village is related to the first guy who got in. If they're not, in the strict sense, related, they'll lie. In 2008, the State Department suspended the family reunification part of the African refugee program because DNA testing showed that only 20 percent of 'family members' were actually related. We'll still take as many refugees from Africa, but they won't have to lie about being related anymore. ... The special agricultural amnesty of 1986 is a good example of how even the most reasonable-sounding immigration law will inevitably be turned into a pipeline for criminals, welfare cases, and terrorists. ... illegal alien farmworkers who could prove they had done seasonal farmwork for a total of ninety days between May 1, 1985 and May 1, 1986, would be granted temporary legal status. what could go wrong? In the first three years of the program, 888,637 agricultural amnesty applications were identified as fraudulent - but only 60,637 of those were denied. Overwhelmed with amnesty applications under just this one provision, the INS found it to be a big time-saver to simply ignore fraud. ... Mohammed Salameh, another terrorist convicted in the 1993 World Trade Center bombing, was also in the US because of Schumer's special agricultural worker amnesty. The unskilled 19-year-old first came to the US on a tourist visa because, as the US consulate later explained, someone in the office "took a chance" on Mohammed. Mohammed not only had never worked on a farm, but he was not even in the country until 1988, two years after the special amnesty became law, though it was explicitly limited to those who had worked on farms in the US in the year before May 1, 1986. By the most basic definition of the law, Mohammed was not eligible, but he was allowed to stay in the US and obtain a work visa - while the INS processed his petition. Moving with the lightning speed of a government agency, the INS rejected his petition for amnesty as a farm worker three years later. Then, Mohammed applied for a general amnesty, claiming he had been living continuously in the US from 1980 to 1986. Actually, he was a teenager in Jordan then, but again, Mohammed was allowed to stay while the INS considered his request. As it considering, Mohammed bombed the World Trade Center.

How about all those brainy, high-tech H-!B immigrants that Senator Orrin Hatch keeps telling us about? ... the cheap-labor advocacy group Partnership for a New American Economy excitedly tweeted that two - yes two - of the five LindedIn founders were "born in Europe"!... Here's my counter tweet: 98.7% fo the founders of important Silicon Valley companies were born in America! 99 percent are white men! ... Professor Norman Matloff: 'The vast majority of H-1B's, including those hired from US universities, are ordinary people doing ordinary work, not the best and the brightest. On the contrary, the average quality of the H-1Bs is lower that theat of the Americans. ... The main advantage of foreign labor over native workers, Matloff explains, is aht H-1B workers are indentured servants: They can't quit without risking deportation. so American employers get to pay less for standard computer programming work. ... They want cheap people. Mass-immigration advocates push ethnic stereotypes about high-IQ immigrants, but then go crazy whenever anyone suggests we actually bring in high-IQ immigrants. ... The average Indian IQ is staggeringly low: 82. That's about the same as the average IQ in Afghanistan - 84; Panama - 84; Dominican Republic - 82; Paraguay - 84; Yemen - 85; and Tonga - 86. We take more immigrants from India than from Austria, Belgium, Denmark, Finland, Greece, Iceland, Ireland, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Sweden, Switzerland, Spain, and the Czech Republic put together. Why are we discriminating...? The answer is: Because those immigrants would tend to fill the kinds of jobs rich people have.

15. The only thing that stands between America and oblivion is a total immigration moratorium. ... It's evident that the government can't be trusted to use three brain cells in admitting immigrants, so its discretion has to be completely revoked. No matter how clearly laws are written, government bureaucrats connive to confer citizenship on people that a majority of Americans would not want to let in as tourists, much less as our fellow citizens. ... No other fix will work. Congress could just insist that immigrants pay taxes, learn English, not collect welfare, and have good moral character, except the problem is: It already has. All those laws were swept away by INS officials, judges, and Democratic administrations. Doing it again won't produce a different result. ... Even if we could trust the government on immigration - and we can't - there are the legions of immigration lawyers, lobbyists, nonprofits, and general miscreants whose single-minded mission is to turn America into the Third World hellhole of liberal fantasies. ... The billion-dollar immigration industry has turned every single aspect of immigration law into an engine of fraud. The family reunifications are frauds, the 'farmworkers' are frauds, the high-tech visas are frauds - and the asylum and refugee cases are monumental frauds. ... the only result of our asylum policies is that we get good liars. Taxpayers subsidize sleazy immigration activists who coach immigrants to lie to immigration officials. Document mills produce phony passports, school records, and medical reports. ... immigration judges approve 92 percent of all "credible fear" asylum applications.
16. ... if Romney had won 71 percent of the Hispanic vote in 2012, instead of 27 percent, he still would have lost. On the other hand, had he won just 4 percent more of the white vote, he would have won.
17. America's suicidal immigration policies are the single biggest threat facing the nation. What happens with immigration will determine whether America continues to exist or becomes a Third World republic...

Subject: Stop coddling illegal aliens in Las Vegas!

Sent from Outlook

Mayor Goodman,
I was disappointed to watch you on your KCLV show Friday evening supporting illegal aliens. Worse yet was the inclusion of two guests, both of who were also advocates of illegal aliens. Wouldn't it have been fair to host an equal amount of speakers in opposition? Is the care and feeding of illegal aliens a part of the city charter? I doubt it. We need the illegal immigrants to return to their native countries. Your positions lure more of them here and encourage them to stay. Why don't you start looking out for US citizens first? Don't you realize that the reason people from third world countries sneak into the US is ultimately because they can't stand being around other third world people. Plenty of skilled people from developed countries are waiting patiently for admission to the US. Is it fair to reward those whose very first act into this county is illegal? You can disguise the problem by saying they are fleeing high crime rates, violence, rotten economy... but this deception hides the real reason. Why would you want to turn us into a third world country? If you feel so concerned about them, there is an easy solution: move to a third world country to help them where they are.

Please read:

The Immigration Solution, by MacDonald, Hansen & Malanga

While the cheapness of the immigrants' labor may benefit a very few industries and provide some upper and le-class families with cut-rate gardeners and nannies, it adds very little to our national standard of living. On the other side of the ledger, the costs these immigrants impose on US taxpayers for health care, schooling, welfare, and (all too often) incarceration far outweigh the benefits they offer. In California, the National Academy of Sciences found immigrant families cost each native-born household an additional $1,200 in taxes per year. Although a net loss for the US, such workers are an unalloyed boon for Mexico. Their ability to find work north of the border is an essential safety valve for Mexico's failed economy and stubbornly unreformed political culture, and the remittances these workers send home are indispensable to Mexico, constituting its second largest source of hard currency. No wonder the Mexican government – especially through its consuls in the US – vigorously fosters the illegal migration of its nationals into its northern neighbor. … But those earlier huddled masses of immigrants yearning to breathe free, however tired and poor they may have looked, were in fact on average more skilled than the native-born population of a century ago. In addition, the less-developed economy of that era also had a vastly greater need for immigrants without skills than does today's knowledge economy. More important, the US immigration system of that period was a machine for selecting the most enterprising and energetic migrants. With no welfare system whatever, those who came were those who thought they could make use of the opportunity and freedom America offered by their own efforts. Grateful for the chance, these newcomers were only too glad to assimilate to their new land as best they could, and their children did so wholeheartedly. Not so today. The first child born in America to an immigrant entitles his or her family to child-only welfare payments – a hefty-looking sum to a recent migrants from a peasant village. … Deprived of work, illegals would return home, just as 60 percent of immigrants from the first great migration eventually left these shores when they couldn't make it here. ...our new policy should select newcomers not because they are someone's brother or adult child or elderly parents, or because they successfully sneaked into the country some years ago, but because they have some special skill... that will enrich our nation. … Thousands arrive illegally from Mexico into California each year... They come in such numbers because a tacit alliance of Right and Left has created an open-borders policy, aimed at keeping wage labor cheap and social problems ever fresh, so that the ministrations of Chicano studies professors, La Raza activists, and all the other self-appointed defenders of group causes will never be unneeded. … nearly one quarter of California's inmates are aliens from Mexico. The pro-labor left found that the industrious new arrivals whom it championed eroded the wages of its own domestic low wage constituencies - the Labor Department attributes 50 percent of real-wage declines to the influx of cheap immigrant labor. … when I was ten, in 1963, all suburbanites mowed their own lawns – many with push mowers. Now almost everyone hires the job out. Nannies for toddlers and grannies, unheard of then, are now ubiquitous... Rural schools used to begin in mid-September to ensure that we natives could pick grapes to earn our school clothes and shoes. Today not a single student in California would do such hot, dirty work, now considered demeaning. … So we allow illegal aliens to obtain California driver's licenses – the foundation for all other means of legal identification – and to pay reduced in-state tuition at the University of California, thereby providing several thousand dollars in discounts not available to American citizens from out of state. Whether you break the law to reach California or immigrate legally, it makes little difference in how you drive, send your kids to college, or draw on the public services of the state. … I often suggest to teachers who tell aliens that our culture is racist, exploitative, and sexist that they should live in Mexico themselves to fathom why millions are dying to obtain what they so casually dismiss.

… America does not have a vast labor shortage that requires waves of low wage immigrants to alleviate; in fact, unemployment among native-born unskilled workers in high – consistently about double the nations' overall unemployment rate. … an unusual coalition of business groups, unions, civil rights activists, and church leaders thwarted the call for restrictions with passage of the inaptly names 1986 Immigration Reform and Control Act, which legalized some 2.7 million unauthorized aliens already here, supposedly in exchange for tougher penalties and controls against employers who hired illegals. The law proved no deterrent, however, because supporters, in subsequent legislation and court cases argued on civil rights grounds, weakened the employer sanctions. Meanwhile more illegals flooded here in the hope of future amnesties from Congress, while the newly legalized sneaked their wives and children into the country rather than have them wait for family-preference visas. The flow of illegals into the country rose to between 300,000 and 500,000 per year in the 1990's, so that a decade after the legislation that had supposedly solved the undocumented alien problem by reclassifying them as legal, the number of illegals living in the US was back up to about 5 million. … In many American industries, waves of low-wage workers have also retarded investments that might lead to modernization and efficiency. Farming, which employs a million immigrant laborers in California alone, is the prime case in point. Faced with a labor shortage in the early 1960's, when President Kennedy ended a 22-year-old guest-worker program that allowed 45,000 Mexican farm hands to cross over the border and harvest 2.2 million tons of California tomatoes for processed foods, farmers complained but swiftly automated, adopting a mechanical tomato-picking technology created more than a decade earlier. Today, just 5,000 better-paid workers – one-ninth the original workforce – harvest 12 million tons of tomatoes using the machines. The savings prompted by low-wage migrants may even be minimal in crops not easily mechanized. … If the benefits of the current generation of migrants are small, the costs are large and growing because of America's vast range of social programs and the wide advocacy network that strives to hook low-earning legal and illegal immigrants into these programs. A 1998 Nationals Academy of Sciences study found that more than 30 percent of California's foreign-born were on Medicaid... compared with 14 percent of native –born households. The foreign-born were more than twice as likely as the native-born to be on welfare, and their children were nearly five times as likely to be in means-tested government lunch programs. Native-born households pay for much of this, the study found, because they earn more and pay higher taxes – and are more likely to comply with tax laws. Recent immigrants, by comparison, have much lower levels of income and tax compliance.

... This call for 'human rights' is a clever one, for it hides its radical status in a rhetorical safe harbor. What, exactly, are the 'human rights' that the US is denying illegal aliens? They have unfettered access to free medical care, free education, welfare for their children, free representation in court when they commit crimes, every due process protection during criminal prosecution that the Constitution guarantees citizens and legal immigrants, the shelter of labor laws, and the miracles of modern industrial society like clean water, the control of infectious diseases (including the ones they bring with them), and plumbing. The only putative 'right' they lack - and that, of course, is the 'human right' to which they and their ambassadors refer - is the right to legal status regardless of illegal entry. ....

No one will take the assurance that 'this time we mean business' seriously. If the executive branch is not willing to enforce the current law against violators, a new set of laws will not suddenly strengthen its resolve... border defenses have been fortified over the years, but the drill has been: if you can get past the border patrol, you are home free. The most important action the government could take to end illegal immigration would be to penalize employers that unlawfully hire illegal aliens... After 9/11, the department of Homeland Security deported fifteen hundred illegal Pakistanis. An additional fifteen thousand then left voluntarily, reports Jessica Vaughan of the Center for Immigration Studies. There is no reason to think this enforcement-through-attrition strategy won't work as well for Hispanic illegals. ...

It would be useful for open-borders optimists to spend some time in the Los Angeles Unified School District, which is 73 percent Hispanic, and where just 40 percent of Hispanic students graduate. (Nationwide, 53 percent of Hispanics graduate from high school...) Of those Hispanic students who do graduate, just 22 percent have completed the course work necessary for admission to a four-year state college - which means that of all Hispanic students who enter in ninth grade, fewer than 15 percent will graduate ready for college. Immigrant advocates have fiercely opposed in court a long-deferred California high school exit exam, which would require students to answer just over 50 percent of questions testing eight-grade-level math and ninth-grade-level English. The California Research Bureau predicts that if the exam becomes a reality, Hispanic graduation rates would drop well below 30 percent. ... Schools spend huge sums trying to improve the Hispanic graduation rate, even hiring 'outreach consultants' for dropout prevention. One Santa Ana consultant's approach is predictably multicultural. "We need to teach teachers that students need to be proud of where they are coming from," she told me. But, of course, Hispanic school failure derives not from ethnic neglect - the Sana Ana schools glorify the Hispanic heritage to a fault...

...a high level of immigration translates to increased levels of crime. Between the foreign-born generation and their American children, the incarceration rate of Mexican American jumps more than eightfold...
Pro-amnesty forces promote that illegal immigrants "risk everything for the dream of freedom"... However lousy the Mexican economy, there are few, if any, political freedoms enjoyed by Americans that Mexico denies. It is the Yankee dollar, not untasted freedom, that brings the vast majority of illegals here.

...in spring 2006 American witnessed millions of illegal aliens who not only were unapologetic about their illegal status but were demanding that their hosts accommodate their own political grievances, from providing driver's licenses to full amnesty. The largest demonstrations - held on May Day, with thousands of protesters waving Mexican flags and bearing placards depicting the Communist insurrectionist Che Guevara - only confirmed to most Americans that illegal immigration was out of control and beginning to become politicized along the lines of Latin American radicalism. I chronicled in Mexifornia the anomaly of angry protesters waving he flag of the country they vehemently did not wish to return to , but now the evening news beamed these images to millions. In short, the radical socialism of Latin America, seething in the angry millions who flocked to support Venezuela's Hugo Chavez, Bolivia's Evo Morales, and Mexico's Andres Lopez Obrador, had now seemingly been imported into our own largest cities. ...

Crippled America

We are the only nation in the world whose immigration system places the needs of other nations ahead of our own. … Too many people have forgotten the Mariel boatlift. … The Mexican government has published pamphlets explaining how to illegally emigrate to the US. … It's a great way for those governments to get rid of their worst people without paying any price.... Operation Wetback... was successful. It was a joint effort between the INS and the Mexican government. Special immigration teams were created to quickly process and deport illegal immigrants. One of the reasons it worked is that people who were caught were given to Mexican government agents, who moved them into central Mexico, where they could find jobs. ...In the first year, more than one million people were sent back. ...Why should we absorb the expense of keeping criminals in prisons? Let their countries of origin deal with the problems they sent us. If they refuse to take them back, we can stop issuing visas to those countries, preventing their citizens from legally visiting the US. I also would triple the number of immigration officers we currently employ until the wall is built. … Currently there are about 5,000 officers attempting to enforce the existing immigration laws against the more than 11 million illegal aliens. Compare that to the... 35,000 officers in the New York Police Department. Since 9/11 we have tripled the size of the border patrol but haven't substantially increased the number of ICE officers – the officers who enforce immigration laws. … We have to cut off federal grants to sanctury cities... We need to have real penalties for people who overstay their visas. … Most important is ending or curtailing so-called birthright citizenship, or anchor babies. … It is estimated that about 300,000 of these children are born here annually. That's 300,000 children who are entitled to all the rights and privileges granted to American citizens because their mothers entered this country illegally... There are businesses that specialize in making this happen! They call it 'birth tourism'…. And those people take advantage of the system and come here illegally should never enjoy the benefits of being a resident – or citizen – of this nation. So, I am against any path to citizenship for undocumented workers or anyone else who is in this country illegally. They should – and need to – go home and get in line. And you know who agrees with me? The Mexicans, the Chinese, and all the people from other countries who want to be here legally and can't get a visa or fit into a quota... We can be generous and do all of this humanely. But the security and prosperity of American citizens have to come first. .. (Chapter 3)

I believe in putting the needs of American citizens first, always.... There's an old phrase that, sadly, you rarely hear anymore, "Made in America". We will start saying this again. (Chap. 10)

Possible Trouble On Horizon For ALJs In High Court Case

A ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court that the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission's administrative law judges were hired in violation of the Constitution would likely open up some past ALJ decisions to challenges, legal experts agree, but the fallout should be limited to cases still pending judicial review, whereas defendants whose cases are already final could be out of luck. 3 Years Later: Is Tribal Recognition Still 'Broken'?

Subject: Please oppose the Westcare expansion on Duncan Dr. This is why.

As you are aware of the Westcare facility on Duncan, this facility is trying so hard to add an additional 80 beds by making like an apartment complex that will house families in domestic violence situations, families with mental health issues and woman with both domestic violence cases and drug rehab reintegration into life with giving them housing.

Westcare is not only trying to build this apartment complex but they are attempting to put it behind their already built Westcare facility across the street from residential homes single and two story family homes.

So my issue is that I see on the posted sign on the property is that it proposed to be a "Convalescent Facility", which is no way close to becoming a Convalescent facility. This saddens me as a resident of Las Vegas and as an American that this facility is going above and beyond to cheat, lie, and possibly pay off the local government to get what they want.

If this so called " Convalescent facility " is allowed to move in and move into our community we will be later talking about taking our safety, our peace, our lovely Community away from all of us and potentially drive up the crime rate, the distribution of drugs and abuse of drugs with potential clients walking around drugged up looking to break in our homes for money and items to pawn, and also put our lives in imminent threat to use deadly force protecting our property and our families.

This facility already gets about 40 Las Vegas Metropolitan Police Department calls per 2-3 days, with these calls including runaways, violence and acts of violent outburst towards staff members working at Westcare. Imagine if you lived next door to this and your sitting out front with your family and having a nice chat when one of these drug addicts, or women being chased by their boyfriend who is trying to kill them or beat them for leaving them, or just your everyday drug overdosed person who is in the state of Excited Delirium, and naked screaming and violently out of control. Would you want that walking by your house. Would you even go outside knowing that this facility would bring this to the neighborhood.

Please Councilman Barlow help our community stop this "Convalescent Facility" from being built, Westcare has tons of Federal Grant Money and have locations in MT Charleston, and other facilities already built that is away from residential homes like ours. This can't be happening here. Stop this before lives are lost and a whole community is destroyed over something you can stop before it starts.

Please have courage to change the things you can and wisdom to know that this "Convalescent Facility" Westcare is trying to build is bad for the City of Las Vegas, specifically bad for this area. There are plenty of empty Dirt lots up north or away from residential communities. Let them build by an already situated apartment complex area.

Westcare already uses the apartments across the street on Rancho and Duncan for their clients and every time I check the crime rate around that area, there is stolen cars, domestic violence calls, home burglaries, and street robberies, but, on our side of the street, on the East side of Rancho, we have little to no crime. That will all change if this facility is built.

Please don't let them cheat, lie, and fraudulently move in to our community. You have the power to be the difference in this battle for our security and for our peace and quality of life.

I wish I could provide you with the addresses, but that would entail me patrolling my neighborhood every night and I cannot do that. I hear them from inside my house. If there were a ban on all fireworks in the neighborhoods, that would take care of the problem, but obviously, you have no intention of considering this plan of action. I am dealing with this problem as best I can. I purchased a "thunder coat" for my dog and I have drugs to give him if necessary, as a last resort. As I mentioned in my previous email, I am removing myself from the cacophony on July 4th, but I still have to deal with the errant firecrackers prior to that. And there is still the accompanying worry of illegal fireworks starting fires as has happened in the past as well as the clean up in my yard from all those fireworks that come flying over my fences. I suppose those who live in more affluent neighborhoods don't have to deal with this situation.

There are no benefits to be derived from fireworks other than that of entertainment. They have many undesirable effects including disruption of community peace and quiet, terrifying domestic animals, pollution of the environment and a waste of money. But change is difficult and America seems to only be happy celebrating her independence with loud, disruptive, polluting means.

At least where I'm going there will be no fireworks, which proves that not all politicians are afraid of change for the betterment of society.

Subject: Fireworks!!!

Dear Mayor Goodman,
Once again the nation's Independence holiday is nearing and already in my neighborhood people are shooting off fireworks. It's not bad enough that I have to leave town every year on the 4th of July to escape the fireworks, but now I have to endure them throughout the month prior to the 4th.
In a city that discourages any water usage that isn't absolutely necessary, dry conditions are quite the norm and in addition to the annoyance and disturbance of the fireworks, I have to worry about my house burning down while I am away. If fireworks were banned in the cities' neighborhoods, this problem would cease to exist.
Why can't you take that step, Mayor Goodman?
Year after year animals are frightened to death from the noise of the fireworks. Year after year people in many neighborhoods throughout the city disturb the peace with illegal as well as legal fireworks. The threat of fire is always imminent. Other states and cities have taken the initiative and banned fireworks in city neighborhoods, especially those drought stricken ones.
Why can we not follow suit here in our drought stricken city?
For those who cannot live without a fireworks display, they have the option of going to designated venues, which are supervised for the safety of all. Such is not the case in our neighborhoods.
I wonder if I will live long enough to see a mayor take the bull by its horns and bring this yearly chaos to a halt. Isn't the safety and protection of its citizens the primary focus of a city's governing officials?
I BEG you - please ban fireworks in all Las Vegas neighborhoods. PLEASE!
Every night I hear fireworks means another sleepless night for me as I remain awake to comfort my trembling little dog.
Respectfully,
Barbara Gurley
A resident of Las Vegas for 40 years.

Subject: The Downside of Las Vegas from a tourist.

Dear Mayor Carolyn Goodman and Governor Brian Sandoval,
May I, as a British tourist just returned from a vacation in Las Vegas, please make you aware of something which as "local" people you may not realise.
Sadly , persistant and continual , silent pestering by street beggars has become very offputting to global tourists from allover the world when holidaying in Las Vegas.
On the Strip , in Downtown Freemont area, and even in suburbia at crossroads traffic signals, one is plagued by these people and one feels threatened and unsafe.
We know your authorities support such citizens with handouts of relief and cash , and it is apparent these benefits are converted into drink and drugs by many of the recipients.

You are a World Class City and you are rightly proud of that. However us visitors from culturally civilised countries such as UK, Europe, Japan etc are shocked by the extent of the begging, by ever greater numbers year on year. These high numbers are not seen by us in our great cities. Yes , we can see it in Asia and Africa in less developed nations but in Las Vegas it seems out of control and out of context.

This was my fourth holiday in Las Vegas in twelve years. Yes, I love the place ; but it is very sad to see it going downhill in this regard.
I have no doubt that many tourists return home and report what they are seeing.
How many people are put off from returning we shall never know.

Please consider my comments, which are made in good faith and for the wellbeing of a city which is truly 'One of a Kind".

Yours Sincerely,

John Leader,

3. Reduce stigma and increase understanding about the nature of addiction and recovery.

Substance Use & Behavioral Health Summit (Key Talking Points)

- In 2012, the city of Las Vegas coordinated with over 120 faith leaders, representing over 70,000 local congregants, initiating Las Vegas Mayor's Faith Initiative to address seven topics confronting our community: Strengthening the Family, Education, Homelessness, Human Trafficking, Community Unity, and Addictions- the subject mentioned as the most troubling to our community.
- Developed under The Las Vegas Mayor's Faith Initiative (LVMFI), our Addictions Workgroup offers our community a safe place for honest and open dialogue coordinating strategies to address substance use disorder, and community collaboration.
- Nevada has the second highest rate of Substance Use Disorders (SUD) in the nation (SAMHSA, 2013) but has the lowest number of providers able to treat SUD per 1,000 people (Advocates for Human Potential, 2014).
- "The number of psychiatrists, psychologists, counselors and social workers available to treat every 1,000 people with SUD – ranges from a high of 70 in Vermont to a low of 11 in Nevada.

- Nationally, the average is 32 behavioral health specialists for every 1,000 people afflicted with the disorder (Advocates for Human Potential, 2014).”
- An annual average of 233,000 persons aged 12 or older have used illicit drugs in the past year in the Las Vegas-Paradise Metropolitan Statistical Area (16.8% of the population), and 138,000 persons aged 12 or older were classified as having a substance use disorder in the past year (9.9% of the population) according to the National Survey on Drug Use and Health (SAMHSA Report, 2012).
- According to a 2017 fact sheet released by the Southern Nevada Health District, since 2008, more Clark County residents have died each year from opioid overdoses than firearms or motor vehicle traffic accidents.
- In 2012-2014, the mortality rate from opioid overdoses in Clark County was almost 70% higher than the national rate.
- It is only through Capacity Building and Strategic Partnerships that we will be able to make a difference and save lives.
- So thank you for being here and thank you for all that you do to address this deadly epidemic by building recovery-focused partnerships and providing tools, resources and training to support prevention, treatment, and recovery.

It is a start. Thanks. One answer may be in doubt and that is the question of home grow. The ballot questtion seems clear on that to me but I am told that there is more enabling language somewhere which puts a 25 mile limit on proximity to a dispensary which would prohibit it. Seems to me the plain language of the Question should control so I am confused.

Subject: Request for assistance legalized marijuana passage briefing

Good afternoon Ms. Duddlesten,
Councilman Coffin wanted a briefing on the passage of Ballot Question 2 that was just passed by the Nevada voters.
Absent any Bills introduced at the next Nevada Legislative Session, Councilman Coffin would still like a briefing as soon as possible.

As of January 1, 2017, it would be legal for anyone 21 and older to possess an ounce of marijuana or an eighth of an ounce of marijuana concentrate.
Correct? That is our understanding. The CAO should provide details.

An adult may grow up to six plants for personal use inside their home? YES, that is our understanding, however there is also a cap of 12 plants per household.
Correct? Will this be added for Code Enforcement to enforce? This is yet to be determined.

Who's in charge of legalized marijuana regulations-the Department of Taxation or Department of Health? The Department of Taxation. They have not yet staffed the new department but Joline Smith, 775-684-2029 may have more information.

Would city licensing fees be increased on recreational as opposed to medical dispensaries? This is yet to be determined and would have to be addressed both in enabling legislation or local ordinance.

What is the mechanism for medical to convert to recreational sales? This will need to be determined on temporary state regulations and local ordinances.

Has the state of Nevada decided how to divide the reported 80-recreational licenses that would be made available? Not to our knowledge.

Is it true that for the first 18 months, only existing medical marijuana establishments could apply to open recreational dispensaries? Yes, the Act states that only those medical marijuana establishments that hold a State Registrations Certificate may apply for a recreational license. (does not stipulate that they are licensed in their respective jurisdiction)

Define existing (licensed, built or in process). – No information available at this time as the Act only mentions State Registration Certificates.

Is city staff prepared with licensing regulations, staffing, and enforcement? We have been working with Senator Farley on the issues that may be addressed in additional legislation and have a staff working group preparing issues that will require input and direction from the CAO, CMO and City Council.

Since this will move fast on January 1, 2017, whatever briefing you can put together would be greatly appreciated. The State has 12 months from Jan 1, 2017 to start accepting applications. The Department of Taxation issued a press release that they would be working on temporary regulations. We have made contact at both the legislative level and the Department to request to be involved in discussions.

Thank you in advance.

A Closer Look At New Federal 'Right To Try' Law

Recently signed into law by the president, the federal Right to Try Act creates a framework for patients to access investigational new drug products. But it comes in the wake of a majority of states passing their own "right to try" laws, creating the potential for a conflict between state laws, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration's expanded access regulations and federal statutes, say attorneys with Morgan Lewis & Bockius LLP. Dear Mr. Mallen:
Thank you for contacting me and for your email. First, I apologize for the length of time it has taken me to respond to your notification, but it has taken me to today (and now) to get time to get to my desk work.
I am appalled at the photo you attached and also appalled by so many issues that come to me about inappropriate attire, gestures, signage, movements, and so on that occur in public spaces throughout our City and community. Thus far we have been advised by legal authorities that First Amendment rights of Freedom of Speech preclude any action on our part or that of law enforcement in the issues we have referred to them. The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has confirmed this right at each inquiry or legal plea. Nonetheless I am once again seeking advice of City counsel (Brad Jerbic, head of our legal department) to see if this case might be different. I doubt it.
It is indeed a shame that people continue to use bad taste in appealing for public attention.

Subject: Fremont St problem

Good day to you Mayor Goodman, wish you well,

I have lived in downtown Las Vegas for 7 years. My letter pertains to a person at the Fremont Experience who I, security, police and many others feel he must be removed and some how charged criminally for his so call freedom of speech sign. Pic included.

Security informed me that plenty of people especially parents, have complained about this schmuck, stating they are suggesting to everyone to contact you and city council and there is supposed to be a date set in the near future to address this and other problems.

This person is not part of the lottery spot system. 98% of the performers are decent people making tourist laugh and happy along with those that are respectfully entertaining children bringing joy to the kids and the parents downtown experience. During the day he is straight; by night I have seen him so stoned he could hardly sit against a wall while he thinks its a big joke getting people riled up, exchanging F yous' with them. Many times I have seen near physical confrontations by guys, fathers, mothers who would like to pound him into the concrete but can't knowing they could be arrested.

This is not a freedom of speech issue. This is an obnoxious, intimidating, threatening, premeditated knowingly intent to instigate confrontation, violence, and especially corrupting the health and welfare of children, neglect and abuse of children which this easily can be interpreted as causing harm to children as a misdemeanor, viz. multiple 100s of times daily pertaining to children.

As summer quickly approaches with the 1,000s of tourists downtown daily this can only lead to someone seriously beating up this knuckle-head only to find themselves arrested, again affecting the children.

Speaking recently to him, he claims its a joke meant to be funny. His name is Paul saying he is from Santa Monica, no one pays him to do this and said he doesn't work. I am certain you can find a way to remove and ban him from Fremont St. Judging by the stoner trash that hangs out with him at night; who knows he might even be using this as a cover for meeting people and selling drugs. Excuse the length of my notice and thank you for your service. Pic included.

P.S. When and where is the next meeting with city counsel addressing these problems.

God bless,

Ken Mallen

Showing tribute of any kind to a drug addict is the most ridiculous thing your administration has come up with yet. The man was a good artist which he was paid highly for.
This is not someone I want my grandchildren to look up to. He killed himself! With Drugs!! This is how you wish to inspire the youth of our town. Your tribute is encouraging young people to follow in the footsteps of a drug addict!!
How sad you have decided to drag our town down a road of star idol worship instead of doing for and celebrating our military heroes. Shame on you. I am embarrassed for us all. Karleen Craig

This Forum will explore the challenges and complexities of drug trials, and how they impact disease treatment and prevention — particularly for conditions that currently have little or no therapeutic options. As a case study, the panel will discuss Alzheimer's and several drugs in development for that disease, but also address broader concerns related to the pharmaceutical testing pipeline for unmet medical needs as a whole. Additional priority areas will be discussed including other neurodegenerative diseases, bacterial infections, and antibiotic resistance. An expert panel will explore pharmaceutical priorities and the time and cost of R&D; alternative pathways for expediting drug development; barriers and solutions to trial recruitment and retention; and gender and racial disparities in clinical trial results. As the complexities and costs of clinical trials grow, the discussion will explore policy recommendations that can help to create a sustainable and effective drug development system for unmet and urgent disease threats worldwide.

This event is presented in partnership with HHMI Tangled Bank Studios, in collaboration with STAT, and in association with NOVA. Forum viewers may want to tune into the NOVA film "Can Alzheimer's Be Stopped?", which premieres Wednesday, April 13, 2016, at 9pm ET/8C on PBS.

The Retirement Savings Tax Battle May Not Be Over

After much speculation, the GOP tax proposal unveiled last week makes no changes to the rules for retirement savings. Still, the estimated $115 billion per year of tax breaks for retirement accounts remains a tempting target for realization of tax savings needed to pay for Republicans' ambitious tax cut plans, says John Bartlett of Stites & Harbison PLLC. Subject: Im sorry your city experienced an attack

Mrs. Goodman,
I want to write and say I am sorry for all of the loss of life in Las Vegas, a place that felt like home to me and I wanted to stay and practice medicine.I am saying a prayer right now for all of the innocent people who were attacked.

I also wanted to remind you of my lawsuit in 2012 that talked about torture by the US Government and a sonic weapon being used to sleep deprive me, which I was somehow able to back up with tapes of US Marshals threatening me in US Federal Court and then saying I imagined it, and Homeland Security telling me to murder people and move to Mexico.

I wonder if you have seen the US State Department reports in 2017 that now talk about a sonic weapon being used on diplomats. What makes the person complaining about this weapon seem crazy, consider that the US State Department is now complaining of it, and then consider Aaron Alexis, the US Navy Yard shooter who killed US servicemen and women and he complained of a loud ringing in his head.

I know nothing about the Las Vegas shooter ,and I am not saying I can say with certainty. But if you ask Sherrif Lombardo to look at his background, I would say it is very likely that he was complaining about the same US Government program that the US Diplomats are undergoing, sleep deprivation (notice Starbucks is saying he looks sleep deprived).

It is very hard for me to report this I risk my life or you sending me police officers who definitely don't understand. Looking at my own life and how I am currently being harassed at my home 24/7, I can understand that there is a possibility it is the same program.

Do you know it didn't even stop after a setup to fight in Las Vegas landed me in jail. Your city jail guards put me across from a naked woman and sexually abused me. How is that possible. I had to wait a year for trial and the City of Las Vegas had employees in court telling me to kill myself to try to influence my court competency hearing. Then they forced me to allow Collette Putnam to come to a forensic psychiatrist with me who said I was sane, and as soon as I got to jail and recognized guards were trying to start fights with me in the community, I was put in a special unit across from a naked woman as they threatened me. An inmate was set free early for stealing all of my food and I was put in solitary confinement, and not allowed to exercise every day. I didnt lose any weight because I was so poor and not eating very much on the outside anyway.

There is no way you will believe my report now, but maybe one day in the future.

Your police officers and other law enforcement workers, state and city court workers and others were continually harassing me and if I asked for help, mental illness accusations were used to justify their criminal level of harassment that was accompanied by torture.

I can also offer that that man in Las Vegas may have been set off by harassment coming from his neighbors because they make a goal of making the person feel surrounded and then call the target crazy. If you are an intelligent woman you must consider the US State Department reports, the University of Miami doctors who call them sane victims of an attack, and juxtapose that with the diagnosis of schizophrenia in Aaron Alexis.

I want to stand up to my government because as a physician I am personally experiencing torture and NYPD are allowed to lie to me, I read it in the New York Post. That is not the USA I believe in. The police even threaten me using my run for president, which is at least not mass murder, to expose something that has truth ready to shine through the lies, and the first rays are the US State Department themselves not even knowing the capabilities of their own government against themselves.

Feel free to call me to discuss it. I lost over 6 homes in Las Vegas and proved harassment in hotels. It may be the same program.

I lost my home to a dog attack and the LV courts refused to let me restrain a man who was high on drugs and attacked me with a pit bull dog. The same thing happened to me in New York, and I was told it was a nuisance to complain about the dog attack and it never happened, the police keep using the same techniques over and over, violence and harassment and then refusing to admit any part of what they do.

If Joe Lombardo hires me and lets me at the medical records, I can tell you there is a good chance I would be able to find the law enforcement agents who caused this mass murder and I would like to peacefully find and overcome this situation.

I live every day with people outside my window, at the nearby construction sites all yelling and threatening and encouraging me to be violent, NYPD in uniform do the same thing, and I am denied community review. The same has happened in over 5 cities.

Tell your officers to look into any complaints about ringing, about flashes, about harassment, and just consider for one moment that mental illness is being manufactured and used to target individuals. Please remember that I want you to please consider the US State Department report about the ringing sound weapon and sleep deprivation and the US Navy Yard shooter and his diagnosis as proof of this. I then want you to consider the murder of children at Sandy Hook by a US Navy applicant. I am not being frivolous when I tell you that I think this is the same program causing mass murder. I am not saying all of mass murder is caused by it and some people do it for other reasons. I am just asking you to consider what I am saying.

Very respectfully,
Cornelius O'Leary Jr, MD

Mayor Goodman,

An issue has come into my life at the most inopportune time. I do not know who to turn to. I need the correct help. I need it quick

I will share back story and events leading up to the pressing issue at hand

I am a 59 year old male. In 2005 I was diagnosed with severe [redacted]. From that day forward my life was no longer my own. By end 2006 I was no longer able to work. A couple difficult years later I qualified for federal disability benefits. After nearly 7 years in a "walking coma" from disease, opiates, benzodiazepines, neuro drugs, psych drugs, ambien, antiseizure, and more drugs, tests and treatments, in late 2013 I told my doctor I wanted off all the chemical drugs. A rough three months later I was off all chemical medicines and have been ever since. I began a natural approach to my wellness focusing on food as medicine. My health began to improve while still the New York weather was still causing me much pain and flares of symptoms-conditions. In August 2014 I accepted invitation to leave Millbrook, New York to try the hot, dry deserts of Phoenix for my conditions. I felt improvements in days. Opportunity arose to move to Las Vegas early 2015. I moved to Vegas in April 2015. I love it here. I do not to ever want to leave. In October 2015 I became a Nevada medical marijuana patient. By end of November 2015 I began treating myself with cannabis protocol. In days my wellness improved and has improved ever since. One year later I am in the best physical condition in a decade. I am in the amazing spiritual-mental state we are Blessed to after looking death straight in the eyes, take him on in a battle to the death, and win. I am ready to give a go at becoming a working member of society again. I want to work at getting off the disability and become a productive member of the Las Vegas community. Over this past year I have met many people in our medical marijuana establishments. Being someone who has healed himself using full plant cannabis medicine I have much to offer our growing Nevada medical marijuana industries. I am enrolled in Trim Ready dispensary class 11/20/2016. I am enrolled in both the Cultivation Class and Edibles manufacturing classes on 11/27. When I complete dispensary certification on November 20th I will ask Brenda Gunsallus, owner of Sahara Wellness, my favorite person in the business, to sponsor my MME Agent card. I am just a few short weeks away from being a vetted member of the Las Vegas medical marijuana industry and onto a new life. I am Blessed to be the real deal success story that when you do not give up, regardless the odds against, fight hard fearlessly, you can win over anything. I am proof that for me cannabis changed my life from dark shadows of disease to a bright sunny new future in the city of lights I want to share my experience, skills, and knowledge, with others. I am once again looking forward to the future.

Here is my pressing issue.

I have lived in this same apartment at [redacted] for 18 months (702-818-5109). I rented furniture from Ogden Villas for $40 per month on top of my $425 month rent as I arrived in Las Vegas with just backpack and suitcase . By September 2015 I had acquired my own furniture. I put in a written request with Ogden Villas to have the rental furniture removed. The complex removed the furniture before September was over. When I paid my November 2015 rent for $425 I was told by office manager Jody Blackley I must continue paying $425 rent plus the $40 the furniture they took back or be evicted. I replied that is ridiculous. She replied it is the way it is. Jodie was moved to another site. Manager Liz, the manager who originally signed me into Ogden Villas, replaced Jodie. I brought attention to Liz that I am still being made to pay for furniture I returned. Liz said paying for furniture I returned makes no sense, she will look into it, and I must still pay the $40 for furniture I returned until it is figured out or be evicted. Liz moved to another a site. Manager Patty put a notation in my file I am still being charged for furniture I do not have. After thirteen months of being told by every floating manager that I must continue paying for products & services I do not receive under threat of eviction I receive notice my rent is being increased $40 to $505 (copy attached). They are raising my rent forty dollars each month on top of my already being overcharged $40 each month for furniture I do not have. I see this as a common sense opportunity to clear the slate by me accepting not paying November 2016 rent $465 for the $520 Ogden owes me for furniture and start the year off with this long overdue issue sorted and done. I write up a proposal (copy attached), give a copy to manager Patty to give to Jody, and mailed a copy to Plenty of Places corporate offices. On Thursday November 3rd I received email from Plenty of Places stating I can no longer access my online plenty of places account. Thursday November 10th I found an eviction notice attached to my door (copies attached).

I am a model tenant who has done nothing to cause any trouble here nor anyone anywhere.

I have paid my rent on time every month since I have been here. I have not once been a bother to anyone. All my neighbors like me. I keep to myself and do not get involved with the dramas of other residents. My apartment is clean without ever a problem with insects.

While Ogden wants to charge me $505 a month rent there are other tenants on disability benefits who were residents who were here before me that are paying $425 per month

I had three important stipulations to making the move to Vegas. 1 Tile floor, 2 second floor, 3 near a store

1. My decade of wicked battles against an invisible illness no one understands is brought to me by a tiny insect bite I did not know I received. Carpet grosses me out in a sense. Like indoor grass. For someone disabled with cans-joint related conditions with chronic pain maintaining carpet is an added chore. This apartment is all ceramic tile and is ideal for my needs

2. To have the stairs as a forced form of exercise. I prefer the less noise and traffic. I have trees outside my window. One year past a walk down Fremont to The Experience was an accomplishment. Today, most days, I walk over a mile around the neighborhood enjoying the Las Vegas sunrise with coffee. I commonly walk to our senior center on bonanza, library right up N LV Blvd., anywhere I want to go. I am truly Blessed beyond belief in all aspects of life

3. Store for access to necessary supplies close by when physically unable to make it to proper markets. The owners and crew at 7-Eleven Fremont & 15th all know me. After 18 months we get along quite well.

My requirements were met with this apartment and I moved here. I love my apartment home here in Downtown Fremont.

I have no money to move nor anyplace to move to. No friends nor family to help. I lost everything to battle with disease including nearly all my past family and friends. Thinking my offer so common sense and in favor of Ogden Villas they will accept I spent the $465 skipped November rent on renewing my medical cannabis card and enrolling in the three Nevada mme certification courses. If I am evicted over this lack of action by this company who admittedly owes me but is unable to reach a solution other than evicting their debt (me) I will be put out homeless on the street with the little I can carry. My two cats I rescued from shelter over one year ago will go back to the shelter. The few belongings I have been able to accumulate over this past 18 months into the dumpsters. Ten years battle against invisible illness to get into the position to once again have an on the grid life shattered. All of this because a manager Jody Blakley, who's agents lead me on for 13 month, refuses to see the common sense and right in not evicting a disabled, good tenant, who offers to accept $465 to clear up the $520 it is her cause the company she works for owes me

Friday morning, November 11th, I spoke with Fatima from Plenty of Places corporate offices. We spoke in length about Ogden Villas and this situation. Fatima assured me she will speak with her manager and get back to me by end of day. Fatima did not get back to me

Monday morning, November 13th at 11:15 am I called Fatima at Plenty of Places corporate offices to see what progress she has made on this issue (562) 989-9932). Fatima told me her and Jody Blakley have been speaking about this situation but have yet to come up with a resolution. Fatima assured me she will speak with her manager and get back to me by day's end. Fatima did not get back to me.

I am concerned Fatima is stretching this out as Jody has done with the furniture overpayments, and before they get back with a resolution the police will be at my door evicting me to the street

Is there anything you can do to help Plenty of Places see the wrong in kicking out a good tenant who just wants the fair deal of not paying for products-services not provided, with the slate clean for what they have overcharged me? I agree to pay the $40 increase on top my $425 true rent for $465 per month beginning December 03, 2016

Please feel free to check me out. I am one of the good guys. I have had a life Blessed with many jobs, careers, experiences, knowledge, and skills, in a variety of industries that I am looking forward to putting to use after not being able to work at all for over ten long years. I am here to help.

What I am looking for exactly:

1. November Rent Receipt showing rent paid
2. Notice in change of terms of tenancy showing my monthly rent $465.00 due by 3rd of each month
3. Letter from mgr Jody Blakley's supervisor stating there will be no discrimination, retribution, nor actions, against me by Jody Blakley over this issue

Thank you for your time, considerations, and continued service

Sincerely,

Jon Andrew Rothberg

DAYS UNTIL THE THIRD VEGAS PRESIDENTIAL DEBATE: 84

DAYS UNTIL THE 2016 GENERAL ELECTION: 104

Good morning, everyone. I have seen some rave reviews of Bill Clinton's speech last night, but I don't agree. Yes, his peroration and conclusion (after he realized he blew past his time limit) were excellent, and he is one of the greatest orators in American history. But his awkward recitation of his early dating life with Hillary while reading what sounded like her CV, not to mention what he elided, struck me as….odd. I am told the conventioneers were rapt, but it was not his best speech. And "change-maker" seems lame. Good news: Most of these addresses will disappear into the ether as Crooked Hillary and Teflon Don begin their positive campaign about the country's future.

ICYMI, my Channel 13 hits Tuesday on Hillary, Bill, a new poll and Barbara Boxer. I talked to Boxer about Bernie, DNC leaks and Prince Harry.

What's below: Goodman's quixotic quest, new poll numbers, Reid's swan song, Morning Flash nuggets and a trivia question about a Nevada pioneer.

COMING UP

Don't forget the school choice hearing is Friday. And tonight: Will Harry Reid overshadow the president? Also: Ruben Kihuen gets his moment in the national spotlight.

THE MAYOR'S DREAM THAT WILL NEVER COME TRUE

The city of Las Vegas has written a letter to the stadium committee asking for a presentation on the Cashman site, which has no chance of being selected. And stay tuned for some poll results that could affect the issue. Or they should…...

POLL: POT AHEAD, BACKGROUND CHECKS WAY AHEAD

KTNV/Rasmussen looked at the pot and background checks ballot questions and found support for both. The numbers indicate what people generally think: The pot question has a chance -- although starting at 50 percent is problematic if Gondolier Numero Uno decides to write a check – and the gun control question is winning big. The latter is going to be the focus of more spending on anything this cycle in Nevada except the presidential and U.S. Senate races.

REID'S VALEDICTORY (ONE IN A SERIES)

Love the Nancy Pelosi allusion in the video here to Hang Up Harry. I don't think I have seen Reid choke up too many times – the only time I recall was at ex-Gov. Mike O'Callaghan's funeral. But he's clearly starting to get emotional about leaving – I still believe he would rather stay! His speech will be something. (Hope the Bernie delegates don't remember he tried to help Hillary in the caucus with that call to the Culinary…..)

A TRIO OF MORNING FLASH NUGGETS

Nugget No. 1 – Hmm: Ex-California gaming regulator penned a piece about a potential death knell for that state's card rooms.

Nugget No. 2 – I told you Tuesday about Sheriff Joe Lombardo helping Rep. Joe Heck against a former law enforcement officer. A friend reminds me there might be a reason why. I had forgotten whom Catherine Cortez Masto supported in that race. Payback?

Nugget No. 3 -- This tweet from state Sen. Ben Kieckhefer brings tears to my eyes.

FLASH FACTS OF THE DAY

When we think of the mob in Las Vegas, we generally think of the famously famous Chicago Outfit, or the Kansas City mob. Organized crime families from other cities sent operators to southern Nevada as well, including New York and Los Angeles. Anthony Milano was a longtime underboss of the mob in Cleveland, OH. Anthony had two sons – Peter and Carmen. Carmen was born on July 27, 1929 in Cleveland, OH, where he would become a lawyer (and get disbarred). The Milano brothers moved to southern California and began muscling in operations in Los Angeles. Peter became the boss of the Milano family mob out of Los Angeles, CA, and Carmen, nicknamed Flipper after the dolphin, would become the Los Angeles mob's underboss in Las Vegas, NV. Carmen Milano (the George Costanza of the LA Mob) moved to Las Vegas, NV in the early 1990s to manage the Los Angeles mob's Las Vegas interests.

After the Milanos were indicted in Los Angeles in 1987, family moved into Las Vegas involved forging partnerships with existing mobsters rather than establishing competing businesses. Their biggest partner was Herbie "Fat Herbie" Blitzstein. Blitzstein's business was also their goal. Milano planned a shakedown of Blitzstein to take over his operations. The other mobsters that Milano partnered with to carry out the threats had their own plan, and killed Blitzstein in his home on January 6, 1997. The planning meetings for the Blitzstein takeover had been infiltrated by the FBI, who had plenty of informants after Blitzstein was murdered, as mob factions fought over Blitzstein's "assets." Milano had not intended to murder Blitzstein, but his family, already reeling from indictments in Los Angeles, were further decimated. Carmen Milano plead guilty to money laundering and his part in a diamond fraud scheme that never materialized (selling Blitzstein's diamonds, but switching for a fake after the buyer paid). Milano served almost two years in prison from 2000 into 2002, and remained in Las Vegas after his release. Milano died in Spring Valley Hospital in Las Vegas, NV on January 3, 2006.

Side note: In the 1970s, the Milano brothers established a Las Vegas-style casino operation in southern California (on Sunset Blvd). The games were rigged. They got caught, and were charged. John Ludlow Dubeck helped set up some of the rigged table games for the Milanos. Dubeck became a key witness for the government against the Los Angeles mob family. Late on March 18, 1974, John Ludlow Dubeck, who was by this time working as a shift manager at a Las Vegas casino, was shot and killed (along with his wife) near their apartment in Las Vegas before he could testify. It was generally considered against mob rules to murder someone in Las Vegas at the time, as it would bring unwanted attention to the mob. The double murder was never solved.

EXTERNAL EMAIL

Good afternoon Mayor,
Attached, please find the photos of the individuals that Kenny mentioned who found their way to our property in the last 7 days. It is the same report with different faces each week. Dozens and dozens more were stopped at the entrance or, turned away by someone in the casino. We have seen a noticeable increase in these individuals aggressiveness lately that makes the problem worse. These individuals are also barricading themselves in our restrooms requiring us to use force at times along with open use of illicit drugs. We spent $1,300,000 in security last year, including $353,000 paid to a third party security company for external coverage and that still is not enough. We know this is a community problem but we are asking for your help on this. The church up the street is promoting this problem to our area with the daily feedings that are conducted. We are at a loss of resources on how to address this.

Thank you in advance. All of us at the El Cortez appreciate what you do for our property and, the betterment of downtown as a whole.

Using Marijuana Revenue to Create Jobs

By Maritza Perez, Olugbenga Ajilore, and Ed Chung

Today, states are raking in billion-dollar profits for activity that sent millions of African American and Latinx individuals into the criminal justice system, trapping their families and communities in poverty for generations.

But as lawmakers decide how and for what priorities the tax revenue from marijuana sales will be used, they must not ignore the history and damage that past public policies surrounding marijuana have caused.

The criminal records that stem from marijuana-related arrests and convictions can have lifelong consequences that systematically exclude people of color—disproportionately African American and Latinx individuals—from equal access to jobs and economic opportunity.

This issue brief outlines several proposals offered by or implemented in jurisdictions across the country that provide communities most harmed by the war on marijuana with access to the benefits of creating a regulated marijuana market.

These proposals include:

- Automatically clearing the records of people arrested or convicted of marijuana offenses.
- Supporting businesses owned and operated by people of color entering the regulated marijuana market.
- Encouraging equitable licensing practices in the market.
- Using tax revenue from marijuana sales to create public sector jobs for communities most affected by the war on drugs.

With these policies, mayors and other elected leaders can begin to address he structural barriers that prevent individuals and affected communities from equal access to economic opportunity. If you have questions or would like to set up a briefing, please contact Jerry Parshall at jparshall@americanprogress.org.

Thank you Mrs. Kalkman for your response to my email. The neighborhood would appreciate and would be in full support of fencing/gating the park. Perhaps, Huntridge residents could be issued a FOB or key to access it. To be honest, we don't walk our dogs there currently because it is hazardous to their well being. The park is ridden with drug paraphernalia and human feces.
Until the park is rid of indigents, it is not safe for humans or our pets.

Good Morning, Mr. Jarmolowich:

Thank you for taking the time to contact Mayor Carolyn G. Goodman. It is always helpful and meaningful to hear from area residents with questions, suggestions and concerns.

Due to many inquiries similar to yours, Mayor Goodman has been in discussion with City staff (and City attorneys) about options. She is fully aware there is a problem there. One recommendation that has gained traction is to close the park all but for two hours in the morning and two in the evening for area residents to walk their dogs, etc. A City marshal presence would be maintained during the entirety of those four hours. As a concerned resident, do you think this might work? We are interested in your opinion. Along with this idea is a proposal to convert the park to a sculpture garden, which would involve the fencing/gating of the park with the gate open during the aforementioned four hours. Again, we value your reaction to that suggestion.

Again, on behalf of Mayor Goodman, thank you for writing. Your interest and activism are truly appreciated.

P.S. We love Greens and Proteins!

Subject: Huntridge Circle Park

Good afternoon,
I am writing to request to close the Huntridge Circle Park until a positive solution is created. It is hazardous and dangerous. My wife and I purchased a home on Francis Avenue not far from the tragic incident that occurred. The neighborhood has embraced this tragedy and has banded together to support each other.
The governmental organizations have not given us the same support.

That park is a hub for drugs and crime. It is not safe for women and children. When my wife walks her dog, she is constantly harassed. That is not ok.
We invested in downtown to make a change. We opened a small business downtown to elevate food offerings.
This park is a hazard and should be closed until a comprehensive solution is met.
Thank you,

DAYS UNTIL THE THIRD VEGAS PRESIDENTIAL DEBATE: 8

DAYS UNTIL EARLY VOTING BEGINS IN NEVADA: 11

DAYS UNTIL THE 2016 GENERAL ELECTION: 28

Good morning, everyone. Never have so many lobbyists come to Carson City to do so little. Yes, the Sands gaggle and the gaming gaggle belong. But what are all the rest doing here? Justifying their expense accounts? Billing clients for "monitoring" the proceedings, such as they are? Wait a second: What are all the media types doing here? We already know the end of this movie. Don't we?

What's below: Day One, CD4 to CD2, Senate ads, Morning Flash nuggets and a trivia question about an announcement.

COMING UP

Hillary and Biden are here this week. It's all about getting out the vote now.

A SPECIAL DAY ONE DISTILLED

I assume many/most of you are following my live tweets of the special session. If not: Why not?

Just in case, here's what happened: Nothing we haven't seen before. Oh, except one thing: Lawmakers (most of them) clapped like seals after supporters of the stadium testified. If they were capable of embarrassment, they would be.

The votes are not there, but, if past is prologue, they probably will be. Gov. Brian Sandoval met with the Senate Republicans last night to take their temperature. Some were hot; some were cold; some were just right. Senate Majority Leader Michael Roberson hopes to take a vote today – they will break an hour before sundown for Yom Kippur. He can afford to lose a Republican or two if Senate Minority Leader Aaron Ford brings a handful to bear. But if the vote were taken last night, the stadium would not have passed.

The Assembly is a nightmare. Left and right are upset with the stadium. But enough to stop it? Probably not. Enough to slow it down until the weekend. Maybe.

This feels like many other sessions, special and not so special. They start with people popping off, then votes are screwed down and it ends. Murmurs of discontent rarely develop into serious voting blocs. Is this time different?

PLAN won't just raise a while flag, and opponents are testifying this morning. Roberson generously gave them an hour before the ram and jam portion of our days begins.

Get on Twitter. I'll be there soon….

THE CD4 RACE MOVES TO CD2

State Sen. Ruben Kihuen followed up on that op-ed against the stadium by asking a pointed question or two and complaining to Majority Leader Roberson that foes were not being treated fairly. All of this would seem pure if he hadn't toted his congressional race campaign manager along to Carson City. And if Dave Chase weren't openly talking about fundraising (legal but not that ethical) during the session and linking to a pretty nasty post.

Meanwhile, Team Cresent Hardy was putting out a “voter alert” that Kihuen was trying to “block” the Raiders (not exactly true) when the congressman had raised questions himself.

Meanwhile, the NRCC is up with a brutal new ad. That race is going to be much closer than it has any right to be, I think.

NEW ADS FOR HECK

The Senate Leadership Fund is up with two new ads to help Rep. Joe Heck. Meanwhile, Democrats were gleeful Monday at the fallout from Heck’s decision to disavow Donald Trump, sending out links to conservative talk-radio hosts blasting him and RNCwoman Diana Orrock saying she won’t vote for him. What a race.

A COUPLE OF MORNING FLASH NUGGETS

Nugget No. 1 – The Democrats are up past a 135,000-voter lead in Clark. The extra days will help. They could get close to 85,000 statewide.

Nugget No. 2 – The Culinary released its endorsements Monday. No real surprises, although yes on pot and no on dereg caused a bit of a stir. The Culinary joined the AFL-CIO in opposing the latter, although the AFL testified for the stadium despite the Culinary’s opposition (although the Culinary has yet to testify on the stadium).

FAST FLASHES

Click and enjoy.

Megan Messerly on new anti-Rosen ad.

He’s With Him.

FLASH FACTS OF THE DAY

Sherman “Jerry” Lisner was a wannabe gangster, a scam artist in Las Vegas, NV. Mob muscle Frank Cullotta was Tony Spilotro’s lieutenant in Las Vegas, and fellow member of the Hole in the Wall Gang. Lisner convinced Cullotta, with Spilotro’s permission, to join him on a trip to Washington, DC for an arranged money-laundering scam. The intended victim got cold feet and the deal fell through. Cullotta was not impressed. When Lisner was arrested back in Las Vegas for unrelated crimes, and agreed to talk to the FBI in exchange for protection, Cullotta was worried that Lisner would say too much and decided to eliminate him. In the early hours ofOctober 11, 1979, Lisner’s wife came home from work to discover her husband’s body floating in the backyard swimming pool of their Las Vegas home, shot in the head at close range. Because Lisner was a Federal witness at the time of his murder, the FBI participated in the investigation. In a way, this was the beginning of the end for the Hole in the Wall Gang. After Frank Cullotta learned he himself was on the hit list, he split from Spilotro in 1982. Cullotta later admitted to the murder of Lisner to the FBI after entering the Witness Protection Program in 1982.

TRIVIA QUESTION OF THE DAY

On this date 15 years ago, the head of a Nevada regulatory board announced his intention to run for a statewide office. Who, what board, what office? .

Monday’s winner: KSNV’s Tony Garcia

The question: Today is the birthdate of a Nevada governor. His middle name was Biblical and his first name was the last name of a great British comic actor. He was acting governor before becoming governor. Name him

The answer: Morley Griswold.

Mayor Goodman,
I was disappointed to watch you on your KCLV show Friday evening supporting illegal aliens. Worse yet was the inclusion of two guests, both of who were also advocates of illegal aliens. Wouldn't it have been fair to host an equal amount of speakers in opposition? Is the care and feeding of illegal aliens a part of the city charter? I doubt it. We need the illegal immigrants to return to their native countries. Your positions lure more of them here and encourage them to stay. Why don't you start looking out for US citizens first? Don't you realize that the reason people from third world countries sneak into the US is ultimately because they can't stand being around other third world people. Plenty of skilled people from developed countries are waiting patiently for admission to the US. Is it fair to reward those whose very first act into this county is illegal? You can disguise the problem by saying they are fleeing high crime rates, violence, rotten economy... but this deception hides the real reason. Why would you want to turn us into a third world country? If you feel so concerned about them, there is an easy solution: move to a third world country to help them where they are.

Please read:

The Immigration Solution, by MacDonald, Hansen & Malanga

While the cheapness of the immigrants' labor may benefit a very few industries and provide some upper and le-class families with cut-rate gardeners and nannies, it adds very little to our national standard of living. On the other side of the ledger, the costs these immigrants impose on US taxpayers for health care, schooling, welfare, and (all too often) incarceration far outweigh the benefits they offer. In California, the National Academy of Sciences found immigrant families cost each native-born household an additional $1,200 in taxes per year. Although a net loss for the US, such workers are an unalloyed boon for Mexico. Their ability to find work north of the border is an essential safety valve for Mexico's failed economy and stubbornly unreformed political culture, and the remittances these workers send home are indispensable to Mexico, constituting its second largest source of hard currency. No wonder the Mexican government – especially through its consuls in the US – vigorously fosters the illegal migration of its nationals into its northern neighbor. … But those earlier huddled masses of immigrants yearning to breathe free, however tired and poor they may have looked, were in fact on average more skilled than the native-born population of a century ago. In addition, the less-developed economy of that era also had a vastly greater need for immigrants without skills than does today's knowledge economy. More important, the US immigration system of that period was a machine for selecting the most enterprising and energetic migrants. With no welfare system whatever, those who came were those who thought they could make use of the opportunity and freedom America offered by their own efforts. Grateful for the chance, these newcomers were only too glad to assimilate to their new land as best they could, and their children did so wholeheartedly. Not so today. The first child born in America to an immigrant entitles his or her family to child-only welfare payments – a hefty-looking sum to a recent migrants from a peasant village. … Deprived of work, illegals would return home, just as 60 percent of immigrants from the first great migration eventually left these shores when they couldn't make it here. ...our new policy should select newcomers not because they are someone's brother or adult child or elderly parents, or because they successfully sneaked into the country some years ago, but because they have some special skill... that will enrich our nation. … Thousands arrive illegally from Mexico into California each year... They come in such numbers because a tacit alliance of Right and Left has created an open-borders policy, aimed at keeping wage labor cheap and social problems ever fresh, so that the ministrations of Chicano studies professors, La Raza activists, and all the other self-appointed defenders of group causes will never be unneeded. … nearly one quarter of California's inmates are aliens from Mexico. The pro-labor left found that the industrious new arrivals whom it championed eroded the wages of its own domestic low wage constituencies - the Labor Department attributes 50 percent of real-wage declines to the influx of cheap immigrant labor. … when I was ten, in 1963, all suburbanites mowed their own lawns – many with push mowers. Now almost everyone hires the job out. Nannies for toddlers and grannies, unheard of then, are now ubiquitous... Rural schools used to begin in mid-September to ensure that we natives could pick grapes to earn our school clothes and shoes. Today not a single student in California would do such hot, dirty work, now considered demeaning. … So we allow illegal aliens to obtain California driver's licenses – the foundation for all other means of legal identification – and to pay reduced in-state tuition at the University of California, thereby providing several thousand dollars in discounts not available to American citizens from out of state. Whether you break the law to reach California or immigrate legally, it makes little difference in how you drive, send your kids to college, or draw on the public services of the state. … I often suggest to teachers who tell aliens that our culture is racist, exploitative, and sexist that they should live in Mexico themselves to fathom why millions are dying to obtain what they so casually dismiss.

… America does not have a vast labor shortage that requires waves of low wage immigrants to alleviate; in fact, unemployment among native-born unskilled workers in high – consistently about double the nations' overall unemployment rate. … an unusual coalition of business groups, unions, civil rights activists, and church leaders thwarted the call for restrictions with passage of the inaptly names 1986 Immigration Reform and Control Act, which legalized some 2.7 million unauthorized aliens already here, supposedly in exchange for tougher penalties and controls against employers who hired illegals. The law proved no deterrent, however, because supporters, in subsequent legislation and court cases argued on civil rights grounds, weakened the employer sanctions. Meanwhile more illegals flooded here in the hope of future amnesties from Congress, while the newly legalized sneaked their wives and children into the country rather than have them wait for family-preference visas. The flow of illegals into the country rose to between 300,000 and 500,000 per year in the 1990's, so that a decade after the legislation that had supposedly solved the undocumented alien problem by reclassifying them as legal, the number of illegals living in the US was back up to about 5 million. … In many American industries, waves of low-wage workers have also retarded investments that might lead to modernization and efficiency. Farming, which employs a million immigrant laborers in California alone, is the prime case in point. Faced with a labor shortage in the early 1960's, when President Kennedy ended a 22-year-old guest-worker program that allowed 45,000 Mexican farm hands to cross over the border and harvest 2.2 million tons of California tomatoes for processed foods, farmers complained but swiftly automated, adopting a mechanical tomato-picking technology created more than a decade earlier. Today, just 5,000 better-paid workers – one-ninth the original workforce – harvest 12 million tons of tomatoes using the machines. The savings prompted by low-wage migrants may even be minimal in crops not easily mechanized. … If the benefits of the current generation of migrants are small, the costs are large and growing because of America's vast range of social programs and the wide advocacy network that strives to hook low-earning legal and illegal immigrants into these programs. A 1998 Nationals Academy of Sciences study found that more than 30 percent of California's foreign-born were on Medicaid... compared with 14 percent of native –born households. The foreign-born were more than twice as likely as the native-born to be on welfare, and their children were nearly five times as likely to be in means-tested government lunch programs. Native-born households pay for much of this, the study found, because they earn more and pay higher taxes – and are more likely to comply with tax laws. Recent immigrants, by comparison, have much lower levels of income and tax compliance.

... This call for 'human rights' is a clever one, for it hides its radical status in a rhetorical safe harbor. What, exactly, are the 'human rights' that the US is denying illegal aliens? They have unfettered access to free medical care, free education, welfare for their children, free representation in court when they commit crimes, every due process protection during criminal prosecution that the Constitution guarantees citizens and legal immigrants, the shelter of labor laws, and the miracles of modern industrial society like clean water, the control of infectious diseases (including the ones they bring with them), and plumbing. The only putative 'right' they lack - and that, of course, is the 'human right' to which they and their ambassadors refer - is the right to legal status regardless of illegal entry. ....

No one will take the assurance that 'this time we mean business' seriously. If the executive branch is not willing to enforce the current law against violators, a new set of laws will not suddenly strengthen its resolve... border defenses have been fortified over the years, but the drill has been: if you can get past the border patrol, you are home free. The most important action the government could take to end illegal immigration would be to penalize employers that unlawfully hire illegal aliens... After 9/11, the department of Homeland Security deported fifteen hundred illegal Pakistanis. An additional fifteen thousand then left voluntarily, reports Jessica Vaughan of the Center for Immigration Studies. There is no reason to think this enforcement-through-attrition strategy won't work as well for Hispanic illegals. ...

It would be useful for open-borders optimists to spend some time in the Los Angeles Unified School District, which is 73 percent Hispanic, and where just 40 percent of Hispanic students graduate. (Nationwide, 53 percent of Hispanics graduate from high school...) Of those Hispanic students who do graduate, just 22 percent have completed the course work necessary for admission to a four-year state college - which means that of all Hispanic students who enter in ninth grade, fewer than 15 percent will graduate ready for college. Immigrant advocates have fiercely opposed in court a long-deferred California high school exit exam, which would require students to answer just over 50 percent of questions testing eight-grade-level math and ninth-grade-level English. The California Research Bureau predicts that if the exam becomes a reality, Hispanic graduation rates would drop well below 30 percent. ... Schools spend huge sums trying to improve the Hispanic graduation rate, even hiring 'outreach consultants' for dropout prevention. One Santa Ana consultant's approach is predictably multicultural. "We need to teach teachers that students need to be proud of where they are coming from," she told me. But, of course, Hispanic school failure derives not from ethnic neglect - the Sana Ana schools glorify the Hispanic heritage to a fault...
...a high level of immigration translates to increased levels of crime. Between the foreign-born generation and their American children, the incarceration rate of Mexican American jumps more than eightfold...
Pro-amnesty forces promote that illegal immigrants "risk everything for the dream of freedom"... However lousy the Mexican economy, there are few, if any, political freedoms enjoyed by Americans that Mexico denies. It is the Yankee dollar, not untasted freedom, that brings the vast majority of illegals here.

...in spring 2006 American witnessed millions of illegal aliens who not only were unapologetic about their illegal status but were demanding that their hosts accommodate their own political grievances, from providing driver's licenses to full amnesty. The largest demonstrations - held on May Day, with thousands of protesters waving Mexican flags and bearing placards depicting the Communist insurrectionist Che Guevara - only confirmed to most Americans that illegal immigration was out of control and beginning to become politicized along the lines of Latin American radicalism. I chronicled in Mexifornia the anomaly of angry protesters waving he flag of the country they vehemently did not wish to return to , but now the evening news beamed these images to millions. In short, the radical socialism of Latin America, seething in the angry millions who flocked to support Venezuela's Hugo Chavez, Bolivia's Evo Morales, and Mexico's Andres Lopez Obrador, had now seemingly been imported into our own largest cities. ...

Crippled America

We are the only nation in the world whose immigration system places the needs of other nations ahead of our own. …

Too many people have forgotten the Mariel boatlift. … The Mexican government has published pamphlets explaining how to illegally emigrate to the US. … It's a great way for those governments to get rid of their worst people without paying any price.... Operation Wetback... was successful. It was a joint effort between the INS and the Mexican government. Special immigration teams were created to quickly process and deport illegal immigrants. One of the reasons it worked is that people who were caught were given to Mexican government agents, who moved them into central Mexico, where they could find jobs. ...In the first year, more than one million people were sent back. ...Why should we absorb the expense of keeping criminals in prisons? Let their countries of origin deal with the problems they sent us. If they refuse to take them back, we can stop issuing visas to those countries, preventing their citizens from legally visiting the US. I also would triple the number of immigration officers we currently employ until the wall is built. … Currently there are about 5,000 officers attempting to enforce the existing immigration laws against the more than 11 million illegal aliens. Compare that to the... 35,000 officers in the New York Police Department. Since 9/11 we have tripled the size of the border patrol but haven't substantially increased the number of ICE officers – the officers who enforce immigration laws. … We have to cut off federal grants to sanctury cities... We need to have real penalties for people who overstay their visas. … Most important is ending or curtailing so-called birthright citizenship, or anchor babies. … It is estimated that about 300,000 of these children are born here annually. That's 300,000 children who are entitled to all the rights and privileges granted to American citizens because their mothers entered this country illegally... There are businesses that specialize in making this happen! They call it 'birth tourism'…. And those people take advantage of the system and come here illegally should never enjoy the benefits of being a resident – or citizen – of this nation. So, I am against any path to citizenship for undocumented workers or anyone else who is in this country illegally. They should – and need to – go home and get in line. And you know who agrees with me? The Mexicans, the Chinese, and all the people from other countries who want to be here legally and can't get a visa or fit into a quota... We can be generous and do all of this humanely. But the security and prosperity of American citizens have to come first. .. (Chapter 3)

I believe in putting the needs of American citizens first, always.... There's an old phrase that, sadly, you rarely hear anymore, "Made in America". We will start saying this again. (Chap. 10)

Subject: Possible insight into the Las Vegas massacre, US Navy Yard, Sandy Point

Mrs. Labott,
I wanted to let you know about the number of times that hotel security have been involved in harassing me on videotape and trying to start a fight with me.

You may recall that the US Navy Yard shooter was experiencing the same treatment at hotels and was told he was schizophrenic. I believe the way they reported his complaints was incorrect and designed to make him seem like he had mental illness.I have never met him and don't know for sure but since people are being murdered, I want to stand up to this program.

There are even neighbors of mine providing harassment at my home who work in hotel security, outside my door trying to cause fights and threatening me with several others.The construction sites around my home send people screaming outside my window every day to try to start a fight, and it very rarely calms down and gets quiet, and if it does, I can count on a neighbor loudly making a comment at least every few minutes. They encourage me to fight, murder other people, and threaten me that I am being followed and told to kill myself. All of this is designed to force someone into captivity by psychological evaluation, and I believe our country has transformed into a country where police and society in general uses this method to attack and imprison people. Gangs have picked up on the technique and use it as well. It is extrajudicial justice that bankrupts a person with a hospital bill. The pharmaceutical companies also benefit from expensive treatments that are given, and people cannot leave the hospital without a diagnosis that allows for more surveillance, more excuses to control and hurt a US Citizen.

When on the phone with the US White House, I was staying temporarily at the Hard Rock Hotel in Las Vegas. While there,I was offered drugs by someone and decided to tell the manager and hotel security. I was not in any argument. The response? While I was on the phone with the White House they broke down my door with an axe, a door that was to a hotel room I had paid for and I had not been in any disagreement. They then charged me for two more days.

I was followed and threatened/harassed by the LVPD and could not get a response from community review or by the LVPD, the same complete disregard for non violent requests for help has happened in several other cities as well.

The reason I point this out is because there might be a reason that the hotel security did not call police right away, they might have been following and harassing him and trying to destroy video surveillance where they followed the shooter around the casino while harassing him.

When I read the CNN and Associated Press articles blaming other countries for the acoustic/energy attacks, I am concerned because I think it is the USA and blaming other countries seems like an attempt to start a war which I think we should avoid. In addition, it seems to show a lack of intelligence to say that other countries have this capability but for some reason not mention the United States of America? Are you telling me that we don't have the capabilities other countries do in that technological area? Please. There is a reason that BOSE gets billions of dollars from the US Military and it is probably not headphones.

People sit at the restaurant outside my apartment at [redacted] and try to start fights with me on a daily basis, even the manager of my apartment building told me that an attack by a pit bull dog never happened and I imagined it, the same thing the US Marshals did to me in US Federal Court in Las Vegas and the Department of Homeland Security when I was told to murder and move to Mexico instead of filing a lawsuit at the Las Vegas airport. The same treatment happens to me at La Guardia and you can see police reports of people getting into fights with agents at the airport, the reason is severe harassment on planes and airports the excuse is terrorism.

Mayor Carolyn Goodman

Dear Lady Mayor,

Here is yet another typical work week example illustrating the level of safety concerns I have endured on a regular basis, particularly taking an increased spike in occurrences during the past year, as I continually attempt to perform as a professional comedy ventriloquist beneath the Fremont Street Experience canopy.

The following video footage was captured- during a seven day period beginning on the 8/17/2016 and culminating on 8/23/2016. May I please take a brief moment, during your busy schedule, to setup the following filmed piece that highlights a clear lack in quality of the security safety and policing procedures presently in place on Fremont Street Experience- security protocol that is supposedly designed to protect visiting tourists, locals and street performers from harm/harassment.

Unfortunately, for me I am harassed on three separate occasions during my performances by individuals; the first openly calling me the 'N' word he having early spat on a passing tourist and shouted profanities at children, the second verbally abusing me (while allegedly she appears under the influence of medication/drugs) and the third and extremely way beyond annoying gentleman firstly starts of with a racist tirade directed towards me in the form of asking me if I had an authorized USA' immigration 'Green Card' before threatening to 'knock' me out!

I being a professional entertainer, with many decades of international experience managed, as expected, to display an immense amount of restraint and composure while enduring an horrendous amount of verbal racist abuse at the hands of the above featured individuals.

One must never lose sight of the fact that if I or anyone else had been irresponsible enough to have placed the merest of fingers on any of my abusers, rest assured we would be currently residing in Clark County' jail cell.

One can clearly hear during the video clip, a passing tourist say, "he was also saying things to the kids." relating to the the person that had early also spat on a member of the public.

Sadly the response from the Fremont Street Security' officers was to say, "that's the City Ordinance, man you have a right to do what you want being mentally ill has nothing to do with it."

I have written to Mr. Robert Gallego (Director of Security/Parking) at the Fremont Street Experience and supplied him at a great deal of time, effort and personal expense to my office- numerous previous video clips highlighting safety lapses on the Fremont Street Experience.

One can only fairly conclude that Mr. Gallego deems such racist harassing behavior somewhat acceptable.

Yours truly,

Scarlet Ray Watt

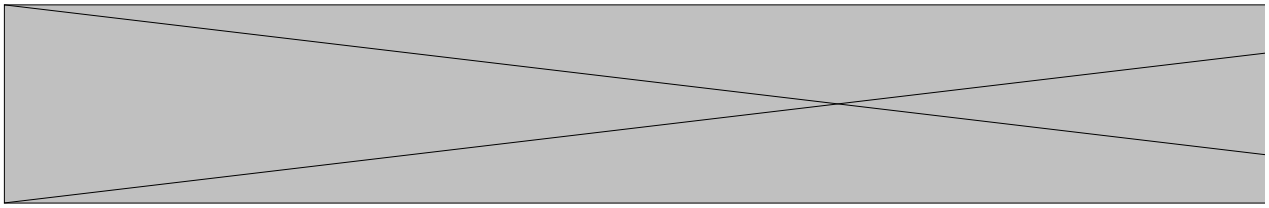
Principles for Responsible “Obamacare” Repeal and Replace



Principles for Responsible “Obamacare” Repeal and Replace

January 17, 2017

Read the paper.

Policymakers are expected to soon consider legislation to repeal and possibly replace large parts of the Afford “ACA” or “Obamacare”). Any significant changes to the ACA are likely to have substantial impacts on healt insurance coverage, premiums, the distribution of benefits, economic growth, and the federal bud

Because the ACA included a mix of spending increases, spending reductions, and tax hikes, the magnitude a the budgetary impact of “repeal and replace” legislation is highly dependent on yet-undetermined details (see some illustrative scenarios here).

With the national debt at post-WWII era record-high levels and growing unsustainably, it is important that char be fiscally responsible. We recommend that any repeal and replace legislation – whether enacted all at once follow these guiding principles:

1. Retain or replace, and build upon, the ACA’s cost-control measures.
2. Reduce, rather than increase, the debt.
3. Maintain or improve Medicare solvency.

It appears some policymakers would prefer to enact ACA repeal and replacement in pieces, with the first pa delay”) setting a future date for the ACA’s coverage provisions to expire. This approach is not optimal. But if repeal and delay should not only abide by the principles above but also the following additional princ

4. Continue the ACA’s offsets as long as coverage provisions are retained.
5. Generate sufficient repeal savings to finance any future replacement.
6. Enact any replacement in a timely and fiscally responsible manner.

Legislation that fails to meet these goals would likely lead to higher debt, a less secure Medicare program, a slower economic growth.

1) Retain or replace, and build upon, the ACA’s cost-control measures

Combined federal health care spending is the largest part of the federal budget. It is also the fastest growing interest. Repeal and replace legislation should therefore focus on controlling health care cost growth; at mini retain the parts of the ACA designed to do just that.

As recently as 2000, federal health spending totaled 3.1 percent of Gross Domestic Product (GDP). Today percent of GDP. And based on Congressional Budget Office (CBO) projections, we estimate it will grow to 6.7 within a decade and 9 percent within thirty years. Though this growth is in part due to the population aging, it per-capita heath care costs continuing to grow faster than inflation or the economy, which impacts not onl government but also state and local governments, businesses, and households.

Health care cost control is hugely important. Over the next three decades, CBO projects per-capita health ca grow about 1 percentage point faster than the economy each year, on average. If policymakers successfully sl to the pace of the economy, debt in three decades would rise to slightly over 100 percent of GDP, rather tha percent. On the other hand, if health costs grew 2 percentage points faster than GDP per capita, debt would r percent of GDP.

Although many parts of the ACA likely accelerated health care cost growth, many other parts – particularly th
Medicare – were designed to slow cost growth.

In particular, the ACA included:

- "Productivity adjustments," which limit the growth of Medicare provider payments in order to encoura effective delivery of care.
- Payment reforms and experiments designed to reduce hospital readmissions, increase the use of effectiveness research, encourage care coordination, and begin to replace fee-for-service with new m bundled payments and Accountable Care Organizations (ACOs).
- New government entities charged with developing and testing new payment reforms (the Center fo
Medicaid Innovation) and limiting Medicare cost growth (the Independent Payment Advisory Board
- Demonstration projects to test mechanisms for better coordination of Medicare and Medicaid enroll eligible for both programs, including managed care for long-term services and supports, multi-payer arra behavioral health integration.
- A "Cadillac tax" on high-cost insurance plans designed to slow the growth of health spending resulting provided health insurance.

Many of these provisions are still in their infancy, though some are already proving effective in helping to ste cost growth. For the most part, they should be retained and built upon under any repeal and replace plan. F policymakers could adopt recommendations we made in 2015 to significantly expand ACOs and bundled

Policymakers may wish to repeal some of the ACA's unpopular cost-control measures. If repealed, these provi replaced with others that are at least as effective. For example, if the Cadillac tax is repealed it could be repla on the tax exclusion for employer-sponsored health insurance. If IPAB were repealed, it could be replaced wi payment freezes) if action fails.

Repeal and replace proposals should be viewed as an opportunity to enact further cost controls on top of tho
These could include, for example, modernizing Medicare cost-sharing, limiting Medigap plans, reforming medi rules, reducing costs through more market competition, or encouraging the use of low-cost drug

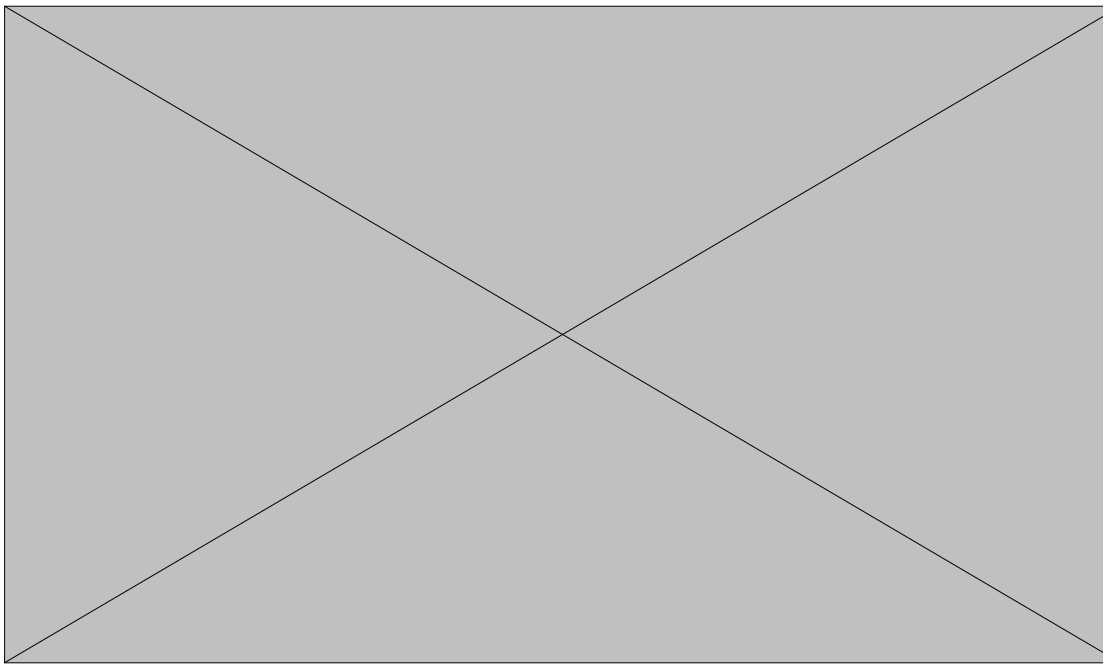
While the debate over repeal and replacement is likely to revolve largely around coverage, it is important tha remember cost control is the key to sustaining any reforms over the long run.

2) Reduce, rather than increase, the debt

Repeal and replace legislation – whether enacted in a single bill or across multiple bills – should aim to reduc long-term projected debt. Certainly, health reform should not be adding to the national debt, which is alread share of GDP than at any time other than just after World War II.

Repealing the ACA in its entirety would cost $350 billion ($150 billion on a dynamic basis) over ten years, but all of the ACA's Medicare savings would only generate $750 billion ($950 billion, dynamic) of savings. $750 bi insufficient to pay for replacement legislation, considering that the ACA's coverage provisions cost $1.55 trillio trillion, dynamic) and close to $2 trillion when removing savings from the individual and employer mandates paper "The Cost of Full Repeal of the Affordable Care Act" for more discussion of these scenaric



Ensuring repeal and replace legislation reduces the deficit will likely require policymakers to retain most healt offsets from the ACA, or else replace them with alternative savings measures, while ensuring any replacer effective and affordable.

Policymakers should especially focus on ensuring legislation reduces the long-term debt over the next few de baby boom generation retires. By our estimates, repealing the coverage and revenue provisions would save trillion over two decades, while repealing only the coverage provisions would save about $3.5 trillion. And repe ACA would cost nearly $4 trillion over two decades.

Over the long term, savings from repeal should be larger than the cost of replacement.

3) Maintain or improve Medicare solvency

While much of the focus around the ACA is on the exchange subsidies and Medicaid expansion, the law also r changes to extend the solvency of Medicare Part A's Hospital Insurance (HI) trust fund. Though these initial were made in part by "double counting" some savings, policymakers should nonetheless avoid backtracki worsening the state of the HI trust fund.

The ACA strengthened the HI trust fund in two ways. First, it increased the revenue going into the trust fund percent HI payroll surtax on high earners. At the same time, it reduced the growth of Medicare spending b reimbursements to Medicare Advantage plans, slowing the growth of provider payments, and enacting oth

By our estimates, full repeal of the ACA – including the Medicare cuts – would advance the HI insolvency dat 2021 and triple its 10-year shortfall. Repealing the coverage and revenue provisions while retaining the Medic advance the HI insolvency from 2026 to 2024 and increase the 10-year shortfall by about half.

Policymakers should preserve and build upon the Medicare solvency improvements. This could be accomplisl by maintaining all of the Medicare reductions and the HI surtax in the ACA. But even if policymakers decide to in full, these provisions should be replaced with alternative improvements.

Repeal and replace legislation should also maintain or improve the financial sustainability of Medicare Part I though those programs do not rely on trust fund financing in the same way Medicare Part A doe

Repeal and delay must meet additional standards

While many health experts believe ACA repeal and replacement should be enacted concurrently, some policy they should be enacted in parts. The "repeal and delay" strategy would repeal large parts of the ACA at som future – perhaps after two or four years – with the intention of enacting an ACA replacement before that time

Separating "repeal" from "replace" legislation introduces a number of challenges, many beyond the scope of tl a fiscal perspective, timing issues might be used to obscure the costs or savings; repeal and delay legislatior more difficult to pass fiscally responsible replacement legislation.

To ensure health reform is fiscally responsible, repeal and delay would need to conform with the three princi well as the additional principles below:

4. Continue the ACA's offsets as long as coverage provisions are retained

The previous version of repeal and delay, vetoed by President Obama in January 2016, would have repeal mandates and revenue provisions immediately while delaying repeal of its insurance subsidies and Medicaid two years. Such an approach would add to near-term deficits and would likely reduce long-term deficits in

We estimate under an approach like this that a two-year delay would cost roughly $50 billion over two years, w delay would cost $135 billion over those four years. In this case, the $450 to $600 billion of gross savings in su would not only have to pay for a replacement, but also cover the cost of repeal in the early years. Adding to ne for this purpose would be unjustified and unwise. (See "Repeal and Delay Shouldn't Increase Near-Term De detail.)

future. So long as policymakers continue to offer costly coverage provisions, they must keep all the measures coverage. Better yet, policymakers should retain all of the offsetting provisions until a replacement is pu

5. Generate sufficient repeal savings to finance any future replacement

If policymakers retain the ACA's Medicare savings, repeal and delay legislation by itself is likely to reduce buc our estimates, repealing all mandate and revenue provisions immediately and coverage provisions after two ye $550 billion over a decade; repealing coverage provisions after four years would save $300 billio

However, if replacement legislation is expected to follow repeal, simply reducing the deficit in repeal is not en repeal legislation needs to reduce the deficit by enough to fully finance the net cost of any future replaceme
Since consensus replacement legislation has not yet been written, it is impossible to know the cost of any n reduction.

6. Enact any replacement in a timely and fiscally responsible manner

The longer policymakers wait between repealing the ACA and replacing it, the more disruptions and uncerta created for individuals seeking coverage, companies, and providers – not to mention the additional cost implications. Maintaining coverage with no individual mandate and a set of exchanges slated to disappear wi spending more on insurance companies so they continue to offer coverage and more on individuals who will b premiums and thus larger subsidies. Yet replacing the ACA with an even costlier plan would worsen an alread fiscal situation.

Upon repeal, policymakers should act quickly to develop, agree to, and pass any replacement legislation in a combination with the repeal legislation – reduces rather than adds to the overall debt now and in the Conclusion

The new Congress and president have made clear that Obamacare repeal and replacement is a top priority. A

Certainly, repeal and replacement legislation should be designed and evaluated based on its impact on cover and economic growth. But it is especially important that policymakers focus on the impact of repeal and rep health care cost growth and the overall federal budget.

As we argued around the passage of the ACA eight years ago, health reform is an iterative process that req vigilance to ensure that long-term goals are being met.

The national debt continues to rise unsustainably, and that is in part a direct result of the unsustainable nature care costs. If policymakers want to repeal the ACA, they need to do so in a way that would improve the deb shore up Medicare, and spur further economic growth.

Editor s POV

2019 has arrived, and the year is off to a fast start. Construction is progressing rapidly on the Las Vegas Ballpark, located next door to our new Summerlin offices. By April, the re-named Las Vegas Aviators will begin their AAA baseball season at the Ballpark. Legalized sports wagering is spreading to more and more states, yet at the same time the Department of Justice has reinterpreted the federal Wire Act to slow the growth of legalized online wagering. We are closely following events related to these significant policy shifts. In this issue we bring you news about consequential legal developments in a range of areas, including gaming, employment, tax, finance, and intellectual property.

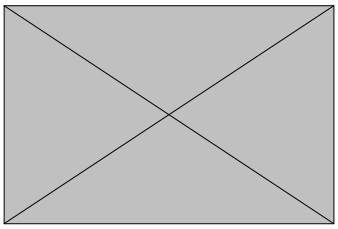
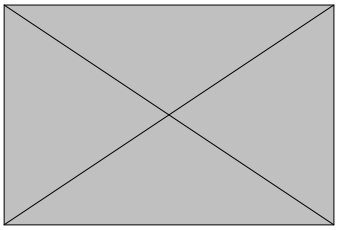
Subject: [Newsletter] [Marketing Mail] Justice Update: Candidates Must Get Specific on Justice Reform, Fees Lead to Lawsuit

As Election Heats Up, Candidates Must Get Specific on Justice Reform



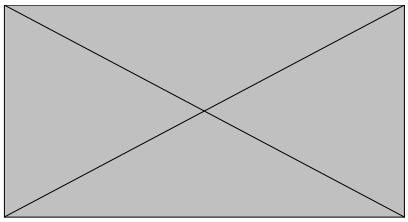
On the eve of the second Republican presidential debate, former Obama administration official Van Jones wrote for CNN that candidates should discuss justice reform, citing the Brennan Center's Solutions: American Leaders Speak Out on Criminal Justice. In fact, several did, as Inimai Chettiar highlighted for Al-Jazeera America, including Carly Fiorina, Jeb Bush, Rand Paul, and Chris Christie, with the latter calling the war on drugs "a failure." However, Chettiar noted, leaders must "shift from broad rhetorical support for change toward public endorsement of clear policy solutions." On the Democratic side, Hillary Clinton has called for an end to mass incarceration while Bernie Sanders introduced a plan this month to ban the use of private prisons and re-institute federal parole. Vice President Joe Biden's essay in Solutions was quoted by The New York Times and The Daily Beast, which drew attention to his support for the 1994 crime bill. Even before the election, there is much that can be done to improve the system. As Lauren-Brooke Eisen noted in The Hill, President Obama, acting on his own, can recast federal grants to encourage state and local law enforcement to both reduce crime and incarceration. He can also issue an executive order banning "the box" for federal contractors to ensure the formerly incarcerated have more job opportunities upon release.

New Orleans Lawsuit Alleges Predatory Criminal Justice Fees and Fines



The proliferation of what NBC News described as a "new generation of debtors' prisons" – the jailing of people unable to pay fines imposed by state and local courts as punishment for minor crimes – continues to raise ethical and constitutional questions. "The burden of revenue for [the] vastly expanding criminal justice system has been shifted to those who find themselves defendants in courts or inmates in prisons," Lauren-Brooke Eisen told The New York Times, which highlighted a New Orleans lawsuit alleging that judges and court officials are targeting the city's poorest residents with these fines. Practically, these policies rarely benefit the communities that impose them; as Inimai Chettiar told Mother Jones, "Having taxpayers foot a bill of $4,000 to incarcerate a man who owes the state $745 … makes sense in no reasonable world." As CNN noted, a recent Brennan Center report, Charging Inmates Perpetuates Mass Incarceration, those already in prison are increasingly subject to "incarceration fees." For example, one Florida inmate was released after a three-year prison term and billed for $55,000, a staggering amount for someone with no meaningful income.

"Rising Crime" Narrative Undermined by the Facts



Based largely on an incident or two, several newspapers have run sensationalist headlines blaring about the specter of "rising crime." But as economist Matthew Friedman wrote in a new "Just Facts" column, these headlines "conflict with statistical data showing that we are actually enjoying some of the lowest crime rates in more than half a century… Data shows that there is no nationwide crime wave washing over our cities. And there is no compelling evidence that one is imminent." While some cities may be experiencing temporary and limited increases in certain crimes, "It's still getting safer and safer for the average citizen across the country," Nicole Fortier told The Washington Post, which gave New Jersey Gov. Chris Christie "Three Pinocchios" for his inaccurate claim that murders and violent crime are increasing in New York City.

Research Roundup:

- The Justice Department's Bureau of Justice Statistics published Criminal Victimization, 2014, which measured criminal victimization in 2014, and found no significant change in the violent crime rate from 2013 to 2014. From 1993 to 2014, the rate of violent crime declined from 79.8 per 1,000 to 20.1.

- A new issue brief by the Public Safety Performance Project of the Pew Charitable Trusts examined the high cost of federal drug sentencing laws. While increased penalties for drug offenses have contributed to the ballooning of the federal prison population, they have not reduced drug use or recidivism. According to the report, the federal prison system now consumes more than $6.7 billion a year, or roughly 25 percent of the Justice Department's budget.

- A new report by the Ella Baker Center for Human Rights, Forward Together, and Research Action Design and other organizations, examined the enormous cost of incarceration – both apparent (such as court fines and lawyer fees) and hidden (barriers to obtaining employment with a criminal conviction) – who ultimately bears these costs. The study found that on average, families paid $13,607 in court-related costs.

MAYOR CAROLYN G. GOODMAN S BRIEFING SHEET

2017 Southern Nevada Substance Use & Behavioral Health Summit

UNLV Student Union Ballroom

Friday, September 29, 2017

PURPOSE

The overarching theme of the Substance Use & Behavioral Health Summit is: Changing Lives through Capacity Building and Strategic Partnership. The goal of the summit is to provide resources to direct service providers and community stakeholders. This summit will serve as an educational opportunity for professionals who work in the area of substance use and addiction, while issuing a "call to action" to participants resulting in successful inter-agency/inter-sector collaborations.

The summit will take place on Friday, September 29, 2017 from 8:00 a.m. – 4:00 p.m. The Mayor is being asked to speak from 8:40 a.m. – 8:55 a.m. (DRAFT Summit Schedule attached.) The Summit will be held at the UNLV Student Union Ballroom located at 4505 S. Maryland Parkway, Las Vegas, NV 89154.

The planning committee for this summit seeks to increase professional competencies in addressing substance use through education on prevention, intervention, and service delivery strategies. The goals of the Substance Use Summit are to:

1. Build capacity by informing our community about the latest Southern Nevada resources available in diversion, treatment, and recovery.
2. Foster opportunities for collaboration and partnership.
3. Reduce stigma and increase understanding about the nature of addiction and recovery.

Substance Use & Behavioral Health Summit (Key Talking Points)

- In 2012, the city of Las Vegas coordinated with over 120 faith leaders, representing over 70,000 local congregants, initiating Las Vegas Mayor's Faith Initiative to address seven topics confronting our community: Strengthening the Family, Education, Homelessness, Human Trafficking, Community Unity, and Addictions- the subject mentioned as the most troubling to our community.
- Developed under The Las Vegas Mayor's Faith Initiative (LVMFI), our Addictions Workgroup offers our community a safe place for honest and open dialogue coordinating strategies to address substance use disorder, and community collaboration.
- Nevada has the second highest rate of Substance Use Disorders (SUD) in the nation (SAMHSA, 2013) but has the lowest number of providers able to treat SUD per 1,000 people (Advocates for Human Potential, 2014).
- "The number of psychiatrists, psychologists, counselors and social workers available to treat every 1,000 people with SUD – ranges from a high of 70 in Vermont to a low of 11 in Nevada.

- Nationally, the average is 32 behavioral health specialists for every 1,000 people afflicted with the disorder (Advocates for Human Potential, 2014).”
- An annual average of 233,000 persons aged 12 or older have used illicit drugs in the past year in the Las Vegas-Paradise Metropolitan Statistical Area (16.8% of the population), and 138,000 persons aged 12 or older were classified as having a substance use disorder in the past year (9.9% of the population) according to the National Survey on Drug Use and Health (SAMHSA Report, 2012).
- According to a 2017 fact sheet released by the Southern Nevada Health District, since 2008, more Clark County residents have died each year from opioid overdoses than firearms or motor vehicle traffic accidents.
- In 2012-2014, the mortality rate from opioid overdoses in Clark County was almost 70% higher than the national rate.
- It is only through Capacity Building and Strategic Partnerships that we will be able to make a difference and save lives.
- So thank you for being here and thank you for all that you do to address this deadly epidemic by building recovery-focused partnerships and providing tools, resources and training to support prevention, treatment, and recovery.

YOUR ROLE

Mayor Carolyn G. Goodman is being requested to provide the Opening Remarks for the Summit at 8:40 a.m. and has been allotted fifteen minutes to speak to the audience. Key talking points are attached above.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Thank the Summit Partners as follows:

Federal Power Grab Continues

The Good News From Iowa

Whatever else it may portend, Ted Cruz's success in the Republican caucus in Iowa suggests that the era of federal ethanol subsidies and mandates may be coming to an end-and that is good news both economically and for the environment, as Reason's Jacob Sullum points out.

What Really Happened in Flint?

The residents of Flint, Michigan are the victims of an ill-conceived plan. Not a plan, as some commentators have claimed, to cut government spending. Rather the opposite, as Reason Foundation's Shikha Dalmia notes, "the debacle is the result of [Governor] Snyder's efforts to stimulate the local economy." Dalmia explains:

> The whole mess occurred because Flint decided against renewing its 30-year contract with the Detroit Water and Sewage Department (DWSD) and switched instead to Karengondi Water Authority (KWA). KWA was planning to build its own hugely expensive pipeline, parallel to DWSD's, to harness water from Lake Huron and service the Genesee County area where Flint is located. This left the city in the lurch for a few years when its contract with DWSD ended but the new facility had not yet gone online, prompting it to reopen a local mothballed facility that relied on the toxic Flint River as its source (more on the rank stupidity of this decision later).

The rationale for the original decision to switch Flint's water providers was that, in the long run, KWA would generate substantial savings for the cash-strapped city. Not only was this false but Snyder had very good reasons at that time to believe that this was false.

Nor were Flint's problems the result of "privatization" as some have claimed. In fact, the entities responsible for the debacle are all governmental. Among other things that means they are likely immune from prosecution. And they had perverse incentives to avoid even identifying the problem, as Marc Edwards, the Virginia Tech engineer who discovered the problems in Flint points out in an interview in the Chronicle of Higher Education, "In Flint the agencies paid to protect these people weren't solving the problem. They were the problem."

By contrast, as Dalmia notes in a column for The Week, had the responsible parties been private companies they would far more likely be held accountable and forced to pay adequate compensation to those affected. Indeed, as Reason Foundation's Adrian Moore points out, privatization might well be the best solution for Flint.

Who Should Control the Western Range?

On January 26, state troopers shot and killed Robert "LaVoy" Finicum, one of a group of protesters who had occupied the Malheur National Wildlife Refuge in Oregon for nearly a month. Other members of the group, including the leader Ammon Bundy, were arrested. The occupation was itself a response to the convictions in October of Dwight and Steven Hammond, who were each sentenced to serve five years in prison for starting a series of fires on federal land, including one on the Malheur Refuge.

While the fires may have been set for good reason, they were undoubtedly illegal and should in no way be condoned (at the very least, the Hammonds should have sought to coordinate with the federal agency that manages the land- as Randal O'Toole argues). Nevertheless, the sentences were, as Reason's Jacob Sullum points out , unreasonably harsh-a result of mandatory minimums imposed by the federal government and treating the fires as acts of terrorism-in yet another example of over-criminalization. (The original trial judge had meted out much shorter sentences but he was overruled by the Court of Appeal, which required the lower court to apply the federally mandated minimum term.)

The fact that such a large number of people felt moved to occupy the Malheur Wildlife Refuge in response to the Hammonds' convictions is in part a result of the deep dissatisfaction many who live in rural communities in the West feel about the way the federal government manages the land it controls. And the federal government controls a lot of land. As Reason's Brian Seasholes wrote in the Daily Caller:

> Most Americans are probably unaware the federal government owns almost one-third of the United States, or 640 million acres. This enormous amount of federal land has profound impacts on the ability of many states, municipalities and communities to govern themselves effectively, raise taxes necessary for basic services, such as police, fire and schools, conserve the environment, and maintain viable economies that can provide living wages for ordinary people.

Federal ownership entails federal control and that means many decisions must be made by the federal government. Decisions such as how much to spend on fire management, how much to charge for leases (such as those held by the Hammonds), whether to cut trees or to permit the salvaging of wood from a forest fire, and about who should have access to water for their cattle. Of course, many of those decisions are delegated to local managers, but those managers must operate within rules and guidelines set at the center.

Unfortunately, people in the center - that is, in Washington, DC - have little knowledge of the situation on the ground. So their decisions may not - and often do not - fit well with those whom they affect. Worse, as PERC's Terry Anderson points out, decisions made in Washington are more often driven be special interests than by what would be best for all.

In the case of fire management, this has had tragic consequences, as I have documented. And as Randal O'Toole points out, the Forest Service itself is one of the most powerful special interests-and is apparently more concerned with expanding its budget than with ensuring the forests are well managed.

The solution is to decentralize decision-making closer to those who are affected by the decisions.

Devolving ownership and control to the states would seem to be the logical way to do this. The American Lands Council is pursuing just such a strategy.

Can Hunting Help Conservation ... and Does the Endangered Species Act Hurt it?

The killing of Cecil the lion last July sparked outrage. But in a recent paper, several leading conservation biologists-Enrico Di Minin, Nigel Leader-Williams and Corey Bradshaw-argue that while the killing of Cecil was likely illegal and the hunt violated the "ethical norms of well-managed trophy hunts," it would be a mistake to ban trophy hunting. Indeed, the authors argue that banning such hunting would be harmful to the conservation of biodiversity.

For people in poor countries who share their land with wild animals, the ability to sell hunting rights and offer accommodation and ancillary services can create strong incentives to conserve habitat and animals, as the experience of the Community Areas Management Program for Indigenous Resources (CAMPFIRE) in Zimbabwe and the Community Conservancy program in Namibia have demonstrated.
But it's not just in Africa that hunting can help conservation. As documented in recent Reason TV video, conservation of the American alligator has relied heavily on hunters and other commercial activities.

Yet, for half a century, pressure groups have argued that hunting and trade in wildlife is harmful to conservation. In response, governments have enacted legislation and signed treaties imposing restrictions on such activities, often with counterproductive results.

The Endangered Species Act is a good example: instead of encouraging sustainable use, the Act effectively prohibits any use of species listed as endangered and imposes severe restrictions on use of land or water that provides or might provide habitat for such species. It thereby incentivizes landowners to remove species that are or might be listed, lest they be discovered by authorities, and to destroy habitat.

A 2014 Reason Foundation working paper by Brian Seasholes shows that-contrary to claims made by proponents of the Endangered Species Act-the American alligator was never endangered; its population had been growing since long before it was listed as "endangered" in 1973, suggesting that the ESA listing had little to do with its success. Indeed, listing likely did more harm than good by restricting hunting and trade and by stymieing long-standing and highly successful state-based conservation and research programs with red tape. Fortunately, the commercial activities that had begun before listing-in part as a result of the deregulation of wildlife trade-had ensured sufficient growth in the population that the federal government subsequently delisted the alligator and it was able once again to thrive.

As Seasholes notes in a piece for the Daily Caller, "Even the Endangered Species Act's staunchest supporters acknowledge the Act is counterproductive." He quotes Michael Bean, who was then at Environmental Defense Fund and is now a senior official at the Department of the Interior:

> There is, however, increasing evidence that at least some private landowners are actively managing their land so as avoid potential endangered species problems...Now it's important to recognize that all of these actions that landowners are either taking or threatening to take are not the result of malice toward the red-cockaded woodpecker, not the result of malice toward the environment. Rather, they're fairly rational decisions motivated by a desire to avoid potentially significant economic constraints. In short, they're really nothing more than a predictable response to the familiar perverse incentives that sometimes accompany regulatory programs.

Addressing the Problems Created by the ESA: What States Can Do

Seasholes argues that to address these perverse incentives, the Endangered Species Act should be transformed from a penalty-based system to an incentive-based system, with landowners rewarded for investing in conservation-rather than punished for so doing. One approach along these lines is the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Conservation Reserve Program.

Texas adopted a similar approach and other states are doing likewise. Seasholes is advising legislators in several states, and is looking for others who are interested in pursuing this approach.

Federal Power Grab Continues

As I have noted previously, the Clean Power Plan is-contrary to claims made by the White House-a centralized plan for electricity generation in the United States that is likely to harm public health, increase energy bills for households and businesses, destroy American jobs, and cause blackouts in communities across the country.

Unsurprisingly, many states, power companies, unions and others were not happy with the Clean Power Plan and launched a series of lawsuits against the EPA, claiming that the Plan exceeds its constitutional authority. But an attempt to delay the implementation of the Plan was rejected by the D.C. Circuit Court of Appeal on January 21. In response, 29 states and state agencies petitioned the Supreme Court on January 26 to request a stay. This was followed, on January 27, by a group of mining and energy companies and two unions petitioning the Supreme Court with the same request.

But the Clean Power Plan may be just the first step in an attempted federal takeover of the way energy is produced and consumed in America. The second step came with the Paris Agreement, which a group of lawyers recently claimed offers a new means for the EPA to expand its powers. Specifically, the group asserts that the Paris Agreement justifies the use of Section 115 of the Clean Air Act to introduce more comprehensive plans for carbon control, as the executive summary of its report makes clear:

> The success of the recent climate negotiations in Paris provides a strong basis for invoking a powerful tool available to help achieve the country's climate change goals: Section 115 of the Clean Air Act, titled "International Air Pollution." This provision authorizes EPA to require states to address emissions that contribute to air pollution endangering public health or welfare in other countries, if the other countries provide the U.S. with reciprocal protections. The language of Section 115 does not limit the agency to regulating a particular source-type, or a given industrial or economic sector. Rather, it grants EPA and the states broad latitude to address international air pollution comprehensively through the Clean Air Act's State Implementation Plan process ...

It seems that the prediction made by the late Aaron Wildavsky almost a quarter century ago (in the foreword to Bob Balling's book, The Heated Debate) is finally coming true:

> Global warming is the mother of all environmental scares. In the scope and consequences for life on planet Earth and the immense size of its remedies, global warming dwarfs all the environmental and safety scares of our time put together. Warming (and warming alone), through its primary antidote of withdrawing carbon from production and consumption, is capable of realizing the environmentalist's dream of an egalitarian society based on rejection of economic growth in favor of a smaller population eating lower on the food chain, consuming a lot less, and sharing a much lower level of resources much more equally.

The good news is that it may still be possible for Congress to reject the Paris Agreement. Although the Agreement primarily consists of non-binding voluntary commitments, it contains procedural elements-including a compliance mechanism-that arguably render it a "treaty" within the meaning of the U.S. Constitution, thereby requiring ratification by the Senate before it is implemented.

Subject: Fireworks!!!!!

Mayor Goodman,
In the event that you actually read my emails after all this time, I wanted to let you know that the reason I am so adamant about pursuing the issue of fireworks in neighborhoods is because they just won't go away. For the past two nights we have been subjected to the loud booms once again and here it is, July 24th. I called the police last night in desperation, but all I could do was give an approximate guess as to where they were coming from. I then sat with my little dog for TWO hours as he trembled and panted. I finally resorted to drugs - for him, not me, although perhaps that is something I should consider, since I feel completely hopeless that this problem is ever going to go away. I am starting to dread going to bed at night.

Federal authorities wound up arresting eight members of the Rise Above Movement, and five of them have since pleaded guilty to federal riot charges.. This summer, FBI Director Christopher Wray testified that, over the last nine months, the bureau’s domestic terrorism investigations had led to 90 arrests, many of them involving white supremacists. And in recent weeks, there have been additional arrests: a Las Vegas man said to be affiliated with Atomwaffen and a young man in Chicago affiliated with Patriot Front, another white supremacist group.

The federal authorities confront a Neo-Nazi group that ProPublica and Frontline have been covering for years.

The activity concerning the threat of white racists has gone beyond arrests. There have been a variety of proposals making their way through Congress aimed at creating federal criminal statutes that might make prosecuting domestic terrorism threats more effective. The FBI Agents Association has supported new laws.

We went back to German, a fellow with the Brennan Center for Justice's Liberty and National Security Program and the author of the forthcoming book "Disrupt, Discredit, and Divide: How the New FBI Damages Democracy," to inquire about the significance of the seeming burst of enforcement efforts.

The FBI, made aware of German's observations and arguments, declined to comment, but it provided a link to recent testimony by bureau officials before Congress.

Testimony | Federal Bureau of Investigation

Testimony

There have been a handful of arrests of alleged white supremacists in recent weeks. What do you make of them? A temporary reaction to the El Paso, Texas, massacre? Evidence of a deeper commitment by the FBI? Coincidence?

First, the arrests of several white nationalists allegedly planning acts of violence since the El Paso attack demonstrate beyond question that the FBI has all the authority it needs to act proactively against white supremacist violence. Claims from the FBI Agents Association and other current and former Justice Department officials that the government needs new laws to target this violence are false. I worked successful domestic terrorism undercover operations against white supremacists in the 1990s, and no one ever suggested we didn't have all the authority we needed.

It is hard to know if these arrests mark a new increase in attention to far-right violence because the Justice Department doesn't keep reliable data about how many investigations and prosecutions it conducts against white supremacists. It sometimes categorizes them as domestic terrorism, other times as hate crimes or even gang crimes, obscuring the true scope of the violence they inflict on our society. And since the Justice Department defers the investigation and prosecution of hate crimes to state and local law enforcement, the FBI doesn't even know how many people white supremacists kill each year.

The Justice Department and FBI de-prioritize the investigation and prosecution of far-right violence as a matter of policy, not a lack of authority.. These recent cases are a result of increased public pressure to do something about these crimes. But the Justice Department and FBI have done nothing to amend their policies that de-prioritize the investigation of white supremacist crimes. Maintaining public pressure and focusing on changing the biases that drive these policies is essential to forcing a change in priorities at these agencies.

At least two of the arrests appear to have involved a certain infiltration of white hate groups online. Noteworthy? Overdue?

Many researchers have suggested that the internet fuels white nationalist violence and therefore suppression of these online communities is necessary. But white supremacists have been killing people in this country for more than a 100 years before the internet was created. They use the internet more to communicate today than 20 years ago, just like all the rest of us do, but that doesn't mean there is more violence. In fact, as the recent cases suggest, internet communications make them far easier to track and infiltrate, so it is more a boost to law enforcement more than to violent militants.

But mass monitoring of social media for clues isn't an effective strategy, as there are far more people expressing racist ideas online than committing violence. The FBI would be very busy chasing down false leads, which would only dull the response. Instead, the FBI and other law enforcement agencies should work from reasonable criminal predicates. Where there is objectively credible evidence that someone is planning to do harm they should act. The number of homicides in the U.S.. has fallen significantly since the 1980s and 1990s, but so has the clearance rate. Even though there are fewer homicides now, fewer are being solved. I think it is because we are spending so much time and resources on suspicion-less surveillance and intelligence gathering rather than traditional evidence-based law enforcement tactics.

There is a variety of proposed legislation aimed at creating more specific federal domestic terrorism statutes. Worthy? Wrongheaded?

Congress shouldn't pass broad new laws or stiffer penalties, as there are already dozens of federal statutes outlawing domestic terrorism, hate crimes and organized violent crime that carry significant sentences. There are bills that demand better data collection by the Justice Department, which would reveal where counterterrorism resources should be devoted and where they are being wasted. This is the better approach. Proper policies can't be developed without a better understanding of the crime problem.

In the meantime, Congress should explore mechanisms to fund and implement community-led restorative justice practices that would redress the communal injuries hate crimes are designed to inflict. White supremacists try to intimidate and marginalize the communities they attack. Making sure these communities are cared for, protected and supported after an attack frustrates that goal. More policing isn't always the right answer, and certainly not the only one.

© Provided by Pro Publica, Inc.There was recently news coverage of leaked FBI threat assessments listing the promotion of an array of political conspiracy theories as a domestic menace. What did you make of that?

The FBI intelligence assessment declaring conspiracy theorists a domestic terrorism threat should worry all of us. It had a line defining conspiracy theorists as those who do not hold the "official" or "prevailing" view on a particular topic. Given that the intelligence community has often been the promoter of false narratives, particularly about the lawfulness of its own conduct, giving them license to target people who disagree with the "official" view is chilling. It is basically a declaration that the government will treat dissent as dangerous.

There was a recent case that has to puzzle the public. A Coast Guard lieutenant was arrested with guns and a target list of politicians and others, and held on firearms charges. At least one federal magistrate thought he deserved bail because the government had failed to provide evidence of terrorist acts and the simple gun charges didn't merit him being held without bail. A judge overturned the magistrate and kept the lieutenant held. All that can be hard to follow for an American public concerned about safeguarding its rights and its citizens. Thoughts?

It's difficult to talk about cases that have not yet gone to trial because there is little information available outside the government's allegations, which haven't been proven yet. But there are some principles of our legal system that should be applied in all cases, including this one, even though we seem to have moved far from them over the years. First, people are innocent until proven guilty. That means, absent government evidence that a defendant poses a threat to the public or to abscond, that person should be released until trial, and bond should only be used to guarantee appearance. Of course, many people with allegations that seem less serious than those against the Coast Guard officer don't receive bond, but that is a question for those judges and prosecutors, not the ones involved in this case.

Obviously the government initially failed to present evidence that justified pretrial confinement, so based on the charged conduct the judge considered bond. This result should happen more often, not less. When the government got its act together, added charges and presented evidence of a potential threat to the public, the judge ordered him held. The burden is on the government and shouldn't be met through sensationalized press releases but through reasonable evidence presented in court.

Second, prosecutors can only charge people with crimes they committed, not crimes the government thinks they might commit in the future. Lots of people stockpile weapons in this country. And if keeping a creepy diary is against the law, plenty of people will go to jail. Where the government has evidence that laws were broken, they have the power to act, which — ironically given the hyperbolic news coverage of this incident — they did here. The officer was arrested and is being prosecuted for crimes the government alleges he committed, so there seems to be no problem.

The Justice Department seems to have tried to make this into a test case for demanding new authorities, even though prosecutors obviously had enough evidence to address the threat. Compare this case to the Larry Hopkins case in New Mexico. There the FBI received a tip in 2017 that a formerly incarcerated felon who was the "commander" of a border militia group that harassed migrants was also planning to assassinate Hillary Clinton, George Soros and Barack Obama. The FBI went to Hopkins' trailer and recovered nine firearms he was not permitted to own due to his previous felony convictions, which included weapons charges and impersonating a police officer. The FBI did not arrest Hopkins and instead let him continue to operate with his militia group for 18 months, harassing migrants in the desert, until a video of his group pointing weapons at a group of migrants they detained went viral and sparked public outrage. Only then did the FBI take action.

Comparing the two cases, the FBI had much more significant evidence of potential dangerousness from Hopkins than from the Coast Guard officer, yet they took no action against Hopkins. I think they saw the Coast Guard officer's case as a ready-made scandal near D.C. that they could sensationalize to pressure Congress into passing a broad new domestic terrorism law. Obviously, they already had enough authority to arrest him on the drug and weapons charge, and his possession of illegal silencers. So there was no lack of authority to arrest him in the first place. It was a manufactured scandal.

What, if anything, is different today than two summers ago in Charlottesville concerning the threat of white supremacists and the government's response at all levels to it?

I think the violence in Charlottesville was a wake-up call for everyone. The media finally recognized that white supremacists were engaging in terrorism, too. The level of violence these far-right groups inflict has been persistent over time, but studies show that the media gave terrorist acts perpetrated by Muslims 350% more coverage than violence committed by other terrorists. The increased reporting post-Charlottesville eventually caused policymakers to take notice, which in turn compelled the FBI and Justice Department to begin to take these crimes more seriously. The media coverage drives public perception, which causes policymakers to act. It remains to be seen whether they react in a way that improves the situation and builds a more inclusive society, or makes it worse by giving law enforcement broad powers to continue targeting marginalized communities agitating for civil rights and changes in government policies

A labor of love from the public... This raises more questions about the inception of the FBI Division by one J. Edgar Hoover. More cover up by the FBI? Partial you say? The good cop, dirty cop concept in law enforcement? Nepotism at the inception of the FBI in 1929 by one J. Edgar Hoover and that of former US President Herbert Hoover? Were these men white supremacists? KKK? Does this same ideology spill over into the civil rights era of the 1950's and 1960's and assassinations of African American civil rights leaders? Do white race supremacists and black race supremacists associate themselves in private meetings? Is this done through surveillance and reporting to the FBI? To the CIA? Would this other arm of the law namely the KKK (KKK associated to Nazi War Criminal Joseph Dietrich - Gestapo police?) get all this information that is also reported to the FBI? Is this of the "classified" secret files contained within the FBI division? In the US military? NSA? Black Ops?
Did we find the woodpile of supremacists?

Subject: RE: Freedom Park Suicide

Good Morning, please read below the information relative to the referenced suicide;

On August 10, 2017 at approximately 0815 hours, I was notified of a deceased male at Gary Reese Freedom Park. I responded to Freedom Park at approximately 0830 hours and met with Deputy Marshal Sergeant Charles Seipel and Marshals Compson and Thatch. LVMPD patrol officers arrived shortly after.

Sergeant Seipel advised that City of Las Vegas Fire was notified by an unidentified caller of a sick or injured-white male in the park this morning at approximately 0739 hours. LVFD arrived and discovered 55 year-old Donald Wright, lying on his side on a picnic bench in the park. LVFD determined Wright was deceased.

The Deputy City Marshals arrived shortly after and cordoned off the scene with evidence tape.

Coroner's Office Investigators arrived at Freedom Park at approximately 1000 hours. They inventoried and photographed Wright's property at the scene. They found several bottles of prescription medication next to Wright and in his personal belongings. Next to the pill bottles was a note that read:

"Please let me say livin life just to have fun and play gets old especially once all the drugs are sold out then your left in the shadows."

A second note was found that provided an address for Wright's father and Wright's statement that he wanted to die.

The Coroner investigators saw no trauma on Wright's body. They found nothing that made them suspect Wright's death was related to foul play. Per the Coroner Investigators, the medication found at the scene was most commonly prescribed for schizophrenia, depression and epilepsy.

Davis mortuary personnel arrived at Freedom Park at approximately 1030 hours.

There were no media personnel at the scene.

A citizen by the name of Warren Foshee walked up next to the scene and stated a friend in the park called him and told him about Wright. Warren stated his son lives with the decedent's sister in Arkansas. The sister's name is Carol Doviall at 870-291-3285. Warren stated he has been a friend of the decedent for 6-7 years.

Wright's SCOPE record indicates he had two felony convictions; Possession of Controlled Substance and Arson 1st degree. He had a Murder charge in 1995 that was later dismissed. All other offenses were mostly drug related. Per Offendertrak, Wright was never incarcerated at the City Detention Center.

Please let me know if you need anything else.

Hi, All. Please be aware our DPS team is investigating an apparent suicide in Gary Reese Freedom Park. A black male adult, 55, was found dead at one of the picnic tables. Investigators say it appears he overdosed on some type of pills. Metro is assisting in the investigation. Those on the scene are waiting for the coroner to arrive at this time.

INVESTMENT COMPANY EXECUTIVES INDICTED FOR $1.5 BILLION PONZI SCHEME

WASHINGTON – The president and chief executive officer and two former Asia-based executives of a Las Vegas investment company were indicted today for their roles in an alleged $1.5 billion Ponzi scheme.

Assistant Attorney General Leslie R. Caldwell of the Justice Department's Criminal Division, U.S. Attorney Daniel G. Bogden of the District of Nevada and Special Agent in Charge Laura A. Bucheit of the FBI's Las Vegas Division made the announcement.

"The defendants allegedly preyed on thousands of unsuspecting Japanese victims to enrich themselves by operating a billion-plus dollar Ponzi scheme," said Assistant Attorney General Caldwell. "This prosecution shows that the Criminal Division will pursue not only those who victimize American citizens, but also those who use the U.S. as a home base to defraud victims abroad."

"Investment fraud and other financial fraud cases are a high priority for the U.S. Attorney's Office in Nevada," said U.S. Attorney Bogden. "These defendants are accused of using a Nevada corporation to conduct their $1.5 billion fraud scheme and falsely telling thousands of overseas victims that their investments would be safely held and managed by an independent, third-party escrow agent in Nevada. Fraudulent ruses and schemes perpetrated by Nevadans using Nevada corporations and entities will continue to be addressed by this office."

"These indictments are a reminder of the FBI's determination to identify, investigate and bring to justice those who are committing financial crimes against innocent consumers," said Special Agent in Charge Bucheit. "We are appreciative of the continued support we receive from our international, federal, state and local law enforcement partners."

Edwin Fujinaga, 68, of Las Vegas; Junzo Suzuki, 66, of Tokyo; and Paul Suzuki, 36, of Tokyo, were charged in an indictment with eight counts of mail fraud and nine counts of wire fraud. Fujinaga also is charged with three counts of money laundering. The indictment seeks from all three defendants forfeiture of the proceeds from the alleged crimes.

Fujinaga was the president and CEO of Las Vegas-based MRI International Inc. (MRI). Junzo Suzuki previously was MRI's executive vice president for Asia Pacific, and Paul Suzuki previously was the company's general manager for Japan operations. MRI purportedly specialized in "factoring," whereby the company purchased accounts receivable from medical providers at a discount, and then attempted to recover the entire amount, or at least more than the discounted amount, from the debtor.

According to allegations in the indictment, from at least 2009 to 2013, Fujinaga and the Suzukis fraudulently solicited investments from thousands of Japanese residents, and MRI currently owes investors over $1.5 billion. Specifically, the indictment alleges that Fujinaga and the Suzukis promised investors a series of interest payments that would accrue over the life of the investment and that would be paid out along with the face value of the investment at the conclusion of the investments' duration. The defendants allegedly solicited investments by, among other things, promising investors that their investments would be used only for the purchase of medical accounts receivable (MARS) and by representing that investors funds would be managed and safeguarded by an independent third-party escrow company.

The indictment further alleges that MRI operated as a Ponzi scheme, wherein the defendants used new investors' money to pay prior investors' maturing investments. According to the indictment, the defendants also allegedly used investors' funds for purposes other than the purchase of MARS, including paying themselves sales commissions, subsidizing gambling habits, funding personal travel by private jet, and other personal expenses.

The charges contained in an indictment are merely accusations. A defendant is presumed innocent until and unless proven guilty.

This case is being investigated by the FBI's Las Vegas Division. Significant assistance was provided by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, the Criminal Division's Office of International Affairs and Japanese authorities. This case is being prosecuted by Assistant Chief Albert B. Stieglitz Jr. and Trial Attorney Melissa Aoyagi of the Criminal Division's Fraud Section and First Assistant U.S. Attorney Steven W. Myhre of the District of Nevada.

Issue 136 – March 13, 2018

As the UNLV School of Medicine grows, one of our top priorities is establishing ourselves in the field of research. Lucky for us, we have experienced people to lead the way, including our Vice Dean for Research Dr. Parvesh Kumar. Parvesh has a very successful track record of leading medical research projects as well as overseeing and expanding entire research departments. Here at the UNLV School of Medicine, he's begun building the foundation from which multiple important research projects can germinate and grow. And, as he will tell you, it begins by creating the proper environment for intellectual collaboration.

SPAWNING TRANSDISCIPLINARY RESEARCH THROUGH CROSS-CAMPUS COLLABORATION

In the first meeting of the Clinical Research Working Group, Dr. Parvesh Kumar, the UNLV School of Medicine Vice Dean of Research, talked about the importance of collaboration.

Dr. Parvesh Kumar, the UNLV School of Medicine Vice Dean of Research, recently led the inaugural meeting of the Clinical Research Working Group (CRWG) at the school of medicine administration building. The overall objective of the CRWG is to increase transdisciplinary research across UNLV.

Representatives from several different schools attended, including faculty and residents from the clinical departments at the medical school. Also attending were representatives from UNLV Schools of Allied Health, Dental Medicine, Biomedical Sciences, Engineering, and Liberal Arts. Others on hand represented the UNLV Vice President of Research, the Supercomputing Institute, Cleveland Clinic Lou Ruvo Center for Brain Health and University Medical Center. Overall, a total of 25 representatives were present at this inaugural meeting — in the future, representation from the UNLV School of Medicine Year 2 and Year 3 medical students is planned.

Were you pleased with the turnout? "Yes, as almost all of the representative from the various clinical and translational departments and schools came to join forces and collaborate on research projects."

What typically holds people back from conducting research? "They can't find the time, they're too busy, and very often there is a lack of mentorship or guidance. They want to do research but don't know who to turn to. So we want to create a positive environment and venue for researchers to work together."

Why put so much emphasis on cross-campus collaboration? "I know from my own experience that progress in research is incremental, and it takes time. We're hoping to capitalize on the diversity of research and researchers that currently exists around UNLV. Moreover, funding for research is very competitive, so an innovative approach such as transdisciplinary research is likely to maximize the chances that our UNLV researchers will get funding."

Why is research so important in becoming a top tier university? "If you look at all the top tier universities and medical schools, they're known for research. Look at the University of Texas MD Anderson Cancer Center, Stanford University School of Medicine, Keck School of Medicine of USC — those are all top tier and they are known for making research discoveries. We have to ask ourselves, how are we going to distinguish ourselves from other universities."
One of the other key participants and supporters for this inaugural meeting was Dr. Mary Croughan, the new UNLV Vice President of Research. Dr. Croughan's research includes work on infertility that has been supported by the National Institutes of Health. She also helped develop research policy at the University of California, San Francisco School of Medicine. She also was executive director of the systemwide University of California Office of the President Research Grants Program.

Why promote cross campus collaboration? "Interdisciplinary research, wherein a team addresses and approaches complex questions from multiple perspectives and disciplines, provides more comprehensive answers to the difficult issues that we need to address as a society. By combining our approaches and methodologies, we arrive at more accurate and reliable conclusions."

Biggest challenges in the process? "A big challenge can be getting researchers to think creatively beyond their own standard disciplinary approaches, embracing the collective wisdom from multiple integrated disciplinary approaches."

How does the addition of the school of medicine help with cross campus research? "Significant strength already existed in health-related research at UNLV, but the addition of the medical school further broadens our expertise and capability."

Dr. Kumar made the clinical presentation at the inaugural meeting. He is currently the principal investigator of the Mountain West Clinical and Translational Research Infrastructure Network award, a five year, $20 million grant funded by the National Institute of Health — the largest grant at UNLV.

As the former chair of the department of radiation oncology at both the Rutgers Robert Wood Johnson Medical School and the University of Southern California Keck School of Medicine, Dr. Kumar has initiated clinical trials on prostate cancer through the U.S. Department of Defense and on head and neck cancer through the National Cancer Institute. He's also led or co-led several national cooperative group clinical trials in lung cancer, head and neck tumors, and prostate cancer.

Brian P. Hedlund, Ph.D., professor and researcher from the UNLV School of Life Sciences, made the basic science presentation, focusing on the effects of drugs and diet. He also presented on the human gastrointestinal microbiome, specifically on clostridium difficile, which causes over 600,000 infections, costing over $12 billion annually.

Both Drs. Kumar and Croughan voiced their genuine excitement about transdisciplinary research possibilities at UNLV. If the inaugural meeting of the Clinical Research Working Group is any indication, some of the brightest minds on campus are ready to begin leveraging their intellectual capital and energy to find solutions to complex health related problems and currently incurable diseases.

How to Reduce Health Costs By $900 Billion

There is no single magic bullet to rein in the high cost of health care for households, businesses, and governments. But lawmakers are currently sitting on policy proposals from Congressional committees and the President sufficient to reduce national health care costs by roughly $900 billion over the next decade, according to our estimates. About three-fifths of these savings would accrue to the federal government, while the rest would come in the form of lower premiums and out-of-pocket costs for individuals and reduced costs for businesses and state governments.

Over the past year, dozens of proposals to reduce health care savings have been put forward by the Senate Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions (HELP), Finance, and Judiciary Committees; the House Energy and Commerce, Judiciary, and Ways and Means Committees; and the President's budget. These proposals would reduce health care costs for households, businesses, states, and the federal government by decreasing the cost of prescription drugs, ending surprising billing, lowering excessive payments to health providers, and reducing the cost of defensive medicine, among other changes. Most of these ideas have been developed on a bipartisan basis and are supported by both parties.

New House Members Stress Importance of PAYGO

A group of ten new Democratic members of the House of Representatives sent a letter to House committee chairs on Wednesday urging them to better adhere to the Pay-As-You-Go (PAYGO) provision in House rules. As strong supporters of PAYGO, we couldn't agree more!

Even under current law, debt is projected to rise to 95 percent of Gross Domestic Product by 2029 – higher than any time in history except for two years towards the end of World War II. PAYGO is a series of rules, laws, and norms designed to prevent lawmakers from further adding to the debt – essentially mandating that all new spending or tax cuts be paid for with spending cuts or revenue. Failure to abide by PAYGO could easily result in debt exceeding its prior record by 2030 or sooner.

Break Glass Here: A Responsible Plan to Combat the Next Recession

The United States is in the midst of one of the longest periods of sustained economic growth in its history, but there are signs that this prolonged expansion may be coming to an end. The inversion of the Treasury bond yield curve and recent Federal Reserve rate cut suggests that markets and experts are expecting the economy to soften. We need to be prepared to combat the next economic downturn.

Given today's low interest rates, the Federal Reserve will have only limited ability to fight the next recession with monetary policy alone, and fiscal stimulus will almost certainly be needed. But debt is at post-World War II era record-high levels and growing rapidly, so any further expansions in the deficit must be enacted judiciously. Failure to stem rising debt levels will mean slower long-term economic growth and less fiscal space to respond to future recessions or other priorities and emergencies.

Still, policymakers should not allow the very serious threat of rising long-term debt to prevent them from considering near-term stimulus if the economy weakens substantially. In fact, we recommend that policymakers develop a "Break the Glass" stimulus package in advance of the next recession so that it can be activated quickly once the downturn begins. That plan should do the following:

- Increase spending and cut taxes through policies with high "bang for buck"
- Credibly ramp up stimulus as the economy is weakening and withdraw stimulus as the economy recovers
- Offset near-term deficit increases through gradual long-term deficit reduction

Proposition 105 called for an end to funding for any expansion of Valley Metro's LRT, including canceling extensions already approved by the voters, while Proposition 106 called for a cap on city spending until at least 90% of its pension liabilities are funded. Making the Rounds with Founding Dean Dr. Barbara Atkinson

Issue 150 – June 19, 2018

Recruiting medical professionals to Las Vegas is an exciting challenge. Lately we've had great success. Each additional physician we hire is an achievement to be celebrated — because it not only helps us build the UNLV School of Medicine, it's helping a community that is woefully short on doctors. Dr. Amber Champion is a wonderful addition to our staff. As you're about to learn, she is quite passionate about her chosen specialty of endocrinology in part because she is living with diabetes. Who better to treat newly diagnosed patients, counseling them about diet and exercise than someone facing similar challenges herself? As a faculty physician, she is knowledgeable and extremely relatable to our students. I hope you enjoy getting to know Dr. Champion, and I encourage you to reach out and welcome her to the team.

A CHAMPION FOR HER PATIENTS

Dr. Amber Champion inside the UNLV Medicine Endocrinology clinic.

If you ask Dr. Amber Champion why she's now a UNLV Medicine endocrinologist with an emphasis in diabetes, she begins by telling you a story that's set in Australia, a story about an abnormally hungry 27-year-old medical student who ended up in the emergency room with blurry vision and an unquenchable thirst — a young woman whose car broke down, whose bicycle burned up.

The truth is that this UNLV School of Medicine Assistant Professor's path to the practice of endocrinology smacks of a run-in with Murphy's Law: "Anything that can go wrong will go wrong."

The year was 2004. Champion, a native of Washington state, was then a third year medical student at Flinders University of South Australia in Adelaide. Over a period of days her life changed and then changed some more. Her car broke down so she began riding a bicycle. Then her bike broke down so she took it to a bike shop. For some time she had felt unusually thirsty and hungry, yet she was losing weight, no matter how much she ate, then came the onset of blurry vision, and she ended up into the emergency room.

"When I woke up, I found out tests showed I had Type 1 diabetes — the symptoms I was having weren't unusual for someone with diabetes — and I no longer had a bicycle," she says, laughing. "The bicycle shop burned down... It was one thing after another…. "It's actually pretty funny in retrospect... "When I woke up in the hospital and thought about all that had happened over a short time, all I could say was,"Really?'"

Going into her third year of medical school, Dr. Champion was sure OB/GYN would be her area of specialization. That all changed, however, with her diagnosis of diabetes as she lay in a hospital bed.

"I received a crash course in diabetes, taking insulin, and learning about carbohydrates... I changed gears to pursue an internal medicine residency, followed by a fellowship in endocrinology, diabetes and metabolism... There's no cure for diabetes but it is treatable. Education plays a huge role in diabetes self management and we can all live healthier and longer if we're given the right tools to manage it... I try to provide that today... I now tell patients that I won't manage their diabetes, they manage their own diabetes. I'm just here to give them the tools to self-manage, suggest different medications, or be their cheerleader — whatever is needed."

There are two main types of diabetes: Type 1, an autoimmune disease, and Type 2, a metabolic disorder. Both are chronic diseases that affect the way the body regulates blood sugar or glucose. Glucose is the fuel that feeds the body's cells, but to enter cells it needs a key. Insulin is the key. People with Type I diabetes don't produce insulin. People with Type 2 diabetes don't respond to insulin as well as they should and later in the disease often don't make enough insulin. Both types can lead to chronically high blood sugar levels, increasing the risk of diabetes complications, which include: cardiovascular disease, nerve damage (neuropathy), and kidney damage (nephropathy).

Champion — as an endocrinologist she specializes in all things relating to our hormones — notes that 30 million Americans have diabetes, with the vast majority having Type 2. For a good discussion about the causes, risk factors, and the diagnosis of diabetes, go to http://www.cdc.gov/media/presskits/aahd/diabetes.pdf.

"Type 1 diabetes, which I have, can appear at any age, but it's most commonly first seen among children." says Dr. Champion, who daily uses an insulin pump to keep her blood sugar levels in a safe range.

Dr. Champion, who as a young girl wanted to be a firefighter, remains fascinated by the study of hormones. She completed her fellowship in endocrinology at the University of Arizona and practiced in both Maryland and Nebraska prior to coming to UNLV five months ago.

"Hormones are the messengers between different glands or organs in the body — we can't live without them. Some endocrine diseases (including types of pituitary, parathyroid, thyroid and adrenal disease) are rare and patients depend on their endocrinologist to advocate for them, for correct treatment, public awareness, and to make sure their insurance company covers their needs. Other endocrine disorders, like diabetes, are more common, which means lots of new technology and drugs are on the market for treatment or to make our lives with diabetes easier. Since education is such a big part of diabetes care, I think I can speak for most doctors that we are elated when a patient has understood the role their diet and lifestyle play and make changes for the better."

Today, she points out that many people in high level stress positions, including U.S. Supreme Court Justice Sonia Sotomayor as well as pro athletes (NFL quarterback Jay Cutler is a Type 1 diabetic) manage their diabetes well.

"I can't stress enough how important education is," says the physician. "It's the key to living a full life with diabetes."

Subject: ATTENTION PLEASE...Elder Abuse...

Dear Commissioner,

We've met at a previous panel for VIPI and as a member of Veterans in Politics I sometimes come across various situations that may be beyond my comfort zone. Yesterday was one such example; I have a friend who lives in your area at [redacted]. Her name is Nancy Spilotro. Nancy is an elderly lady of 76 years of age, she has a son named Vincent who now resides with her although he is seldom there. Now, Nancy has a fairly famous name in this town, chiefly behind the activities her late husband is rumored to have been part of. That being said, no one deserves to be living in the conditions that she now survives through.

On Sunday, I went to check on her and it was bad, extremely bad. I've been wanting to get Nancy into a program for quite sometime now, but she believed her son would make everything okay. That didn't happen. To describe the situation is difficult, I am not ashamed to say that is is so bad that I actually shed a tear when I got home...There is dog, cat feces and urine everywhere in the house. No flush handle on the toilet, not a clean dish in site, no faucet handle on the kitchen sink no gas a stove with one dial and one working burner if the gas was on. etc.. etc.. etc.. As the lady from the fire dept said today she can smell it from the front door she doesn't need to see.

Nancy asked to be taken to hospital today so I called ambulance she was having chest pain...She is now at Sunrise and I'm looking to get her into some type of assisted living program. It would be horrific in my eyes to allow this lady to go back into this environment. The other parts of the abuse she's suffering deals with her SS benefits and prescription drugs that her son seems to be taking from her. She mentioned that him and his wife have both put hands on her in the past. I find this absolutely unacceptable and I hope you do to...

As a bit of a side note, I had gone to check on her because I mentioned her to the Mayor on Sat. and she told me to have her call her. I had no idea things had gotten this bad or I would have mentioned this to Mayor Goodman. I write you on directions from Steve Sanson based on her being a resident in your area. Can you help???

3 Questions Environmental Attorneys Have About The CWA

The Obama administration's controversial interpretation of the term "waters of the United States" in the Clean Water Act put the 45-year-old statute at the center of one of the most hotly contested environmental policy debates in recent years, and there are plenty of other gray areas when it comes to how the CWA should be put into practice. EXPERT ANALYSIS

Gig Economy: The Case For Local Regulation Of Ride Apps

"The operation of taxicabs is a local business," declared the U.S. Supreme Court more than 60 years ago. Hence, standards for on-demand transportation exist at the local or state level to adapt to local needs and the regulatory and political climate of the locality. The onset of ride-sharing has significantly altered this dynamic, says Peter Mazer, general counsel of the Metropolitan Taxicab Board of Trade in New York.

Inversion Rules Avoid Root Cause Of Problem

Thwarting inversions by issuing rules is easier than bringing parties to the table to negotiate meaningful corporate tax reform, but that's what needs to be done. Hello Mayor Goldmark, HVD Rx Programs can typically reduce drug spend by about 31%. See HealthValueDirect (HVD) below.

"One of the drivers of low value in health care is the continuous entrance of new drugs that add no value to care." Donald Berwick MD, The Triple Aim.

FDA focus is on safety, not on whether a drug works. Many drugs that don't work... have exorbitant rates.
Below: •Mayo Clinic Petition ...Offended by excessive cost & nominal benefit, clinicians call for value.
•Memorial Sloan Kettering very publicly refuses to carry Zaltrap.

If insurers can't unravel PBM pricing/ achieve value...how can employers? Employers are paying for low value.

How To Control American Drug Costs 11/10/16 by Brian Klepper (HVD) TheCollabRxBlog
Summary/outline by Bill Cole, marketer of HVD.

Congress received $3.3 billion in campaign contributions from the pharmaceutical sector between 1997-2015, or a stunning $343,000 per legislator per year. (opensecrets.org)
Congress' prohibits Medicare from negotiating drug prices. (Commercial health plans largely/blindly follow Medicare's lead).

U.S. drug pricing.. has two core problems JAMA 2016:
1 "we have granted government-protected monopolies to drug manufacturers"
2 Medicare is required to cover new drugs – including sub-optimal ones – priced at whatever the market will bear.

For perspective on this...
"MOST cancer drug approvals have not been shown to, or do not, improve clinically relevant end points." JAMA 2015
See also •Why Does the FDA Approve Cancer Drugs That Don't Work? 10/22/15 thehealthcareblog
... with surrogate end points ... there is even LESS focus on whether a drug works.

Cleopatra Oncology Trial authors dropped a bombshell: "The addition of pertuzumab (at $713,219).. is unlikely to provide reasonable value for money spent in the US compared with other interventions generally deemed cost effective."
"There is a crucial step in the drug development and approval process that is missing-- an evaluation of cost and value." Dr. Goldstein has urged the FDA to develop, refine and adopt a framework that establishes value-based pricing for all oncology drugs seeking approval. Daniel Goldstein MD.
Value methodologies do exist.
•The Institute for Clinical and Economic Review (ICER) independently assesses the value of new drugs.
•The American Society of Clinical Oncology recently unveiled its drug value framework,
•The Center for Health Policy and Outcomes at Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center.
- - - - -
Most DO NOT CALL FOR VALUE.
•Cancer care is so lucrative ONE IN FOUR health systems is now building a cancer center.
•besides use of the most expensive drugs available... there's plain old egregious pricing **:
HighMark claims UPMC hospital network has Over-Billed it by $300 million for cancer drugs since 2010.
Pittsburgh Post-Gazette 9/4/14 Billing of the service is shifted... from doctor office to hospital outpatient.
"Chemo treatments that once cost Highmark $10,000 now cost more than $30,000."
Funny Anecdote: Highmark's own Allegheny Health Network has long engaged in these same billing practices.
A few CALL FOR VALUE--
•Mayo Clinic's petition to "..Lower the High Price of Cancer Drugs" In the past, it has been all but forbidden to consider cost, but clinicians have been so offended by excessive cost & nominal benefit, they have begun to mobilize. 118 leading oncologists from major cancer centers signed Mayo's petition.

RE: Keep your current PBM/s, add our Rx program/s.
Health Value Direct. Brian Klepper, principal
HVD has developed reseller relationships with high performance organizations.
Direct Contracting with high performing vendors is a market approach, and a huge win for patients & purchasers.
You keep your BCBS/Aetna/UHC administrator -- but will still use them to process claims for the direct contracts.
Health Systems -- very few are going through the agony now of laying in the tools and trying to shift the culture so they can change utilization & cost patterns.
Health Plans -- make a % of total cost... incentive to make health care cost more.
Health Plans avoid high performance organizations, because they disrupt their conventional network care/cost patterns and reduce the revenues associated with over-treatment.
"Providers need to be rewarded because they are high performers, rather than because they have improved" Paul Ginsburg PhD (low performers / "quality improvers" "care improvers" would lose market share (Economics 101).
Risk is managed. It may be financial, clinical or administrative...depending on program/s selected.
Programs target waste. They go beyond excellent care delivery.
Many programs operate outside of the CPT code system. HVD should be recruited to help.

Typical Net Savings With Select High Performance Programs*

Program	Niche As A % Of Total Health Care Spend
Rx Programs	22.00%	Savings Within Niche 31%	= 6.90%
Musculosketal Mgmt	15.00%	Savings Within Niche 25%	= 3.75%
Oncology Mgmt	12.00%	Savings Within Niche 20%	= 2.40%

We take no money from vendors. Most of our fees are tied to documented performance.

Rx Programs.... Drug spend is 22% of total health care spend.
Our vendor can typically reduce drug spend by about 31%, or 6.9% of total health care spend.
Each program 2.3%. All 3 programs 6.9%, a huge amount!

1 Rx Pricing Optimization.. reviews a plan sponsor's PBM arrangements to determine the "spread" (PBM profit) and whether more favorable terms are available. Then it will find those better deals.

Rx Programs: No barriers to entry. No new cost. Only requirement is Rx claims data. 1 and 3 No Disruption. Any Size Group.

Musculoskeletal Management program. (LARGE GROUPS) 15,000 lives in a market to begin.
HVD's vendor has 30,000 patients, including in Fortune 100 firms.
Our program can reduce spending within the niche by 35%, dropping total health spend by 5-7%. (25% guaranteed). Bolting on this one firm's know-how - and going around the conventional orthopedists offered by your health plan--can save 5-7%. The 'musculoskeletal clinic' can stand alone or be housed in an existing doctor office.
•Musculoskeletal is 4.5% of U.S. GDP. Inappropriate musculoskeletal care is 2% of U.S. GDP.

Cancer Management program. (LARGE GROUPS) 20,000 covered lives catchment to begin (single group or collaborative).
Our vendor drives care according to rigorous science-based guidelines, •50% reduction in hospitalizations. •40% reduction in emergency visits. •8x increase in hospice conversion. Patients report a better experience than with conventional care. For background:
•Is Cost Of Cancer Care Ground Zero For Reform? 10/13/15 Klepper TheDoctorWeighsIn

Dialysis Management. Any Size Group. No Barriers To Entry. No Disruption. Significant Savings.
Dialysis industry is dominated by only 2 major players. Case study....by intervening early and working with an INDEPENDENT provider, we negotiated an all-inclusive bundled rate of $800 per treatment.

Out-of-Network Claims Settlement. ANY SIZE GROUP. Good Starter Program.. NO NEW COST.
Post UHC/ Ingenix $350 million scandal..."It's worse." Employee out-of-pocket costs for out-of-network care have gone up.
"It's gotten worse because the out-of-network amount that insurers are paying has gone down." NAIC health committee chair
..... The firm HVD has settled on averages an impressive 52% savings off charges.
•Compare with 10%-15% by UCR repricing or PPO wrap network discounts. 15% off = your wrap "negotiators" aren't negotiating.
•Objective reimbursement standards (not a % off subjective billed charges). •Guaranteed 48 hour turnaround time.

Other program areas: imaging mgmt, large case mgmt, transplant mgmt, hemophilia, cardiometabolic mgmt; Clinic RFP/evaluation services, surgeries, hospital costs, Second Opinion, Hepatitis C treatment (at a fraction of the $84,000 per treatment US price).

Subject: It's happening tonight.

Extraordinary bipartisan achievements are possible.

View this email in your browser

Dear Friends,

Every year I look forward to the President's State of the Union. Whether the President is a Democrat or a Republican, I enjoy hearing their vision for our great Country. The State of the Union is often used for major policy initiatives, and this is of particular interest to Nevadans.

I look forward to hearing President Trump's vision for choosing greatness tonight, February 5th at 6:00 pm on your favorite local news station.

One of our Nevada families are special guests, and they will join the President and First Lady at the U.S. Capitol when President Donald J. Trump delivers the second State of the Union Address of his presidency.

This year's guests come from all different walks of life, and each has an incredible story to tell. No matter their background, each one has something important in common: They represent the very best of America.

Meet the special people who will join the First Lady and President Trump:

Debra Bissell, Heather Armstrong, and Madison Armstrong

Gerald and Sharon David of Reno, Nevada, were tragically murdered in their home in Nevada by an illegal immigrant in January 2019. The terrible loss has devastated both their community and three generations of their family who will be represented at the State of the Union: the Davids' daughter Debra, granddaughter Heather, and great-granddaughter Madison.

In this day of divisive political discourse, I look forward to President Trump continuing to make history by promoting extraordinary bipartisan proposals that support every American. From what I have seen, this administration puts people before politics.

I am very excited to hear President Trump talk about Immigration, American workers, Infrastructure, Healthcare, and prescription drugs and America's leadership around the World with greater National Security and peace.

We need a safe and legal immigration's system that Democrats and Republicans can agree on and work together. That system must include border security, protection for migrants and their children from human traffickers and we must stem the import of drugs and criminals into our country.

Our current trade agreements do not protect our workers. Democrats and Republicans should be able to agree that we should amend or replace any trade agreement that doesn't protect our workers and maximizes their paychecks.

Our Mayor, Mayor Carolyn Goodman traveled to Washington DC last year for a meeting with President Trump to discuss infrastructure. I look forward to the President outlining his proposals to upgrade and update America's infrastructure needs.

I'm looking forward to hearing President Trump's vision to reign in Healthcare & prescription drug costs. This subject hits me personally. My mother is currently taking a prescription that costs $924 a month under Medicare. It is unreasonable that any American must borrow money to stay alive and well. I believe with all my heart that Democrats and Republicans can work together to find a solution to the rising health care and prescription drug costs our citizens are facing.

Also, I look forward to hearing President Trump outline his vision for restoring America's leadership position around the World and how that will be a big part of our national security and keeping Americans safe.

In closing, I am proud of the accomplishments made by this administration. I believe in President Trump's message about Choosing Greatness and putting people before politics. If we work together as we play together, America is unstoppable.

Think about that for a minute; you don't meet someone or date someone or work with someone and ask, "Are you a Democrat or are you a Republican?" We meet people, and we generally like one another. Democrats and Republicans aren't enemies in real life only in partisan politics.

I believe in our President's ability to solve problems, offer solutions with a bipartisan appeal that are both doable and practical.

Record President Trump's State of The Union and watch him produce what he says he will.

With love and respect for each of you,

Proskauer Atty Says Judge Undercut Gender Bias Case

A Proskauer Rose LLP attorney locked in a gender discrimination battle with the firm told the Second Circuit on Wednesday that a federal judge undermined her ability to prove her claims when she refused to order mediation services provider JAMS Inc. to turn over pre-suit mediation notes that purportedly documented a Proskauer representative's retaliatory threat to fire her. Subject: 5- 10min. welcome to the 32 Annual Intoxilyzer User's Group
Start Date/Time: Mon 8/29/2016 4:00:00 PM
End Date/Time: Mon 8/29/2016 4:30:00 PM

Darby [redacted]
The conference, officially titled The 32 Annual Intoxilyzer User's Group, is being held August 29 - September 1, 2016. If able, we would love to have Mayor Goodman give a welcome. It would be the morning on August 29th, probably around 9am (we are still working on the schedule). V'Dara is the host hotel/conference center. A 30 minute welcome to Las Vegas, and maybe something regarding DUI's or Alcohol/Drugs would be awesome. We are hoping for 100-110 attendees - comprised of a mix of police officers, scientists and technicians.

DAYS UNTIL NEVADA DEMOCRATIC PRESIDENTIAL CAUCUS: 184

DAYS UNTIL 2020 GENERAL ELECTION: 439

Good morning, everyone. Most of you know I have kept sane all these years covering Nevada politics by having a sense of humor so I don't A. Go bonkers and B. Kill someone. But this latest round of school funding shenanigans, where there are no heroes (at least not yet) leaves me bereft of humor or sympathy. More below, but one insider said it best: "What really sucks is that they aren't (f----ing) helping make the case to fund our schools. All those people who might support a strike won't vote for a tax increase. They support the teachers and think our schools need more money, but they don't want to pay more into the mismanaged mess that is CCSD. (F—k). Same old story, but (f—k). Yes. Indeed. F—k.

What's below: School strike, Leg Commish, Morning Flash nuggets and a trivia question about a gaming purchase.

COMING UP

I'm rushing this AM to get to the RTC's clean energy summit where I am moderating an all-star panel. Alas, I am not driving there in a Tesla.

EVERYONE'S MAD

The governor is mad. Legislators are mad. John Vellardita is mad. Jesus Jara is mad. Teachers, or many of them at least, are mad.

It is….maddening.

Our Jackie Valley captured it well. The incessant moving of the goalposts contrasted with the incessant "we did everything we could" cries from the Gang of 63. Maybe it's not ALL about money, but it sure as hell is a lot about money.

I'm told the governor went into that meeting, let both players have it and made it clear he will use the power of his office (What does Vellardita make? A half-mil? More on Jara's fancy bike?) to let them have it if there is a strike. He said the 3 percent raise and 2 percent step increases were sacrosanct. Alas, too many smart people I know think Velardita wants a strike (CCEA moved the goalposts again last night and added more money than he said they needed) to get more national attention. Maybe you can excuse his thuggish tactics because of what's at stake and been at stake. Maybe. But the politics of subtraction eventually leaves you with….nothing.

I have never sensed so much frustration from….everybody. It's not surprising. The "we did our best, wait until next session and we will do better" refrain has worn thin, especially for teachers and parents. This is not going to end well, whether or not there is a strike.

LEG COMMISSION APPOINTMENTS

I got a look at the tentative interim committee memberships and chairs. I'll share the latter and the vice-chairs (some may be reversed and official list coming soon):

A COUPLE OF MORNING FLASH NUGGETS

Nugget No. 2 -- Wynn in Palm Beach.

TRIVIA QUESTION OF THE DAY

On this date in history, a major gaming company founded by a legend bought a Strip property three years after the death of the casino's owner. Who bought what?

Wednesday's winner: Gaming journalist Howard Stutz

The question: Ten years ago on this day, a man died who was as much of a pioneer of one kind of casino as Steve Wynn and Sheldon Adelson and Kirk Kerkorian were of Strip casinos. Who was he?

The answer: Frank Fertitta, Jr.
